LIGHTS OUT: THEATRE MANAGER GROANS LOUD

Sid Phillips, manager of the Roosevelt theatre on the Bonneville dam reservation, was a happy man early Sunday evening as he surveyed a near full-house viewing the picture, "G-Men."

But his smile turned to a frown shortly. The lights flickered, went out. The frown grew deeper as an hour passed with almost continuous interruptions to the current. Patrons, a number coming from Corbett, Friday Veil, and Viento, were finally sent home, their money refunded.

Phillips and J. J. Parker, Roosevelt theatre owner, this week are conferring with power company officials to solve the current interruption problem. A satisfactory arrangement assuring theatre-goers of uninterrupted programs is expected.

TIME TO BURN SLASH IS NOW, SAYS RANGER

All property owners of the dam area are reminded by District Ranger Roy L. Weeman of Columbia Gorge station east of Cascade Locks that now is an ideal time to burn all debris and slashings.

State law, for violations of which penalties are prescribed, orders slashings and all inflammable debris to be disposed of to lessen the fire hazard, according to Ranger Weeman. The forest service, acting for the state, will soon start to serve notice on persons whose property presents a fire hazard. The state has authority to burn slashings and debris after due notice and charge the cost to the property owner who has failed to comply with the law.

BADMINTON ATTRACTS MANY PLAYERS AT DAM
