

RANGER TELLS ORIGIN OF DAM AREA'S NAMES

Moffett Creek

Investigations by H. H. Ridgell of Portland indicate that the family for which this stream is named spelled its name Moffett and not Moffatt. The Columbia river highway crosses Moffett creek on a remarkable concrete arch. At the time it was built it was said to have been the largest flat arch bridge in America.

Multnomah Falls

The compiler has been unable to learn who named these falls, but Geo. H. Himes of Portland says that they were called Multnomah in the '60s. He is of the opinion that S. G. Reed may have named them with the idea of trying to popularize points along the river for steamboat excursions. Lewis and Clark, Wilkes, and many others mention the falls on the south bank of the Columbia between the mouth of the Sandy and the Cascades, but no individual names seem to have been applied. Pioneer estimates of the height of Multnomah falls, amounting to as much as 1000 feet, were grossly in error. In 1916 Engineer James Frankland and Ranger Albert Wiesen-danger made detailed computations of all waterfalls along the Columbia river highway and at Multnomah falls found the following elevations above mean sea level:

Top of upper falls, 659.5 feet; base of upper falls, 117.2 feet; top of lower falls, 102.8 feet; base of lower falls, 39.5 feet; total drop of two falls, 620.0 feet; floor of cement bridge, top lower falls, 134.4 feet.

Oneonta Gorge

The origin of this name is obviously the place in New York. The compiler has not been able to find out why the name was applied to the gorge in Oregon. Oneonta is said by Cannett to mean "place of peace."

CANDIDATE HOLDS FOR SENSIBILITY IN LEGISLATION

DOROTHY McCULLOUGH LEE

"Willy-nilly bills and barnstorming legislation must go out, and sensible enactments must take their places in the operation of our state government," says Dorothy McCullough Lee, candidate for the state senate from Multnomah county.

Mrs. Lee has for long served the state well in her various legislative capacities, and pledges herself to the good of the state and the people who compose it. She is of the opinion that there is a definite need for a woman's point of view in legislation and will fulfill this need if elected.

MOYER LEAVES TO START ON CAPITOL

Cecil Moyer, who for the past several months has been in the area representing the Bethlehem Steel corporation, left the district Saturday for Portland, where he will coordinate with Sid Hayslip in preparatory work on Oregon's new state capitol building.

Moyer is well known around the job and his friends in the various engineering departments wished him success in his new venture. Just how soon work will actually begin on the new job, Moyer did not say, but preparations are being made this week on blueprints and general layout, in which he will assist.

Wyeth News

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Todd and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jenkins visited Portland May 9 when they had a radio installed in their car.

The C.C.C. camp dance on May 9 was a great success. A wonderful time was had by all.

Miss Laverne Jenkins of Barrett, Oregon, is visiting Miss Norma Jenkins for a while.

Armane Thurner of Portland was visiting his father, Joe Thurner, Sunday, May 10.

J. Flury, brother of L. G. Todd, and Charles Jacobs have just about completed their clearing job.

Mrs. C. Fisher is visiting friends in Seattle for a while.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Blair of Wyeth have moved to Portland. Mrs. Blair will live with her husband's parents while Mr. Blair continues working at Newport.

Master Bo Jenkins of Wyeth and Floyd Potts of Cascade Locks took a week end trip to the mountains.

EIMERS QUITTING BUSINESS IN LOCKS

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elmer, who for a long time operated the Elmer's Electric and Variety store in the Locks, have shut up shop and retired to a life of ease. Mr. Elmer expects to go with the government before long and disposed of the store to leave himself free to go.

Mrs. Mohr has taken over the variety store and will carry on that phase of the business in their stead. The rest of the stock, which includes a number of electrical appliances, has been stored in the Elmer home, where they will be sold to anyone wishing to make such purchases.

PHELPS BACK AFTER STAY IN HOSPITAL

Friends this week were welcoming Bill Phelps back to the area after a three months' sojourn to the hospital in Portland. It will be remembered that Phelps sustained a broken arm and pelvis when he fell down

PEEPING TOM SEEN SNOOPING IN AREA

Bonny Villa was raised from its usual peaceful rest at the witching hour of 1 a.m. Sunday morning by the appearance of the "Peeping Tom" that has been seen in the district off and on for some time.

Mrs. Laverne Nichols was the victim of his baleful glances this time, and rushed to neighbors to spread the alarm. Men immediately took up the chase and lost the Bonny Villa "goon" at the edge of the hills back of the camp.

Mrs. Nichols in explaining his appearance, stated that he very closely resembled the "Pop-Eye Goon" only he didn't have feathers around his knees. The man is bearded and fearsome looking. It has been thought that he is some local talent in disguise, as he seems to know which houses are occupied by women whose husbands work late.

Reports also have been given of his appearance in North Bonneville and Cascade Locks, though as yet he has not attacked anyone.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO BE TAKEN BY TWO

Beginning this week, subscriptions to The Bonneville Dam Chronicle will be handled by Mrs. Maude Brodier and Miss Stella Woodard of the Locks.

Because of their excellent and widespread acquaintanceship with people of the local area, Mrs. Brodier and Miss Woodard will carry on the work of building up circulation of the district's oldest and first newspaper.

Those who desire subscriptions to the Chronicle and who have been unable to find anyone at the office, will be able to do so at either of the homes of these two women.

the bank of the new railroad cut by Tanner creek early this year.

His wounds are mostly healed now, but Bill will have to take it easy for awhile before he goes back to work again. A broken pelvis, you know, is nothing to take lightly, as he will tell you.
