CASCADE LOCKS HIGH SCHOOL

Miss Gustafson was hostess at a monopoly party March 23 at 7:30 P. M. Those who attended were: Ted McGarrigle, Harold Geitner, John Hill, David Moffett, Dick Keasey, Mrs. Gustafson, and Miss Gustafson. After an enjoyable game of monopoly, a short and delicious luncheon was served, consisting of potato salad, tea and ginger cookies. Everybody enjoyed himself until the party broke up at 11 o'clock.

The basketball banquet will be at the grade school kitchen Friday, March 26. The honor guests will be the basketball lettermen and their parents. The rest of the high school will attend.

Committees at work are: Geraldine Rankin, head chairman; Jane Geitner, chairman decoration committee; Virginia Tessier, entertainment chairman; Martha Brown, invitations chairman; Mrs. J. F. Kelsey, refreshments chairman.

The following girls will serve: Jeanne Hardy, Ann Rasmussen, Helen Rosenback, Eileen Sprague.

The senior paper will be published Friday, March 26. Since this is the last paper the seniors are going to publish, they are trying to make it the best ever.

More about hobbies. Jane Geitner, our sophisticated senior, is a very apt gardener at heart. Jane is making use of the forcing table, which formerly belonged to Miss Caldwell. She has everything planted from tomatoes to forget-me-nots. As soon as these plants are hardy enough and the weather warm enough, Jane plans to transplant them to her own garden out-of-doors. She loves flowers and takes great pleasure in growing them herself. She says there is a certain fascination about watching the transition from seed to flower. Other people may enjoy Jane's hobby when they pass her home this summer and view a profusion of color from her garden.

BONNEVILLE SCHOOL

Neither absent nor late for the last report months in the fifth grade were: Dorothy Duncan, Kathleen Waring, Gary Woods, James Haskett, James Robnett and Robert Snyder.

In the fifth grade were Junior Horton, Virginia McMullen, Virgil Anderson.

Those in the third grade neither absent nor tardy last month were: Reese Woods, Mary Lou Sams, Rhoda Sherman, Tommy Smith, Betty Jo Silvers, Wilbur Hardman, and Floyd Parks.

In the fourth grade were: Esther McMullen, Iris Memovich, Shirley Schulenberg, Patsy Robnett, Edmond Wolfe, Philip Rabideau, Azalea Hadman and Norman Bleakman.

An egg hunt is being planned in this room for Friday.

Those in the sixth grade who have been neither absent nor tardy the past month are: James Bacaloff, Roy Lusch, James Rabideau, Anita Bellarts, Edward Locke, Margaret Joy Miller, Steven Memovich, and Maxine Keyes.

The sixth grade English class has received a package of letters from the sixth grade of the Belle Point school in Fort Smith, Ark., in reply to them about Bonneville dam. They sent us much interesting news about the Fort Smith dam and lake constructed there. The chief purpose for the construction was to obtain pure drinking water. The lake and intake tower are 25 miles from the city.

Neither absent nor tardy from the second grade last month were: Dora Gaudin, Kathleen Donaldson, Muriel Checketts, Marston Williams, Claude Silvers, Jimmie Lash and John Duncan.

Easter Recipes

"Hot Cross Buns, hot cross buns, If your daughters do not like them, Buy them for your sons."

Still hawkers shout this rhyme through London streets in Holy week. In this country we have abandoned the pedler's cry, but we keep the buns. They are to be found easily at any bakery on Fridays in Lent.

Hot cross buns are easily made at home, following any favorite yeast bun recipe. Glaze the buns with syrup and with a case-knife crease the tops with a cross. Frosting may be poured into the creases to emphasize the cross formation. Hot cross buns are always sweet and often have currants in them. Sometimes the cross is outlined with currants.

Eggs—and their natural accompaniment, bacon or ham—are traditional Easter food. As one goes through the markets, one sees hams displayed and advertised at Eastertime as turkeys are at Thanksgiving.

If one doesn't feel quite up to a roast ham at Easter, we recommend the following as an excellent substitute:

Ham Loaf

2 lbs. fresh pork or veal (ground)
1 lb. ham (ground)
1 scant cup crumbs
1 cup milk
2 eggs
Salt and pepper

Mix ingredients thoroughly. Bake three hours at 350 degrees. The last 30 minutes remove cover and spread top with either 2 teasp. flour, cup brown sugar and enough vinegar to make a thick paste, or crushed pineapple.

