G. E. MANCHESTER, Mayor.

W. J. CARLSON, Recorder.

there are still plenty of wild animals in the dam area when he trapped a 200-pound brown bear a short distance off the Columbia River highway just east of Warrendale, and brought him home to the Locks Thursday morning. The bear, a female, was beginning to take on fat for the winter and will make a lot of juicy steaks. Her fur would have been prime in another month or so. Rand said her tracks were "so big" —but we didn't believe him, having seen the bear.

Mrs. Henry Rosenback and Mrs. John Woodward went to Hood River Tuesday on business and to visit friends.

Dr. M. E. Johnson attended a meeting of the state medical association in The Dalles Thursday. Mrs. Johnson accompanied him, while Mrs. John Woodward looked after the office.

W. J. McGarrigle has taken over a dry cleaning and laundry route in North Bonneville, but will continue to live in Cascade Locks.

Mayor and Mrs. G. E. Manchester left last week-end for a two months' vacation. Hope is expressed that The Dalles Freight Line will be able to operate in their absence.

W. Iven Embree, principal of the Cascade Locks grade school, and Mrs. Embree have moved into the Waite house for the winter. Formerly they stayed at the Cragmont inn.

Mrs. Charles Nelson returned this week from a two weeks' stay with relatives in Portland and Washougal.

Members of Troop 399, Boy Scouts of America, last Saturday cleared the site for their new cabin, plans for which, drawn up by Mr. Marvin Piper, have been completed. The clearing in which the cabin will be located is ideal for outdoor camping and recreation purposes.

Everill Brolliar and Howard Harrison, who have been attending Pacific college at Newberg, returned last week-end to visit their parents. Both report they are enjoying themselves and making progress in their work.

Mrs. Mae Elliot, mother of Mrs. E. J. Brolliar, is back from Marshfield, where she has been staying more than a month. She visited her sons, Claude and Clay Elliot, in Marshfield. She was there all during the terrific forest fire which threatened the city for several days.

Bill Ryer, former editor of the Dam Chronicle, returned the first part of the week to visit friends in Cascade Locks.

SEE STOCK SHOW

Mrs. Blanche North, Bonneville postmaster, was among the crowds at the stock show in Portland last week-end. Charley Coulter, her assistant, was also a Portland visitor.

Betty and Ruth Lee Fisher were visitors in Hood River over the week-end.

Mrs. Zelma Wheeler and Mrs. Pete Brando and son Jimmie went to Hood River Monday on business.

A. C. Smith went to Hood River on business Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Glazier and daughter Ida and Burt Stewart went to Oregon City Tuesday evening to see Mr. and Mrs. Glazier's daughter Elma Glazier.

J. E. Glazier went to Portland Tuesday on business.

Mrs. C. F. Lewallen called Marshal Colon Merrill when she discovered the democratic headquarters had been broken into some time Wednesday night, only to discover a Dam Chronicle employee had returned to his old haunts for some notes.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew McCormick and Mr. and Mrs. Tucker have moved from Cascade Locks to Stevenson. Mr. McCormick, who formerly worked for the West Coast Power company, has lived in the Locks more than two years. The Tuckers have been here about two years.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Titus and their daughter Audrey have moved to Warrendale from Bob Andrews' old house.
