CEASE FIRING

Yesterday was another Armistice Day.

We displayed flags, there were parades, bands, uniforms, mar-crowded the ether waves, their melodies were whistled on the streets. Buoyant days of military parades and Liberty Loan drives were recalled. It was a holiday. America celebrated the eleventh day of the eleventh month.

But we wonder if we shouldn't regard it with the serious attitude which we should attach to Memorial Day. Today, when there are wars and rumors of wars, all of us in America agree—we want none of it.

It might be well for us to think of the trenches, the death, the bloodshed, the breaking of hearts, the hardship, the privation, the suffering, the epidemics, the anxiety, that preceded those days before the famous November 11th. Then we should resolve to determine further means of promoting peace, not only for our own people, but for those now engaged in the merciless slaughter of human beings across the waters.

THE AMERICAN WAY

On October 2, a dinner honoring William M. Jeffers upon his appointment to the presidency of the Union Pacific Railroad, took place at Omaha. Attending were nearly 7,000 employees of this company and their families who hear speakers representing railroad labor, railroad management and the United States government address the nation over the radio.

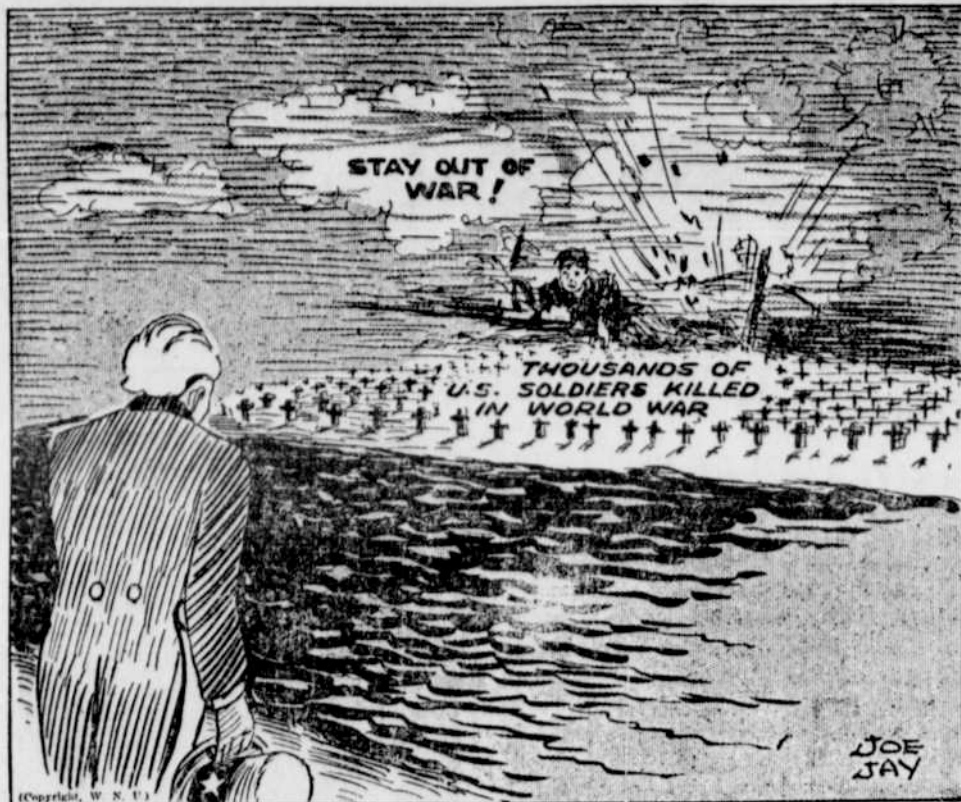

Mr. Jeffers' appointment to one of the highest positions in our industrial life, means much more than the advancement of just one man. Many years ago, Mr. Jeffers started at the very bottom, as a call boy, in the service of the railroad he now heads. He followed a course that has been followed by thousands of others in attaining distinguished positions in all branches of our national life.

Addressing the assembled company at the dinner, George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, said: "President Jeffers has risen from the ranks. He has taken with him the loyal and devoted support and cooperation of the workers. We who have had the privilege of representing the men and women who do the work, know Mr. Jeffers as a hard, two-fisted bargainer—but always on the square and ready to do the right thing with the problem at hand. And so there exists on this great railroad today, under his able leadership, a spirit of confidence, mutual understanding and a desire to cooperate to serve the people of our country. That is as it should be."

