CASCADE LOCKS HIGH SCHOOL
By William Morgan

Miss Mac Rae spent the week-end in Portland with her mother doing some Christmas shopping. Miss Wetzel also did some Christmas shopping over the week-end. Cascade Locks won its first league game with Mosier 26 to 12. Mosier led the game 8 to 2 for the first half. It looked bad for Cascade Locks. Then, Socko, we really lit into them, winning the game. Tuesday the boys played The Dalles Popooses with a score of 24 to 25 in the Popooses' favor. The Christmas plays will be given at the high school Monday, Dec. 20. The high school play is "It's a Gift." Those playing are Noble Hyde, Eileen Prohaska, Clayton Kyle and Norva Jenkins. The high school's girls' glee club will offer two selections.

BONNEVILLE SCHOOL

The Girls' League presented the kitchen nine towels with "Bonneville School" embroidered on the corners. Bonneville boys' basketball team had a game with Rockwood Monday, but was defeated by a score of 32-8. The starting line-up was: Forward, Billy Fargher; forward, Roy Lusch; guard, Steven Memovich; guard, Jimmy Dow; center, Earl Pisner. The boys are feeling the loss of their tall men this year. A fast team is expected, however, so all contestants should receive a scare.

The seventh and eighth grades listened to the Science Club on the air over the radio on Friday and have found it very helpful and interesting. The Girls' League members are planning their Christmas party. The harmonica band, orchestra and glee clubs have been working hard on their numbers for the Christmas program. The boys receiving letter for football are as follows: Virgil Anderson, Mosso, Jim Haskett, Eugene Pomplitz, Steven Memovich, Jimmy Rabideau, and Jimmy Dow. The Bonneville school store, which is managed by the teachers for the convenience of the children, is prepared to take orders for books and magazines at the current price. This gives the store a small profit which goes into the school fund. Christmas seals are also on sale.

With the awarding of the Grand Coulee contract to the Interior Construction Company, many of our children will soon be going away. We regret their leaving just at Christmas time, when we look forward to the Legion Christmas tree. Parents and friends are being invited to a little program and exhibit in the third and fourth grade room Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 22.

The children are collecting a box of toys and clothing to be sent to the Children's Ward at the Isolation Hospital in Portland.

"Drawing names" has been attended to with ceremony in the third and fourth grade room. Now every one will have something on the tree, which will be had at the program December 22.

Library books must all be in before the holiday begins, so that a new collection will be ready for the re-opening of school.

Dick Bramblett, state highway workman, a few yards west of the point where the truck left the highway. Bramblett had gone to the highway entrance to clear away fallen rock. Curious at finding the motor meter, he looked over the edge of the cliff to see the wreckage and summoned State Officer Bob Rainey. While Bramblett was going for help from the upper level, Watchman Hibbard of Mosier summoned J. H. Surrell, of the local Union Pacific personnel. Hibbard had gone to Mosier to summon aid after being brought to the scene by the signals of the safety fence. Rainey suspended himself from the highway level with 750 feet of rope and discovered Weimer's body 700 feet below the highway. The body was transported to Mosier by a railroad speeder. Police believed the truck's motor meter found just west of the point where the truck left the road indicated that falling rocks had hit the truck.

Truck Driver Killed at Mosier Tunnel

Lowell Weimer, 25, of Portland, was killed early Saturday morning when his truck left the highway just west of the Mosier tunnel, plunging hundreds of feet down the steep bank to the Union Pacific railroad tracks. The wreckage was discovered at 12:30 Saturday morning after the electric guard fence of the Union Pacific railroad was struck by the debris and signalled to railroad watchmen. The truck, operated by the Portland-Pendleton Freight Company, carried a mixed cargo and was traveling east. State police believed that a small boulder had crashed into the truck, causing it to leave the road. Tracks showed where the truck left the highway, just 20 feet west of the tunnel entrance.

Part of the truck lodged in brush 40 feet down from the highway level, but most of the wreckage was strewn along the steep incline hundreds of feet to the railroad guard fence below. An axle and wheel of the trailer leaped the fence and were found beyond the tracks, while a drum of oil which was part of the cargo, had bounded across the tracks and landed in the Columbia River.

The truck's motor meter was found
