

BLAINE vs. THE PLATFORM.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM. We declare our position to all combinations of capital, organized into trusts or otherwise, to control arbitrarily the condition of trade among citizens. We recommend to congress and the state legislatures in their respective jurisdictions such legislation as will prevent the execution of all schemes to oppress the people by undue charges on their supplies, or by unjust rates for the transportation of their products to market.

BLAINE IN MAINE. When President Cleveland delivered his message he had something to say to the American people about the danger in trusts. I think there have since been no democratic papers in the country, whether they understood the meaning of the words or not, that have not been constantly warning the people as to the horrible danger of trusts. Well, I shall not discuss trusts this afternoon. I shall not venture to say that they are altogether advantageous or disadvantageous. They are largely private affairs with which neither President Cleveland nor any private citizen has any particular right to interfere.

A few years ago Mr. Gladstone delivered a speech at Leeds, in which he used the following language: "I will say this, that as long as America adheres to the protective system your commercial supremacy is secure. Nothing in the world can wrest it from you while America continues to fetter her own strong hands and arms and with these fettered arms is content to compete with you, who are free, in neutral markets." And as long as America follows the doctrines now known as those of fair trade, you are perfectly safe and you need not allow, any of you, even your slightest slumbers to be disturbed by the fear that America will take from you your commercial supremacy."

Wool men and woolen manufacturers will go slow until they see whether democracy will hold the whip and the reins. A great carpet factory in Lowell, and another in Clinton, Massachusetts, have closed their doors to wait and see. Three thousand operatives are idle in consequence. If Grover Cleveland should be re-elected and the senate become democratic, grass will grow in the paths leading to a thousand now busy' manufactories.—Statesman. Republican editors wrote in the same strain four years ago and yet business in all branches has been better during Cleveland's administration than at any time since the war.

From the most reliable sources it is estimated that the apparent net deficiency in the world's wheat crop is somewhere in the neighborhood of 75,000,000 bushels. Oregon farmers have just harvested the largest crop for years, and may look for better prices than have prevailed for the last few seasons.

Republican workingmen should remember that their candidate for vice-president is not related to the late Oliver P. Morton, the lamented war governor of Indiana, but is related to the titled aristocracy of England, where he has a business office.

Ben. Harrison's great-grandfather was killed by lightning.—S. F. Alta. And the great-grandson didn't put his lightning rod up at Chicago in vain.—Salem Statesman. No, he will receive the shock in November.

The democratic and republican candidates for the governorship of Indiana, C. C. Matson and A. P. Hovey, are members of congress, and have been granted a leave of absence for fifteen days on account of "important business." They will stomp the state together.

Hon. Warner Miller has been nominated by the New York republicans for governor.
