Awards Made In 4-H Competition

At the Cascade Locks Parent-Teachers' meeting Wednesday evening, May 11th, there was a splendid exhibit of all 4-H work completed by boys and girls from this school. All the things made a fine display and the judges had a difficult time to make correct decisions. Mrs. A. J. Brunquist, active in 4-H work in Parkdale, kindly consented to act as judge and following are the results of her inspection:

Sewing I—first, Betty Jean Clark; second, Opal Champlin.

Sewing II—first, Helen Rosenback; second, Kathleen Lowe; third, Betty Kelsay.

Cooking I—first, Janice Nickelsen; second, Ted Langton; third, Kenneth Lowe.

Cooking II—first, Betty Kelsay; second, Helen Rosenback.

Bachelor Sewing—first, Ted Langton; second, John Woodward; third, Bob Kelsay.

Handicraft—first, Bob Kelsay; second, Dan Aebischer; third, Bob Orvis.

The girls taking Sewing II gave a fashion review wearing the dresses they had made themselves. Bob Kelsay and Ted Langton gave a demonstration on how to press trousers.

Other guests present were Arch Marble, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Gibson from Hood River and Mrs. Yeck from Barrett.

Mrs. C. A. Lynds, Past President of the P. T. A. from Bonneville was also present and installed the new officers in a very efficient manner.

A beautiful quilt was on display which the Sewing II girls had pieced and several ladies helped to quilt. Chances are being sold to raise money to send a 4-H boy or girl to Corvallis.

Pictures were also shown of the last year's 4-H summer school at Corvallis by Mr. Marble.

Columbia River Drops To Lower Levels

Old Man River took a drop this week and decided that for a few days it would take things easy. A week ago Wednesday the high point for this year was reached with a second flowage of 421,000. Yesterday the flowage started to level off at around 350,000 second feet.

The Snake River may be held responsible for this early rise and drop as there was quite a run-off just before the raise here and now the run-off has slackened off.

The Army engineers who won't predict, will just venture to say that before long the Columbia will start up again.

GRADUATION CEREMONIES ANNOUNCED

The combined graduating classes of both the Cascade Locks high school and the grade school will have a joint Baccalaureate service Sunday evening at the High School Gymnasium at 7:45 p. m.

Graduation exercises will be held Thursday evening at the high school at 7:45 p. m.

The Baccalaureate Service will be conducted by Rev. Willis Douglas.

More than 15,000 school children in the following counties, Skamania, Klickitat, Clark, Cowlitz and Lewis, heard an illustrated talk on Forestry and Forest Fire Prevention by Senior Forest Ranger Albert Wiesendanger who since April 1 has been on detail to the Columbia National Forest in Washington. Forty-seven programs were presented before High and Grade Schools. Ranger Wiesendanger has completed his detail and returned today to the Eagle Creek Ranger Station where he is in charge of the Eagle Creek Picnic and Camp Grounds.

Until his new office is completed he will continue to have his office in the ranger station, and announces he can be reached by phone at Bonneville 1293.

Radio Address To Climax Sprague's Race

CHARLES A. SPRAGUE

PORTLAND, May 12—Coming down the home stretch apparently well out in the lead, Charles A. Sprague will spend the last week of the primary campaign in Portland, having already covered a large part of the outlying state.

During his stay here Sprague will deliver two radio addresses. The first will be over KOIN at 9 p. m. today, and the second will be over KGW at 9:45 Wednesday, May 18. The Salem editor has a splendid radio voice and he gets over a real message to those interested in a revitalized republican party ready to meet problems of the day in an understanding and business-like way.

Sprague has completed a swing over the state, during which he met thousands of voters and left with them an impression that presages his success at the polls Friday of next week.

While the Sprague campaign did not start until after the last date for filing, it has been an intensive one and reports arriving at the office of Robert Boyd, state manager, indicate it is a winning one. In a remarkably short space of time the Salem editor has become known over a great state in a manner that means votes. This has come about without flare of drums, for the Sprague campaign has been one to draw support of thinking persons who want energy coupled with a dignity in keeping with the office being sought.

This morning Minor Corman, chairman of the Highway Development Committee of the Hood River Chamber of Commerce, Harold Loomis, manager of the Hood River Chamber together with William Keeler, Chairman of the Watergrade Highway of the Mid-Columbia Chamber of Commerce and Walter Scott representing the Portland Chamber of Commerce will leave for a three day flying trip to Eastern Oregon for the purpose of arousing interest in the Watergrade Highway from The Dalles to Portland.

In each town they will meet with the Chambers of Commerce to discuss with them ways and means of securing support for the early completion of this proposed highway.

This noon they will be at Arlington; tonight at Pendleton; tomorrow noon at La Grande and tomorrow night at Baker. They plan on returning the following day.

Work in Forests To Start Next Week

Remember, fire season starts May 15 and with it starts the work of the protection system of the forest service. Watch those cigarettes and matches. These were warnings issued this week by forest rangers.

With the coming of the fire season also comes the opening of the various construction camps throughout the Mt. Hood Forest. Forty-two men from the Wyeth C. C. Camp are located working on the Green Point Road under Walt Mohr. Six men under Wilbur Harrison are putting the Camp A section in order. Besides the regular crew at Eagle Creek, Al Wiesendanger has had four or five doing general work getting ready for the tourist season.

