THOMAS WAS RIGHT?

"I view a great, free and independent empire on the Columbia River." Such a statement might be well attributed to some forward-looking men of the present day. However, it was uttered by Thomas Jefferson in 1813.

The empire on the Columbia in past years has been great, but has been neither free nor independent. Scenic attractions, production of lumber and agricultural products, fishing and the giant hydro-electric projects of recent years have publicized the Northwest, but so long as freight rates necessitate our paying a high premium on freight for manufactured products from the East, we will not be free. As long as we suffer a discouraging cut in prices for the products we sell because of freight differentials, we will not be independent.

With industrial development through Bonneville and Grand Coulee power, and through taking advantage of water transportation facilities which will be ours we are sure to soon become self-sufficient and independent, and realize the vision of that statesman of early-day America.

Men help their wives with housecleaning if they leave on a vacation until it's finished.

Annual Red Cross Meeting

The annual meeting of the Hood River County Red Cross will be held Monday evening, March 21, at the Hood River Cafe at 6:30. A 50-cent dinner will be served. Election of officers and annual reports will be on the program and plans for the year will be made. All Red Cross members are invited to attend. A short program will be offered.

Voluntary donations for suffering refugees in China will be accepted by the Red Cross at Steele's Market or the First National Bank, it is announced.

Establish Maternity Home

A new Hood River Institution came into being Sunday when the Riverview Maternity and Rest Home, at 1001 Cascade was dedicated. Presiding at the ceremonies was Francis Woolsten. The Home will be operated by Miss Emma Hanby, a registered nurse, and Miss Ina Parker. The first patient was admitted Saturday night, Mrs. Wayne Garrett. Mr. and Mrs. Garrett are now the parents of a new baby girl.

TOURISTS STILL COMING

February was the 28th consecutive month during which registration of motor vehicles topped the figure for the corresponding month of the preceding year, Secretary of State Earl Snell announced recently. February's mark of 3859 non-resident motorists set a new record for the month, nearly one thousand above last year's mark.

A new low monthly record for traffic deaths was set during February in Oregon, when six fatalities were reported, Secretary of State Earl Snell announced recently. The previous low mark of 12 deaths was attained in February, 1931, and again in February, 1933. Seventeen persons were killed on Oregon highways in February of last year.