If making this loaf to be served in a casserole, be sure to drain off grease before adding topping.

You never really know how much a man can't remember until he is called as a witness.

A film story as fast moving and as typical of the modern age as the mighty airliners which served as its background is Universal's "Flying Hostess."

It is a picture with a wide appeal. Besides romance, it embodies the additional appeal of the epic of transportation and man's age-old conflict with the elements, in a modern setting.

"Flying Hostess" is reminiscent of the grand plays that have been written in the past around the covered wagon, the railroads and, more recently, the automobile.

In the lead role and giving one of the best performances of his notable career, William Gargan portrays Hal Cunningham, the air line superintendent in whom is epitomized the fearlessness and idealism which stands as a guiding beacon to those who fly the airways.

Through the story runs the stormy romance of Judith Barrett, as Helen Brooks, and of William Hall, as Guy Edwards, the ace pilot. She wants so greatly to be an air hostess that she risks her life to get the job. He falls in love with her, but he thinks there is no place for women in the air.

Their love runs a turbulent course before she proves to him that woman's emancipation extends to the air as well as land.

Sunday-Monday-Tuesday

The men who made "The Count of Monte Cristo" have done it again!

This time, Harry M. Goetz and Edward Small, the producers of Reliance Pictures, have chosen to bring to the screen, with a magnificent cast, "The Last of the Mohicans," James Fenimore Cooper's immortal classic of the hand-to-hand struggle for a nation yet unborn and have turned out another unforgettable picture which is topnotch entertainment as well as a film of truly epic proportions.

In the opinion of this reviewer, the picture cannot fail to prove a monumental item on the cinema list of lovers of the book as well as those unfamiliar with the stirring story of pioneer men and women who faced death and danger and glorious adventure side by side for the country they both loved.

Unforgettable moments in this unforgettable picture are the canoe chase, with Uncas guiding Cora to safety through a shower of enemy arrows; the French attack on Fort William Henry, last stronghold of the British and Americans; and the savage war-dance of the Huron tribe.

George B. Seitz has treated "The Last of the Mohicans" to his usual brilliant direction, the photographic effects achieved by Robert Planck are breath-takingly grand and the musical background by Nathaniel Shilkret is thrilling and impressive.

Randolph Scott, Binnie Barnes, Bruce Cabot, Henry Wilcoxon, Heather Angel, Philip Reed and Robert Barrat are starred.

Wednesday-Thursday

Some people crave publicity. Others shrink from it. "The Girl on the Front Page" gets more than her share when a blackmailing butler spreads scandal about her in the Universal picture.

Gloria Stuart, as "The Girl on the Front Page," is a society debutante who inherits a newspaper from her father. Her managing editor is portrayed by Edmund Lowe, who proves himself a comedian of exceptional skill. He scores laughs that come right from the waistline.

The hilarious picture presents new angles on the newspapermovie and sparkles with grand comedy dialogue, Rollicking fun, it is expertly directed by Harry Beaumont.

Fireworks start when Gloria overhears the editor airing his opinions about "female newspaper owners." She goes for him fire and tongs and he heaps coals of fire on her head.

The blackmail ring, headed by the butler, walks into a trap set by the editor and the heiress. That entitles the sharpers to a brass ring, and another ride, to jail. Dan Cupid sets a different trap for the hardboiled editor and he finally marries the society girl; which, naturally, calls for a gold ring.

Edmund Lowe and Gloria Stuart give a highly amusing performance. Lowe is as hardboiled a managing editor as ever swung a blue pencil. Gloria sends forth electric sparks in her battles with the editor.

Old Machine Outruns New Models

For forty-eight years George Galloway of Belmont has pushed lawnmowers of one kind and another, but he always comes back to a Zenith-Pennsylvania machine which he purchased in 1889—and it's still going strong.

Galloway has discarded two new mowers since he bought the old-timer, but it has outworn both of them. Recently it got a little cranky, so he had Carl Swarts make a new driveshaft for it.

The old mower is neither ball-bearing nor roller-bearing, but turns on the original bronze bushings. It will be good for many years more with the new shaft, although it may not look so fancy as some of the newer models.

It is said there has been a marked increase in the sale of life insurance lately. Life has become so merry that people figure it is bound to be short.

Now that strikes, floods and the flu are about over what the country needs is an epidemic of hard work.

You may not be aware of it, but the man who borrows trouble always pays the interest with worry.