Cooperation Asked in Fire Prevention

An urgent plea for public cooperation in fire prevention during the coming summer was expressed by State Forester J. W. Ferguson in a statement issued today. He called attention to the fact that the season of 1937 was the most favorable ever experienced by the State Forestry Department and feels that this was largely due to public support and cooperation in fire prevention measures.

"Next Sunday, May 15th, marks the beginning of the closed season in Oregon," stated Mr. Ferguson, "and on this date many of the provisions of the Oregon forest code that are seasonal in character become effective. These are all protective measures and designed to prevent forest fires and reduce fire loss to a minimum.

"Burning permits must be secured by all those who intend to use fire in or near forest land for the purpose of land clearing or the disposal of slash or other debris. These can be secured from the local warden or ranger. The closed season continues until December 31, unless terminated prior to that time through a proclamation by the Governor.

"All logging, milling and other woods operations in western Oregon must secure permits from the State Forester before starting or continuing activities. The necessary applications can be secured from the various inspectors who are in the field at the present time. Also, spark arresters and other fire prevention equipment must be in place on all machinery that is in use.

The salmon of the Columbia River are on parade. Saturday morning bright and early the fish experts of the dam started perhaps what is to be the largest fish census ever attempted. Men are stationed at both of the huge fish ladders, one on Bradford Island and the other on the Washington shore, from around 4 in the morning till 8 at night. That is from daylight to dusk counting all the fish as they pass through on their way upstream. In order to aid the men in their counting, white platforms have been placed over which the fish swim.

After darkness falls, few fish move so that with the coming of darkness, gates are dropped. With the coming of dawn, the gates are raised and the counting begins. The men work in eight-hour shifts and keep the gates open all the time they are

Beltz Conducts Active Campaign for Justice Post

Charles H. Beltz, candidate for Justice of the Peace for Hood River County, has been in Cascade Locks during recent weeks in the interests of his campaign.

Beltz, who has been a resident of Oregon for 31 years, and a taxpayer for 18 years, is seeking public office for the first time. He is a 32nd degree Mason.

If elected, Beltz promises to carry on the justice of the peace work in an office, provided by himself, and promises justice to all and special privileges to none.

With many offices uncontested, local political observers were regarding the coming primaries to be held May 20, as an election which would probably bring out a moderately light vote.

Major attention seems to be pointed to the gubernatorial vote, where the greatest number of candidates are found. On the Republican side, eight candidates are on the ballot for Governor. Charles A. Sprague, Salem publisher, appears to have done the most vigorous campaigning for this post in the state. Other candidates are Sam H. Brown of Marion County, Henry M. Hanzen of Multnomah County, R. J. Hendricks of Marion County, J. W. Morton of Hood River, Charles L. Paine of Lane County, M. S. Shrock of Clackamas County and Clarence R. Wagner of Multnomah County.

Democratic candidates for governor include the incumbent, Governor Charles H. Martin, Henry L. Hess of Union County, and O. Henry Oleen of Columbia County.

Probably the least interest centers around the post of United States Senator to fill the term of Frederick Steiwer, which term will end January 3, 1939. Republicans who have filed for this place are Alex G. Barry of Multnomah County, Reade M. Ireland of Clackamas County, and T. McNary Weed of Washington County. Robert A. Miller of Multnomah County is the only Democrat for this senatorial term.

A senator for the same position is also to be elected, his term to begin January 3, 1939. Here the race is hot between Carl C. Donough of Multnomah County, and Willis Mahoney of Klamath Falls, democrats, and Rufus C. Holman and Robert N. Stanfield, both of Multnomah County, Republicans.

Two Democrats are running for democratic nomination for Representative in Congress—Walter M. Pierce, incumbent, and Wade Crawford of Klamath County. Three republicans aspire to this post—U. S. Balentine of Klamath County, Bayard T. Merrill of Malheur County, and Rennie A. Tull of Union County.

No competition in the primaries will be forthcoming for the office of Secretary of State. Earl Snell, incumbent, is running again on the Republican ticket, with Emily F. Edson of Multnomah County unopposed on the Democratic side.

The office of Superintendent of Public Instruction is sought by John W. Leonhardt of Union County and Rex Putnam of Linn County on the Democratic ballot, and by Charles A. Rice of Multnomah County, former superintendent of Portland schools, the Republican.

For Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor there are found two Republicans and two Democrats. G. O. P. candidates are David F. Graham of Malheur County, and C. H. Gram of Marion County. Democrats are Clarence F. Hyde of Lane County, and Paul E. Roth of Multnomah County.

In the local field, the only office which finds competition on both Republican and Democratic ballots is County Assessor. George Knox, incumbent, and Leon M. Bentley are the Democrats, and E. L. Johnson and Ernest F. Munroe, Republicans.

For County Judge, C. D. Nickelsen is running unopposed on the Republican ticket, and Lyman R. Ericson and A. L. Anderson are listed on the Democratic ballot.

WHERE ARE YOU, CLARA?

Dear Clara:
As we go to press we have not received your Cascade Locks news items. We have tried to reach you by phone but you are at some doing this afternoon and everyone in the neighborhood that might have a phone is also at this party so we are unable to reach you.

We hope that we will have the items by next week in addition to the ones for that week in time for the paper. We hope you had a good time at the party.
