

TEMPERANCE OR PROHIBITION.

There is quite as much being said by the press of the state on the temperance or prohibition question since the election as before. The republican papers charge the democrats with voting for the amendment for the purpose of injuring the republican party. Just how the 948 majority in democratic Linn injures the republicans is not made plain. The vote in eastern Oregon as well as on this side shows conclusively that the claim of the republicans that they are the only temperance party is without foundation. The contest in this state was of a non-partisan character and the cause of defeat cannot be charged to any one party. When Iowa voted on prohibition a few years ago in a non-partisan way and adopted it, the republicans claimed all the honor. In this state at the last general election the managers of the republican party acted in a way to forever forfeit its claim to any honor as a temperance party. The time has come when the term "temperance" is made to mean anything or nothing. Prohibition is the word that has a meaning, and should be adopted by all as representing the only phase of the liquor question upon which to take sides. Honest people differ as to the best mode of securing what they call "temperance regulation." Just now a large class are clamoring for a high license law with a local option tail, and this is probably the best thing in the reach of this state at this time.

THE COUNTRY EDITOR.

Allan Forman, editor of the Journalist, says: "Every now and again I see in the city papers sneers at the country papers, and jokes at the expense of rural editors. It may be that my experience has been peculiarly fortunate, but I have found that the average country journalist with whom I have come in contact has more brains, more straight-out, square-toed ability, more pride and interest in his profession, and more money than his city brother. It is the graduates from the country offices who make the best men in city journalism. I read of the country editor who takes his pay in squashes and cordwood, but I see the country editor, who pays me in checks on his local banks—checks which are always good. I read of the poverty-stricken rural newspaper man, but in my experiences, and I have met a good many of them, the rural journalist is apt to own a share in the paper he edits, the house he lives in, a horse, and buggy, while the metropolitan writer who invents the highly humorous paragraph concerning his country brother, too often owes for the coat on his back. And finally, a good country editor is a king-pin in his locality. He is looked up to and respected as a leader of public opinion, a man who knows what is going on in the world. I can't imagine a more enviable position than that of the owner and editor of a good country paper. Compared to the grind of a city daily, the work is light, and the rewards are proportionately greater."

We have received the first volume of Appleton's Encyclopedia of Biography. The volume is substantially bound and printed in the highest style of the art. It contains eleven steel plate engravings, those of the late President Arthur, President Cleveland and George Bancroft, the historian, are exceptionally fine. The sketches are well written and contain every salient point in the lives of all of America's noted men. It is a valuable work and no library is complete without it. The price, library binding, is $6 a volume, and the set contains six volumes.

A statement has been prepared at the treasury department which shows that during the month of October there was a net increase of over $13,000,000 in the circulation. The total circulation of the first of this month amounts to $1,366,512,249 with $608,600,000 cash now in the treasury.

Canadian farmers are emigrating to the West, but while American immigrants are emigrating to Canada. The Britishers are very slow in this exchange.

INDIA WHEAT.

Hon. B. F. Bonham, formerly of Salem, but now consul general for the United States to Calcutta, in India, has made his report to the state department at Washington, in which, among other things, he says that during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1886, the area devoted to wheat was about 27,500,000 acres, and the total yield 289,000,000 bushels. As compared with the wheat of the Pacific Coast, the wheat is inferior, but when exported to Europe it is mixed and ground with wheat of a superior quality, by which process a fair marketable grade of flour is obtained. The mode of cultivation in the main is the same as it was centuries ago, and there seems to be great difficulty in inducing farmers to invest in modern agricultural implements; yet, with all their simple and primitive methods, the Indian can, in the opinion of the consul general, successfully compete with those of the United States in the production of wheat. This is due to the fact that the Indian farmer's outfit represents a capital of not more than $40 or $45, and the hired help works, feeds and clothes himself on about $2.50 per month. The exportation of wheat from British India has increased from 3,000,000 centals in 1868 to 21,000,000 centals in 1886. Mr. Bonham says that some of his predecessors have claimed that the United States have nothing to fear from India as a competitor in wheat. He does not concur in this view, but believes that to-day India is second only to the United States in wheat growing. He says wheat growing in India is in its infancy and developments are being rapidly made upon means of transportation to the sea board. He fears that in these constantly growing and improved facilities for transportation, the United States will find India a formidable competitor. Thus more and more does the fact impress itself upon us that while the farmer is taxed to benefit every manufacturing industry in the land, he is left the helpless victim of competition with the cheaper laborers of the world. This is one of the beauties of tariff protection.—Albany Democrat.

The Congressional library building when completed will be the largest structure in Washington with the exception of the Capitol, and will cover 111,000 feet of space. It will cover about 21,000 feet more than the new state, war and navy buildings, and 14,000 feet more than the British museum library and about 12,000 feet more than the Royal library of Bavaria, and 1,000 feet more than the new German parliament building.

The war cloud is again looming up very darkly over Europe. The relations between Russia and Germany, are in a critical condition, and the slightest friction in affairs will precipitate a war, and yet a little diplomacy may cause the threatening cloud to blow over. It appears that Russia and France have a secret alliance as against Germany, and both of these great powers have declared that they are ready for war.

Express Messenger Smith, who shot and killed two train robbers in Texas, will receive purses that will aggregate him about $6,000. This reward will prove a substantial discouragement to the train-robbing industry in the Lone Star State. When it is understood that a train robber's scalp is worth $3,000 in good money to persons other than himself, the rascal will expose said scalp in less perilous adventures in future.

The operation of the new registry law has revealed the fact in some cities of Ohio that a number of foreign-born citizens have been voting for years without being naturalized, and have even held office without having renounced their allegiance to foreign potentates. Oregon should have a registry law.

A special train of twenty cars loaded with raisins left Fresno, California, last week for New York and Boston. This is the first full train of raisins ever shipped from the Pacific Coast.

It is said to be very doubtful if any of the territories will be admitted to statehood at this session of congress.

Congress meets one week from next Monday.
