New State Laws Affect Motorists

A survey of law affecting motor vehicles and their operation, introduced at this year's session of the legislature, discloses that some important new measures were written into the books, according to a dispatch received in Hood River from the secretary of state's office.

Passed were a bill requiring the examination of all automobile operators at four-year intervals, beginning in 1943; a bill changing many details of the lighting code, and a third bill requiring pedestrians to observe traffic signals in the same manner as motor vehicles. Also successful was a bill enabling the owners of trucks and busses which are destroyed, retired from service or sold out of the state to transfer their registrations to other vehicles similarly used. A dozen lesser measures, making minor changes or additions to the law, were also passed.

The new driver's examination law will require all drivers to be re-examined every four years just as new drivers are now examined, in order to check on their vision, knowledge of law and driving ability. The examination may be taken at any time within the next four years at the option of the driver, but must be passed before June 30, 1943.

The two chief changes in the new headlight code will require drivers to dim their headlights at all times when approaching within 500 feet of other vehicles at night, and to have their headlights turned on from a half hour after sunset to a half hour before sunrise, and whenever there is insufficient light to make visible a person 500 feet away, rather than 200 feet away, as at present.

Silo Silas Sez . . .

The busiest man in the country is that fellow who spends his time living up to his wife's expectations. You can tell a woman a "dead secret" and it won't be long before there will be life in it.

The home that had a what-not in the corner, in the old days, and had strange things on it, has a radio in the corner today, and gets strange things on it, too.

Anything is possible! Some day you will find a wife who thinks her hands is as brilliant a man as he thinks he is.

The man who advocates a dictator, figures on him dictating to somebody else.

There are many women who want to go to Heaven just out of curiosity.

The mother who used to swear her child was six years old so he could ride for nothing, now swears he is sixteen so he can drive the family automobile.

When anybody says something is lousy, I always think of the way the farm colts suffer in the spring when they are shedding.

Recipes . . .

Eggs in Tomato Sauce

2 hard cooked eggs, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 1 tsp. salt, 4 tbsps. flour, 3 tbsps. butter, onion and green pepper to taste. Melt butter in pan. Add salt and flour, stirring to make paste. Add tomatoes gradually and stir until thick and smooth. Add eggs after being shelled and quartered. Serve with rice, hominy or fried mush.
