

A. Day Officer In State Wildlife Group

Alva Day, for many years a strong advocate of game conservation, and secretary of the Hood River County Game Protective Association, was last week named vice-president of the Oregon Wildlife Federation at its third annual conference in Corvallis Thursday and Friday of last week. E. D. Button, vice-president of the local organization, was named to the board of directors of the state group.

The two men, who attended the conference at Corvallis, reported that the state group, which is a combination of game protective associations, Chambers of Commerce, 4-H clubs, Boy Scouts, and other similar organizations, went on record as favoring a constitutional amendment for Oregon which would provide for the appointment of five men to the state game commission for five-year periods. The Federation also is desirous of preventing any inroads on the state game fund. Governor-elect Charles A. Sprague, who addressed the gathering, announced there would be no change in the state game commission when he takes office, and that he intends to re-appoint E. E. Wilson of Corvallis to the commission, when Wilson's term expires.

A resolution was introduced into the conference by commercial fishermen proposing that all commercial fishing on the Columbia River above the Bonneville Dam be curtailed. The conference favored recommending the proposal to the voters of the state.

It was brought out that mining operations on coastal streams are greatly endangering the salmon there. Muddy waters prevent the descending fingerlings from securing an adequate food supply, it was pointed out.

Officers named by the state group were: Charles A. Sprague, honorary president; William L. Finley, regional director National Wildlife Federation; William J. Smith, Portland, president; Alva Day, Hood River, vice-president; H. H. Stage, Portland, secretary.

The only method of financing the state organization is through the sale of wildlife seals, inaugurated last year. The next sale will be held in February. The seals will be sold at $1 per sheet, each sheet picturing 80 different animals, birds, trees, flowers and fish.

PUD Hearing Set For Linn County

SALEM—A public hearing to determine the feasibility of the proposed Linn county peoples' utility district will be held at Lebanon December 9, the state hydroelectric commission announced here Tuesday.

In case the commission finds that the project is feasible, a special election will be called. A similar project was twice previously defeated by the voters of Linn county.

The district now under consideration would include virtually all of the agricultural area of Linn county and all of the municipalities, with the exception of Albany.

Films To Aid In Lighting Contest

Ilustrovox sound equipment and new home lighting films have been obtained from Yakima and will be shown to several organizations in Hood River during the next few days, according to Mrs. Mildred Owen, Home Lighting Advisor for Pacific Power and Light Company. Combining facts about eyesight conservation and lighting effects in the home, the films offer half an hour of educational entertainment that is well worth seeing.

The films were secured at this time particularly to aid those competing in the I. E. S. Lamp Contest, which ends at midnight Saturday, December 10. Local lamp dealers who are sponsoring the contest, announce that entry blanks will continue to be distributed until noon Saturday.

The 1st prize lamp will be exhibited at the Franz Furniture store during the remainder of the contest. Howe Electric Company and Hackett Furniture Company previously have displayed this lamp in their show windows.

Dr. Penn Crum, Hugh Ball, and R. J. Brenneman, principal of the White Salmon High School, have been appointed judges of the contest. Sponsors expect to announce the winning contestants early next week.

SPRAGUE VISITS MOSIER
Governor-elect Charles A. Sprague was a recent visitor in this locality. A news note from Mosier carried the information that the Salem publisher, who won decisively in the last election over Henry L. Hess, the democratic nominee, visited in Mosier Saturday at the home of A. C. Holmes.

Achievement Day To be Observed

Hood River's Second 4-H Club Achievement Day will be held Saturday of this week at the American Legion Hall, Hood River, according to L. B. Gibson, County Supt. of Schools, and A. L. Marble, County Agricultural Agent, who report a very excellent year in 4-H Club work and who expect capacities to be taxed that day.

The program is:
9:45 a. m.—Awarding of 4-H pins and presentation of theatre tickets.

10:40—Talk by C. D. Nickelsen, County Judge-Elect, on Boys and Girls work 60 years ago in Hood River.
10:45—Presentation of Special Awards (local, state, national)
11:15—Talk by L. J. Allen, Assistant State Club Leader, Corvallis, Ore.

11:45—Sing-a-song until lunch is served.

12:00—Lunch; Picture taking.
1:30—Free show for completing 4-H Club members, Rialto Theatre.

The Grange women of the County are furnishing a hot dish and serving lunch. Everybody brings sandwiches. The Hood River Farm Bureau and Arden Farms Inc. will furnish ice cream.

Special awards of Scholarships are to be presented by the following organizations: American Legion Auxiliary, Pine Grove Grange, Rockford Grange, Odell Grange, Pomona Grange, Rotary Club, Hood River Branch First National Bank of Portland, Hood River News, Business and Professional Women's Club, Hood River Garden Club.

Other Scholarships from the County School Board, the Hood River Sun and specials from 4-H Clubs will be announced later.

Style revue pins and County awards in contests of a national nature will be awarded.

It is hoped that the radio recently won by the Parkdale Social Progress Club will be on hand for presentation.

A picture show is a fitting end for the day and A. S. Kolstad and his Rialto Manager, Harry Weber, have arranged to admit the whole 333 completing club members to the afternoon show at the Rialto theatre free of charge.

PAVING STRIP COMPLETED

The new sector of Industrial Street, part of the Babler Brothers contract for improving Hood River city streets, has been completed and is open to traffic, from the Texaco Oil plant to its connection with the paving strip completed early this summer near the AGA cold storage plant. The work of surfacing other city streets has been delayed until spring.
