BONNEVILLE
(By Florence Gudhart)

The two new girls in the first grade room are Blanche Herbert of Chicago, Ill., and Jacqueline Downing of Portland, Oregon.

The first grade girls plan to have a butterfly dance for the eighth grade graduation on May 8th. Little Frances Lanus will do a solo dance but what she is to be is to be kept a secret.

Those on the Health Honor Roll for the last week from the sixth and seventh grades are: Sixth—Bill Murray, Elinor Miller, Vilma Venohr, Virgil Anderson, Jimmy Dow. Seventh—Edith Shinn, Ione Goodrich, Leota Parks, Gerald Jubie, Dale Lewis, Harold Jubie, Harry Smith.

Graduation will be held Monday evening, May 11, at the Civic auditorium at 8 o'clock. Parents and friends are cordially invited.

Robert Rintoul returned to the second grade Monday after having been absent for a month because of illness.

ond grade from Hood River.

McLane Downing of the Reservation has entered the third grade from the Mills Open Air school in Portland.

Every child enrolled in the third and fourth grades was present Monday. All are trying hard to complete the year's work in time to have some extra time for additional activities.

Corbett came to Bonneville last Thursday to battle with the soft ball teams of the grade school. The girls' game was a feature of poor plays and overthrows. Because of lack of time and lack of pencils the game was called so the boys could get their game over in time for Corbett to meet their bus schedule.

The boys' game was exciting all the way through with the final score 8 to 7 in favor of the visitors.

The coming schedule to be played at Bonneville, games to start at 1 p.m., follows: Wednesday, April 22, Wilkes; Friday, April 24, Troutdale; Tuesday, April 28, Cascade Locks; Monday, May 4, Fairview.

CASCADE LOCKS LOCKS HIGH SCHOOL

(By William Morgan)

The Girls' league held its picnic Monday afternoon in MacKinnon's big yard.

The sophomore class picnic was held yesterday at Multnomah falls. The group hiked over the steep trail between Multnomah and Wahkeena falls following their lunch. Those going were: Rosemary Todd, Laurie Brink, Henry Brink, Virginia Tessler, Jim Fuger, Marguerite MacKinnon, Norva Jenkins and Miss Theodora Gustafson.

Miss Theodora Gustafson motored to Newport and the Oregon ocean beaches Sunday.

Roasting wienies and marsmalows was the order of the evening for Rosemary Todd, Barbara Smith, Virginia Tessler, Geraldine Rankin, Clem Kollenburn, Henry Brink, Laurie Brink and Jim Fuger Sunday evening at Viento state park.

LOCKS GRADE SCHOOL

(By Robert Morgan)

The third and fourth grade began the study of flora of the Cascade Locks area this week. The pupils are bringing in specimens they find near town and striving to identify them.

Locks grade school pupils are looking forward to final examinations. They are reviewing their subjects in hopes of getting good grades when the time comes next month. Language classes are writing original poems for their collection.

Spring sunshine is giving many pupils the wanderlust as well as their parents. Carl Richart accompanied his parents to Hood River Sunday to visit Grandmother Waker and to attend church.

Raymond and Bobby McLeod traveled to Portland with their parents over the weekend and report many fruit orchards in full bloom.

Lenore Sweeney was almost alone over the weekend when her parents went to Portland. Betty Jeanne Jenkins and Lorraine Raymond Lewis both accompanied their parents to

WHISKER DERBY
HALF OVER; 36
STILL RUNNING

By Bob Mariels

There seems to have been some misunderstanding among mustache derby contestants about the consolation prize, so perhaps this will clear it up.

Any contestant who has snaved his upper lip since starting the contest April will naturally be eliminated from the running (pardon, we mean growing). The consolation prize will go to the poorest mustache grown during the entire derby.

Jack Lacey broke two ribs in some sort of unexplained accident one afternoon last week. This is hurting his chances in the derby because so much of his strength is going to mending his ribs instead of growing a soup-strainer.

