

FISH NOTES

(By Rudy Schroeder)

Fishing in Hood River county over the week-end can be described in one word—rotten. The Hood River was so muddy you could just about walk across it. The lakes were as bad as the rivers. However, several limit catches were made on the West Fork in bait fishing.

Cause of most of the trouble is, of course, the continually hot weather, which is melting the glaciers and making a muddy soup of the rivers. A few days of cool weather is the cure needed.

Even central Oregon fishing seems to have slipped some, although there is good trolling on East Lake and Paulina Lake. After a poor start, Diamond Lake is improving on fly fishing. The upper Deschutes is reported to be fair.

New Unions In Hood River Seem Likely

That several new unions will make their appearance in Hood River in the very near future seemed likely when Tom Estabrook, district organizer for the American Federation of Labor in Portland, arrived this week to spend two weeks in Hood River and The Dalles.

Among labor organizations planned by Estabrook is a building trades and common laborers union, a retail clerks' union and a local for mechanics. The new teamster's union will receive its charter tonight at The Dalles, and headquarters for teamsters of the Mid-Columbia region will be in that city.

Estabrook is also taking an interest in the local Culinary Workers Union, which to date has successfully negotiated with 14 of the 16 food dispensing places in Hood River concerning a new wage scale.

Hood River locals are planning to form a central labor council in this city very shortly.

That workers of the Oregon Lumber Co. at Dee voted in favor of the C. I. O. rather than the A. F. of L. by an 85 percent margin was announced last week at the convention of C. I. O.'s International Woodworkers of America, held in Tacoma.

Stanley Brown and Moyne Rogers, local union organizers, attended the eight-day session as C. I. O. representatives from this region.

Quite contrary to the Dee vote, employees of J. Neils Lumber Company at Klickitat, Wash., are reported just as strongly in favor of remaining with the carpenter's union of the A. F. of L.

Temporary headquarters for the new union, which claims to represent 100,000 workers, is in Seattle, but the next convention will be held at Portland, December 1.

Wife Shot

A rabbit hunting expedition in the woods near Hood River, Sunday, ended in the accidental wounding of Mrs. Roy Hale, when her husband fired his rifle at a rabbit, and the bullet instead struck Mrs. Hale in the hip. The wound was not serious, and she is making a rapid recovery in the Hood River hospital.

Camphor added to the water for cut flowers will keep them fresh. A pinch of soda added to the water will make them keep longer; salt in the water will also serve to keep them fresh.

Week of Carnival Opens on Saturday

A big carnival show will spend a week in Hood River under the auspices of the local American Legion starting Monday, August 2. The Douglas Greater Shows, as it is called, numbers in its entertainment eight rides, six shows, and 20 concessions.

"It is a very reliable concern, with headquarters in Seattle," says Harold Buck, commander of the local Legion post, "and we are guaranteed by our contract that nothing but good clean entertainment will be provided."

The legion will use share of the receipts to do some much-needed repair work on Legion Hall, consisting of a new roof and a repainting job.

A Style Hint

Yellow is becoming more important for summer wear, especially for daytime. A lime yellow is liked for evening, while golden wheat, maize and butterscotch are shades favored for daytime. Wear yellow accessories to match your dress.

BONNEVILLE BILL PASSES HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

uation in the senate and senators of the Northwest are prepared to press for its passage at the earliest opportunity.

Representative May of Kentucky, Democratic anti-New Dealer, created the first diversion in debate preceding final vote by offering an amendment to provide that the Bonneville administration advertise for bids for power at the switchboard.

Would Cut Cost

This, he said, would cut the cost of administration and avoid the loading of the project with employes and overhead. He jabbed at the public ownership advocates, asserting that private utilities can build transmission lines cheaper than the government. Those wanting power, he argued, should come to the switchboard and buy it there.

Representative Rankin of Mississippi, leader of the "peoples' power bloc," retorted with a rehearsal of power prices in Ontario under public ownership. The May amendment was lost on a standing vote, 18 to 82.

Minor committee amendments offered by Chairman Mansfield of the house committee on rivers and harbors were adopted.

ARTHRITIS

"I suffered 6 years from arthritis and dizzy spells. I believe that my recovery was due to one thing only, and that was Casey's Compound. I cannot recommend it too highly."

CASEY'S COMPOUND is sold by Kresse Drug Co., Hood River.
