

MORGAN'S BIG CRANE
READY TO GO SOON

The giant 350-ton capacity crane being erected by the Morgan engineering company to be used in placing gates in the main spillway dam will be in working condition within a month, it was reported this week.

Before the gates can be placed, ogee sections between most of the south piers will have to be completed. They were left standing at plus 10 feet in order to give the old Columbia more of a gap to pass through while the north cofferdam area was closed off, but will have to be raised to plus 24 feet, where they will be met by the gates. Little cofferdams from pier to pier will be put in to permit pouring the top stretches of the ogee sections.

Concreting in the gate slots has been completed all the way to the top in two piers.

ST. NICK IN TROUBLE WITH LIQUOR CONTROL BOARDS

A campaign to ban Santa Claus and Biblical characters from beer and liquor advertising spread throughout the country this week, as more than two-thirds of the state liquor control boards expressed themselves as opposed to such sales tactics.

Local liquor dealers who employ holiday displays featuring The Three Wise Men, Santa Claus, and other well known figures, will arouse the ire of liquor boards in many states, and may jeopardize their licenses, according to a nationwide survey made by the National Voice News Bureau.

SPEEDING NEARLY IN

Placement of the steel speeding in unit 2 of the power house by United States engineers neared completion this week. It is expected the 55-deck in the power house, on which huge generators must later be placed, will be completed by the middle of February. A good deal of tedious work in setting the embedded steel parts in the turbine pits remains, and the turbines themselves may go in before the floor above is poured, although the apertures for the shaft and generator assembly will be large enough to allow lowering of the turbines through them.

MEETING PLACE CHANGED

Meetings of the Damsite post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be held hereafter in the meeting room of the new administration building, instead of in the back room of French's tavern, Irving Hall, newly installed commander, announced this week. Meetings are held on the first and third Mondays of each month.

CLUB HOLDS PARTY

Members of the Bonneville Women's Community club enjoyed a card party at the Bonneville auditorium yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Russell Blevins is social chairman for the club.

Oscar Bartholomew, U.S.E.D. electrician, fell sick on the job Sunday at 5 A.M. and was taken home, where he has been in bed since.

CORMAN REELECTED
HEAD OF CHAMBER

ing up with his famous Chinese "Missa Blown" story.

All other officers besides Corman were reelected to their posts. They are Jim Anthon, Underwood, first vice president; H. R. Eddins, The Dalles, second vice president; John V. Lund, Camas, third vice president; Walter Hufford, Stevenson, secretary; George A. Read, White Salmon, treasurer.

Serving on the executive committee will be Everly Thompson, Vancouver; Dr. J. A. Harris, Stevenson; William Keeler, Cascade Locks; George Moody, North Bonneville; Homer Beal, Goldendale; William H. Warner, Alderdale; H. C. Schmidt, Kennewick, and Past Presidents John McEwen, Goldendale; Wade Dean, White Salmon; George Christenson, Stevenson, and President Corman.

A new publicity committee was named, composed of Howard Burnham, Vancouver; A. L. Boling, Stevenson, and W. H. Dean, of White Salmon.

The only debated resolution was Number 8, calling for a continued effort to raise funds for the chamber's projected booklet. A Bingen delegate called for a return of money held in trust in the White Salmon bank, raised among member chambers since the Portland chamber had not contributed promised money. Secretary Hufford, who read the resolutions, explained that the Portland chamber had been unable to include the booklet in this year's budget, but would doubtless cooperate with the Mid-Columbia chamber next year.

Resolution Number 1 called for setting up an agency by congress to govern Bonneville power rate-making and policy, with a switchboard rate recommended; building of transmission lines west to Portland and east to connecting power lines, cost to be charged against transmission and not against production, which would preclude a switchboard rate; and building of new power units at Bonneville as fast as need might arise.

Resolution Number 2 called for building of a resort hotel by the government at the mineral springs north of Stevenson; Number 3 for empowering officers of the chamber to further the interests of the Maryhill museum; Number 4 for placing of the Yakima highway cutoff on the state of Washington's primary road program; Number 5 for extension of the north bank highway from Maryhill to Kennewick as a primary road; Number 6 for a water grade highway from Troutdale to The Dalles; Number 7 for removal of the Maryhill loops in the north bank highway; and Number 9 for giving a vote of appreciation to Hood River businessmen and the Columbia Gorge hotel for the way in which the meeting was arranged and conducted.

Toastmaster at the meeting was Z. O. Brooks of Goldendale. Rev. O.

D. Harris of Hood River gave the invocation before the meal, and his wife entertained with two vocal selections. A. L. Anderson, president of the Hood River chamber, gave the welcoming address and also put on a ski-tap-dance stunt.

President Corman, in his annual address, boosted the south bank water grade highway, the Mount

Adams highway to the Tacoma try and the Maryhill-Kennewick road. The meeting went on

The melancholy days are come,
The saddest of the year—
Unless you're at the Lakeside,
Because it ain't sad here!
