

Cascade Locks

W. C. "Tuck" Anderson and family are spending a week in Albany, after which they will move to Callahan where Mr. Anderson will be engaged in the lumber business. Mrs. Kinkade, formerly of Moran's tavern, will accompany the Andersons.

Local people were saddened to hear Sunday of the death of Esther Carey, daughter of Harvey Carel, formerly a shoemaker here. Miss Carey was killed Saturday night and her two companions seriously injured when they attempted to turn their car around on the highway near Chehalis, and were struck by another automobile traveling at high speed. The night was foggy and Miss Carey's party had become lost. Parts of their automobile were strewn along the highway for about 200 yards, according to dispatches. Miss Carey was killed almost instantly, and the two boys were rushed to a Chehalis hospital where it was said they might not live. The Careys moved to Chehalis from Cascade Locks last spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed K. Shaw motored to Portland last Saturday.

Dick Geist of the Cascade Food store was in bed Tuesday afternoon with a bad cold, although he was able to work Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Epping visited Mr. Epping's mother in the Hood River hospital Tuesday night, where she has been ill, although she is reported better.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hepner and daughter Norma visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haggblom over Armistice Day.

Mrs. R. J. Wuner came up from Portland Wednesday night to attend the Rebekah party in the I.O.O.F. hall.

Mrs. Joe Morris has been entertaining her friend, Mrs. Wunderling, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nelson plan to attend the football game between Oregon and Oregon State college at Corvallis this week-end.

Mrs. C. A. Broiliar has been very ill during the past week.

Captain Charles Nelson planned to go to Stevenson today to serve as witness in a damage suit there.

Others on the sick list during the past week include Mrs. M. L. Morgan, who is recovering from a cold, and Mrs. C. E. Carna, afflicted with the same malady.

Chickenpox has been prevalent among the school children, several of whom are suffering from it at present.

MARBLE TESTS FOR INFECTIOUS DISEASE

A. L. Marble, county agent, has been engaged in giving tests to county dairy cattle for Bangs disease in an effort to make the county entirely free from the malady.

Tests were first given in 1929 and 1930, when the county was found relatively clean. All cattle showing the disease must be destroyed, as there is no known cure. Any farmer having an untested herd should notify the agent's office as it is extremely desirable that Bangs disease be stamped out.

Herds which have passed two inspections without traces of the disease are given government approval and remain free from inspection unless new stock is added. The government pays an indemnity for all cattle destroyed.

Six Tie Mills On East Side Supply Orient

Ties for the rails of China.

Like the romance of oil in the Orient, the romance of lumber is putting men to work in the forests and in channels of trade.

Along the ridges to the east of Hood River valley no less than six tie mills, five of them offspring of the past year's small boom in the lumber trade, operated most of the fall. Only one was in operation before the summer of 1935.

Three of the mills were operated by David U. Butler, logging contractor, who usually makes his headquarters in Portland when not on the job in the woods. Butler had a string of the mills on the other side of the river.

Most of the ties from the six mills, it is reported, went to China, where railroad building has been increasing at rapid pace. Some ties will be used domestically, and a smaller number to other foreign countries.

A sideline at the tie mills is production of slabwood. Beautiful four and eight-foot slabs are trucked in a steady stream to distributing points in Hood River.

Clouds Settle Over Plateau

Back of the suburbs of Cape Town, South Africa's largest city, steeply rises Table mountain, named for its level top. Not infrequently a layer of white clouds settles snugly over the plateau and they are called a "tablecloth." When billowing clouds form, Cape Towners remark that "Uncle and the devil are smoking fast today," alluding to the Malay myth that the Dutch pirate, Van Hunks, and the devil once staged a smoking contest.

Beautiful Faces Changed

Beautiful faces change because of the varying growth of ears, noses and mouths, scientists have reported. But age, that ruin: the harmony of some features, has mellowed the contours of others. Ears, especially, never stop growing, it has been learned from measurement of ears on persons up to ninety-six years. The human face, some scientists hold, is best at age of twenty-one when the balance between the features is at its best.

PENSION ROLL GETS FOUR NEWCOMERS

Two new pensions were granted by the county relief committee at its meeting Monday, one was increased and two were reinstated. The committee brought all its applications up to date, as none were held over for next month's meeting.

At present there are 87 persons drawing old age assistance in Hood River county, and 65 on direct relief. Last month's expenditures totaled $1336.32 for direct relief and $1654.50 for old age pensions.

The transient roll is increasing somewhat, Miss Eloise Wright, relief director, reports but has not become a serious problem. So far no effects of the maritime strike have been felt by relief agencies here.
