CASCADE LOCKS GRADE SCHOOL

Big news this week was the football game Wednesday afternoon against Pine Grove, which the local boys lost, 2 to 0, when they tried a running play from behind their own goal line and were tossed for a safety. The game was played before a record-breaking crowd, so far as either school was concerned. Some 3000 persons saw the game, played between halves of the Hood River high school-Pacific university freshmen in Hood River on the high school gridiron.

A return game with Pine Grove was being played as the Chronicle went to press, with the Locks boys swearing vengeance for their humiliation before such a big audience.

BLANCHARD NAMED ASSOCIATION CHIEF

Knight of Hood River high school.

Health talks were given by Miss Bessie Williams, county health nurse, and Miss Greba Logan of the Portland public schools.

The annual meeting and election of officers was held just before the lunch period. The association voted to present the name of J. T. Longfellow of Oregon City as its nominee for vice-president of the Oregon state teachers' association, meeting in Portland in December, and also to send two delegates to the convention.

The county association will again finance the county grade school track meet in Hood River in the spring, those present decided.

L. B. Gibson, county school superintendent, was in charge of the institute.

CASCADE LOCKS HIGH SCHOOL

Chuck Hill, dressed as a cowboy, and Ida Glazier, dressed as a scarecrow, won prizes of cloth Scotty dogs for the best costumes at the Cascade Locks high school Girls' league masquerade ball held in the high school gym last Friday evening.

Other costumes were worn by Miss Ethel McRae, also dressed as a scarecrow; Melvin McDaniels and Virginia Tessier, as devils; Jane Geitner and Jack Fisher as man and wife, with Jane taking the part of the man; Verna Greer as the Lady in Red; Ted McGarrigle as an artist; Marguerite Shearer as a gypsy; Dorothy McKinnon as a peasant girl; Clem Collenburn as a dude rancher, and Rosena Sweet in eighteenth century dress. Laurie Brink and Bob Douville came as football heroes, but they got as far as the door and then went home and put on their civilian clothes.

The high school Echo, with Verna Greer serving as editor, was scheduled to come out this week. Jane Geitner was editor of the initial number.

The junior class has planned a party Monday afternoon at Mrs. MacKinnon's house.

CORBETT SCHOOL

The seniors have picked out their design for their announcements and also their diplomas.

The juniors have chosen their design for their pins and rings. They have ordered them from the Dankworth company.

Practice for the play is now in full swing and the seniors expect it to be the best yet.

Home Ec I girls have started their first project in Sewing now. They can make anything, just so it's simple.

BONNEVILLE P.T.A.

A capacity crowd met in the auditorium Wednesday, November 4, to attend the regular P.T.A. meeting. The mothers from Miss Merritt's room who were hostesses for the month had the room beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Mrs. T. C. Waring conducted the study group for the first hour and presented as guest speaker Dr. Jessie Laird Brodie who gave a splendid talk on "Character Development as Related to Physical Changes of Adolescence."

For the regular meeting Miss Stevens gave a history of the Bonneville school.

Mrs. T. L. Jones, first president of the association, was guest of honor and was presented with a past president's pin in recognition of her splendid work last year.

Miss Calasheff's room received the pennant for having the most parents present.

Mrs. C. A. Lynds, president, announced the meeting of the executive committee to be held Wednesday, November 18.

The ways and means committee announced the first of a series of card parties to be held Friday, November 20. Pinochle, bridge and 500 will be played besides other games for those who do not play cards.

University of Oregon enrollment for the fall term now stands at 2501, an increase of 5.8 per cent over fall term enrollment last year. The 2600th student to enroll was Mrs. Frederick M. Hunter, wife of the chancellor, who registered as an auditor.

Wrought iron gates for the new University of Oregon library, to be a memorial to Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, former president of the university, are being designed by H. O.

Dawson of Portland, former student of the university.

During 1935-36, a total of $2,000 in loans were made to students of the University of Oregon from the university student loan fund.