James A. Farley, Postmaster General of the United States, said in reference to Mr. Jeffers: "He has been a success because he has in the first place been ambitious. No fellow can be a success in any line of effort unless he is ambitious, and then in addition to that he must be a person of character, and Bill Jeffers is all of that. He is a man of fine character, a man whose word is as good as his bond, and his devotion to the railroad he has been associated with during his entire lifetime is proof of the fact that he has done his job faithfully and well."

W. A. Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific Railroad, said: "It is significant to every boy and girl that in this country such a career is possible. This is the only country in the world where this could happen, and that it has happened before and is still happening must give great encouragement and faith in our country."

America is still a land of opportunity. America's industrial leaders and statesmen have, to a very great extent, risen from the humblest positions. Mr. Jeffers' ascendancy to the presidency of one of the country's representative railroads, provides an inspiring example of the merit of the American system which gives the freest possible play to any individual's initiative, ambitions and special talents.

MORE ABOUT THE NEW RECOVERY PLAN

To the Editor:
For and against the Townsend Plan—

It is estimated that the average turnover of our dollar in 1936 was 35 times, or a little less than once every ten days.

Then we learn that the Townsend Plan proposes to give the old folks $200 per month and asks that they be allowed to keep it all for 30 days. Many of the pensioners that I have interviewed lately agree that they would be willing to be put under the obligation of spending $50 per week if they be given $200 per month and would gladly do so."

Then by putting a time tax of 2 per cent per month on this money after it is spent with non-pensioners, in a short time we could be paying off some of the National debt instead of going in debt farther. Our money working brings back prosperity where nothing else does.

Let us see what California, Washington and several other states did. They voted the sales tax, and they have a better system of paying the pensioners than Oregon.

In Oregon the Townsend advisors told us to kill the sales tax (in favor of the transaction tax.) Now we have neither, and a very poor system of raising a tax to pay the 65-year-old pensioners.

Many of the Townsend Club members that voted against the sales tax would, if given a chance again, vote in favor of it, and better our present condition for the aged.

The object of this time tax is not alone for the purpose of bringing in sufficient money to pay the pensioners, but as this tax money will be taken out of the hoarded kind of money and recoinced into the non-hoarded kind, hence the 24 per cent tax each year will increase the non-hoarded kind 24 per cent each year, and after the first year it will compound. In less than four years the circulating non-hoarding money will double.

This is based on the amount that we coin for the first year. A certain amount coined each month, and put into circulation on the date indicated on the money.

Of course this money loses its purchasing value at end of year for which it was coined, and must be returned back to the government and exchanged for a year later date of new money face value, (dollar for dollar) accompanied by the required amount of taxes. This money must be the hoarded kind.

The writer of this plan has made a study of this plan, as well as the Townsend Plan and is willing to pass on the information he has on hand to others.

Many of the members of Townsend Clubs know very little about the Townsend Plan, nor do they know in many cases who actually pays the transaction tax, or how much. Dr. Townsend's idea is all O. K., but his plan needs two more planks in it, and they are: 1st—a better system of taxing wealth (tax-hoarded cash); 2nd—rapid enforcement of the circulation of cash. Those are the two things that the present setup of the Townsend plan does not have, and without them we will never have a full return of prosperity.

We find that a large portion of the Townsendites are not posted on their plan; many of them do not know the difference between the sales tax and the transaction tax.

We find that more of the Townsend Clubs are having open forum meetings. Lately the Chicago Townsend Weekly has a Forum page; and the Bonneville Dam Chronicle has a forum privilege.

I would suggest that in this county we call an open forum meeting, not for the Townsend people alone, but for every body, where each one of us can ask questions and have them answered—not just where we listen to some public speaker tell us just what he wants us to know, and then go away without answering the questions that we ask.

I understand that soon again we are to have more petitions out. Well, I hope that the one who brings them around will read them enough to know what they are for, as a large portion of the signers put their names to them under the wrong impression. The last time they came around, thinking they were calling for a vote by the people of the state.

I think the Townsend idea is the best that was ever put before Congress, but in framing their plan, they have left out one main plank, and that plank is, The Taxing of Hoarded Cash, and the way to enforce it. The idea is good, but the plan needs re-enforcing.

The time has come when we need a different system of employment, and a different system of financial distribution—a more rapid circulation of money.

About 75 per cent of the people that I have mentioned this plan to are in favor of it, and the most of them are members of a Townsend Club (or were.)

If there is any one that would like to become better informed on this plan, they may have copies of it, or the writer will willingly explain it to them.

Through the courtesy of the Chronicle, other discussions may appear in this paper. Questions can be turned in to the editor or be given to the author of the plan.

Yours for a quicker turnover, and a better financial recovery.

Author of the plan.