Many pre-derby favorites have dropped out. In fact, list is down to 36.

Will Columbia Construction company's entries please drop in at contest headquarters, French's barber shop, so the inspector can see how they are doing? As far as we know, none of them have been in and we would like to post a bulletin on their progress, if any.

For the benefit of those who have inquired, the large gentleman with the blond cookie-duster, working behind the French's counter, is not Charlie Chan on vacation. He is the now unrecognizable owner of the place, L. M. French. According to his version, the speed of his car was retarded last week by the resistance offered by his mustache when he leaned out the window.

FIRE DAMAGES BONNY
VILLA TAVERN SUNDAY

Patrons of Bonny Villa tavern went lunchless Monday noon as the result of a fire in the kitchen the previous evening.

A small pan of gasoline, being used for cleaning, ignited about 9 p.m. Sunday, sending a cloud of fire and smoke through the tavern, searing patrons but doing little damage. The blaze was extinguished in a hurry with a chemical extinguisher. Monday was spent by Hal Babbitt, Rolf Enquist and Jimmy Tanner, tavern proprietors, in cleaning the smoked-up woodwork.

The fire delayed the boys' plans for remodeling their kitchen Sunday evening without discommoding their clients. A new oil-burning range was installed Monday and the entire kitchen rearranged and modernized for faster and better service.

"Soak the Rich," coming to the Roosevelt theatre Friday and Saturday, deals with the current unrest on the campus and in the drawing room, but, instead of "viewing with alarm" and moralizing about the drift of the younger generation, Hecht and MacArthur poke fun with sparkling dialogue that in places verges on slapstick. their humorous slant on the contemporary scene with the aid of such able performers as Walter Connolly, in the role of the harassed millionaire; John Howard of "Annapolis Farewell" fame, as a rebellious student at the university endowed by Connolly, and Mary Taylor, New York society girl model, as the willful, spoiled daughter of Connolly, in love with the radical undergraduate.

Though it solves no economic problems, "Soak the Rich" does provide considerable fun. There are good-natured jibes at tax legislation, G-men, the present administration, varying shades of radicalism and would-be saviors of the world.

With Ronald Colman at the head of an amazing list of stars and featured players, one of the great photoplays of all time shows Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Roosevelt. It is "A Tale of Two Cities," from Charles Dickens' celebrated novel.

For a breathless 90 minutes, the screen fairly throbs with scenes of romance, adventure and spectacular magnitude. The story is intimately known to millions of readers, the tale and adventures of a little group of people, both French and English, caught in the maelstrom of the French revolution of 1789. Specifically, it tells of the strange love of Sidney Carton, played by Colman, for Lucie Manette, played by Elizabeth Allan, a love doomed to frustration in life, yet which is greater than death.

For spectacular values, "A Tale of Two Cities" probably surpasses anything that has yet come to the sound screen. Swinging from 18th century London to Paris and back again, it depicts the revolt of the French peasantry, takes the audience right through the storming of the Bastille in realistic fashion. Royalists go under the knife of the guillotine, and with them Colman, to save the woman he loved.

Hair's-breadth escapes, thrills of running automobiles, battles and airplane pursuits, the amazing cleverness of a dog, and the comradeship of three oddly-assorted characters are to be found in "Tough Guy," MGM's new drama of the government secret service, coming Wednesday and Thursday.

Jackie Cooper, Joseph Calleia and Rin Tin Tin, Jr., play the gangster, the boy and the dog who are thrown together and become friends and friends and comrades. The boy runs away from home to have his dog (who is a real German police pup and not one of those "secret service dogs"). He blunders into a criminal gang and among them finds the best friend of his life. The picture details the methods of the secret service in running criminals to earth. Thrilling battles, a gripping denouement on an old tug that is the gang's hiding place and the many deft human touches embellish the story.
