F. E. Rogers, a prosperous druggist of McMinnville, was in Albina last Wednesday, a guest of Dr. W. H. Boyd.
Mr. Rogers expresses himself as very much pleased with our city and its prospects.—Albina Courier.

The eclipse of the sun on Tuesday was witnessed by a great many people, who with smoked glass to their eyes, could be seen in all parts of the city intently watching the clouds to roll by that they might get a glimpse of the great phenomenon.

While Robert Henry and his brother Anson, of Lafayette, were exercising a couple of horses last week, the horse that Anson rode stepped in a hole and broke its thigh. The boy jumped off as the horse was falling, or he would have been killed or seriously injured. The poor brute was soon killed, and put out of misery. Several years ago this horse was a runner and won four or five big races.

EMPHATIC RESOLUTIONS.—The Marion county Grange has passed the following resolution: Whereas, there exists in Oregon a combination composed of the millers of Oregon, through whose control four has been advanced in price not less than one dollar per barrel more than is reasonable. Therefore, Resolved, That the attention of the next legislature be directed to the matter of extending the law regulating tolls to exchange wheat for flour. Resolved, That the fare on railroads be reduced to three cents per mile. We concur with Linn county in the adoption of resolutions in regard to agricultural colleges. Resolved, That we are opposed to the legislature making any appropriation to perfect the title of the Agricultural college at Corvallis. Resolved, That the state of Oregon own and print its own school books, and that the law authorizing the change of all kinds of books by the several county superintendents be repealed.

THE CAUSE.—J. P. Lord, master of the Yaquina Bay, has made the following statement of the cause of the wrecking of that fine steamer: "As there has been much comment on the loss of the steamship Yaquina Bay in Yaquina Bay, I wish to say that the steamer was wrecked in Yaquina Bay, inside of the bar, through the carelessness of a pilot employed by the Oregon Development company. No blame whatever is attached to the captain of the tug Resolute. It was my first trip to Yaquina, but common sense told me from years of sea service that a ship must be going through the water to have storage way; but my pilot told me a ship must go slow over Yaquina Bay to go safely. I went slow, and the result is my ship is a wreck in Yaquina harbor, alongside the jetty."

THE FIRST SPIKE.—The first spike on the Salem street railway was driven on Monday of this week. Father J. L.
Parrish, the pioneer Methodist missionary, did the driving with the first American ax ever brought to Oregon. This ax was purchased by the board of missionaries of the Methodist church in New York in 1833, and was sent around the horn with other supplies for the Oregon mission. It arrived here in '34 as the first of the mission. It was used by superintendent of the mission; reached Oregon, after crossing the plains. It was used by Jason Lee in doing all the heavy work for the mission buildings along the Willamette, from the foundation of the mission in 1834 until 1841.

NEW PROPRIETOR.—On January 1, 1889, the well-known and reliable grocery store of Al. Husey changed proprietors.
Mr. J. J. Collard, long and favorably known in this county, being the purchaser. Strong efforts will be made to sustain the former good reputation of the store and to merit a fair share of the public patronage. Goods delivered free to all parts of the city.

Box.—On Monday, December 31, 1888, in McMinnville, Oregon, the wife of Frank Zerle, twin daughters, were born. The mother and children are doing well.

CREAMERY AND COLD STORAGE.

For a year or two past creameries have been started in several counties of this state, but up to last week nothing had been done in this county toward inaugurating this best of all methods in dairing. Last Wednesday Mr. B. Mahanna, the Pacific Coast manager of the firm of Davis & Rankin, of Chicago, arrived in town with letters of introduction to a few leading citizens and commenced to talk creamery and cold storage to our business men and prominent farmers with the vigor of a life insurance agent. It is proposed to organize a joint stock company with a capital of $7,500, and in this work Mr. Mahanna with local assistance, is succeeding fairly well. The advantages of the creamery system have been pretty thoroughly understood by most people for some time, and as an opportunity is now presented for the people of Yamhill county to get what they need and what will be a direct benefit to every farmer who lives within eight or ten miles of the creamery, the necessary effort should be made to secure it. Creameries have been or are to be located in nearly all the principal towns in Eastern Oregon and Washington, and this valley has far greater advantages than any place east of the Cascades. "Under this system," says a writer in the Oregonian, "the farmer's wife has only to set the milk and take off the cream. The skim-milk is sent on the farm to feed to stock. Cream is collected once a day from a circuit of twenty-five miles square by wagons sent out from the factory, which is located at some good town. The cream is measured by spades, and each one represents a pound of butter. The farmer is paid for each space the price of a pound of ordinary farm butter, and the factory depends for its profit on the greater value creamery products command over ordinary butter. So the farmer is saved the trouble of churning and making butter and marketing it. The Fairbank can will raise 25 per cent more cream than can be made by the farm process. One farmer in Ohio testified that while he had been making 128 pounds a month by the farm dairy, after the change the factory paid him for gallons, which was 40 per cent increase. After allowing the farmer the profit, the factories at the East average to earn 15 to 30 per cent dividends for their stockholders. In spite of the immensely increased manufacture of butter in the country, there is now a greater demand at higher price than was ever before known. This shows that no danger exists that the market for choice dairy products will ever be overdone."

STRANGELY IGNORANT.

Clinton Cooke, of Salem, at present a student at the Chicago Medical College, writes home under date of December 19th: "I hear the jingle of sleigh bells now, as we had about four inches of snow last night, and, as it is bright and sun-shining to-day, every one is out. I think the weather is here when one does not have to be out in it, but excuse me from any out door work. Every day I see someone beating his hands about and rubbing his nose and ears to get them warm. One feels the cold and knows that it is cold, but it does not seem to exhaust one like the cold in Oregon. Seyraust the boys think of going to California or Washington Territory to practice after completing their studies here. But little seems to be known of Oregon or of Portland, and, of course, Willamette is accented on the syllable, much to the disgust of an Oregonian; in the city public schools, however, the name is pronounced correctly. If any one says he is going to the Pacific coast, people immediately ask, 'Which place, California or Washington Territory?' I saw an advertisement in the Tribune about a month ago of the Oregon Board of Immigration, but I think it only appeared a few times.
One of the second year men in the school told me that he thought Oregon was a territory. I told him I had thought so too since I had left there. The June election did more to advertise Oregon than anything else ever did."
