Warrendale

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Johnson spent the weekend in Portland. Clifford Stenier tried his overhauling job on his car, driving to Portland and Oregon City to visit friends over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Haggart left last week for their home in Portland to stay until the cold weather abates.

Mrs. Mike Thompson got tired of waiting for a load of wood to come for the Thompson's big fireplace. She sharpened up the family axe, attacked a two-foot tree and succeeded in cutting and splitting it entirely.

Hugh Klingbeil spent his 5th day at home with a severe cold Monday. Mrs. Klingbeil gave a birthday and Valentine's day party in his honor Sunday evening, his birthday having been February 14. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Woods and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Cook.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Gaudin and daughter, Dora, spent the weekend in Portland.

Warrendale women are reported to have raided their husband's wardrobes last week and this in search of red flannels and other heavy winter clothing. Many of the residents originally came from southern California and other states where ice and snow is rare around construction jobs.

Mrs. L. E. Stevens accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Gaudin to Portland Thursday shopping and visiting friends.

Mrs. G. C. Blegen and small son, Garry, have been ill for over a week with influenza but are recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Roxy Hill were worried most of last week about their son, Keith. Keith went to Corbett Tuesday afternoon to see a school basketball game. That night the highway was blocked by snow slides along its entire length, so Keith stayed with friends. He was unable to telephone, because the lines were down, and the Hills heard nothing from their son until he appeared about midnight Friday.

Mrs. B. F. Carter was hostess Wednesday afternoon to the Warrendale Women's Wednesday Sewing club.

Miss Jean Matthews and party of friends from Portland visited Mr. and Mrs. Ted Johnson and children Sunday afternoon. Miss Matthews is Mrs. Johnson's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. John Myers spent the weekend in Portland.

Mrs. Joe Bucher was scheduled to entertain the Bonnie Park Wednesday Women's Sewing club at her home yesterday.

Charles Beatie, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beatie, spent the weekend visiting relatives and friends in Oregon City.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. McGrady spent Saturday in Portland on business. "Mac" had to go in again over the icy roads Monday.

Mrs. Charles Robertson is still visiting friends and relatives at Brownsville. She plans to return as soon as the icy weather abates. In the meantime, Mr. Robertson is busy overhauling his radio transmitter, W7BVH, with which he has recently talked with England and the Philippine islands.

Mrs. J. B. Lash has recovered from her bad cold of last week.

Mrs. John Karg has been sprinkling bread in her back yard for the birds ever since the cold weather began. Now, she says, she is more than repaid for her trouble by the entertainment of watching a number of pairs of thrushes, robins and crows squabbling over who gets the biggest piece.

GOOD BOOKS FEATURE NEW DAM GIFT SHOP

A lending library of the best in mystery, adventure and fiction was opened this week by Mrs. Mary Davis in the Bonneville Gift shop, next to the Roosevelt Theatre on the dam reservation.

Mrs. Davis plans to operate in addition to the library, a shop where men may buy gifts for women under her expert guidance. Mrs. Davis has had considerable experience in gift selection. Cut flowers and corsages from Tommy Luke, florist of Portland, will be available Tuesdays and Thursdays at Portland prices. Bridge supplies, school supplies, children's toys and a large assortment of other items will be carried. Additional books will be added to the library on popular request.

LOCKS CHURCH SERVICES

"Liberty" will be the subject of the service at 11 a. m. at the Cascade Locks community church Sunday, according to the Rev. L. G. Weaver. "Building Anew," will be the evening topic at 7:30 p. m.

SCOUT RALLY CHANGED

Boy Scouts of Hood River county will hold a rally in Cascade Locks March 3 instead of March 5, scout headquarters announced this week. M. L. Morgan, scoutmaster of troop 300 of Cascade Locks, is making arrangements for a suitable rallying place for the county's troops to compete.
