PREACHING AND DOING

For better than two years this paper has watched and listened to the boastful braggings and tepid air dispensing of the city of Cascade Locks' leading puppets, Bill Keeler, self-acclaimed candidate for mayor, and Ira Owen, erstwhile president of the local chamber of commerce. To date the chamber has not accomplished a thing through the efforts of our good men Keeler and Owen with the exception of endeavoring to glorify the name of Laber.

For the first six months in 1934 this paper thought they might be really sincere in their efforts. Since that time we have changed our mind.

We would believe a portion of what they say if they would accomplish something constructive and if they personally, outside of carrying the torch for Mr. Laber, would practice what they preach.

Neither of these gentlemen owns property in the area. Bill owns some furniture and household goods we imagine, but if Ira owns more than three shirts and a couple of pairs of socks we miss our guess. Apparently the location is not a proper place for their families for they keep them in Portland.

Mr. Laber has not been able to get the things done he wished by having them control the chamber so now he is interested in getting his hand directly into the administration of city affairs. If this is not true why is he interested in spending so much for the election of his man "Friday" for mayor?

SCHOOL NEWS

BONNEVILLE SCHOOL

The sixth and seventh grade pupils have made some splendid book reports. Some of the most interesting were Susan and Arebella, Little Pioneers of the Fir Tree Country, Civil War Stories, Boy's Life of Fremont, Early Days in Oregon, Lewis & Clark, Antoine of Oregon, and Marooned in Crater Lake.

Due to an oversight Anita Bellart's name was not mentioned in the honor list last week.

The industrial arts class is completing their first model of a speed boat and boat races will be held in the very near future. Several of the students are working on the next project which is a larger model with greater speed. Coat hangers and tie racks have also been completed since school began.

Wednesday, October 28, the football team journeyed to Cascade Locks where they anticipated stiff opposition. Friday afternoon, October 30, Rockwood will meet the locals on the home gridiron to endeavor to even the score between the two teams from a precious encounter. There is a possibility of playing Gilbert school here Friday, November

6. No definite date on this has been set. We understand they are an unbeaten team so far this year, the team averaging 120 pounds per man.

Three members have joined Scout troop 389 in the past two weeks. We regret very much to lose Norman Waggoner, who is moving to Portland this week. Norman has done very commendable work and as a Scout we wish him all the success in the world.

In a special student body meeting letters for athletic awards was decided upon. A block "B" with maroon face and gold background will be used. The letter will be the same size in all events (6 inches by 4 inches). A bar with the emblem of the event will be worn on the arm. Only one letter will be given each member each year along with a bar and emblem when first won. Each succeeding event will be a bar and emblem.

Odd Shots by H. A. S.

It would be nice to devote an entire column to puns some day. Like the one about mathematicians being smarter than animals—putting Descartes before the horse.

Best triple-jointed pun we ever heard likened Pharaoh's daughter to a Wall Street broker—she found a little prophet in the rushes on the bank.

Thomas Moore was responsible for some good ones. After he had been sick someone asked if he had almost kicked the bucket. He shot back, "No, I just turned a little pale."

Did you hear about the fellow who arose shivering one frosty morning? He went from bed to worsted.

Al Smith is a generous soul. He was satisfied to take a walk himself, but he wants to take the president for a ride.

All work and no pay makes Jack a dull boy.

Gentle Oscar wants to know why he sees so many red-headed women wearing green dresses and a few green-haired women wearing red dresses.

Traveling salesmen aren't so bad—in fact, we've often wished that a salesman would start traveling.

We never know who our friends are until they try to borrow money from us.

"Punkins, is that the ice man I hear sneaking down the back stairs?"

"No, darling. Can't you recognize his footsteps yet?"

Come again some time when you can't eat so much.
