Last Tuesday, in company with Supt. Freund we took a drive out to Mr. J. B. P. Piette's, two miles south of town—a ortion of the eld Dave Logan farm. It is a most beautiful place, containing up-wards of 400 acres of the choicest land. Mr. Piette is having the old house remoddled and made anew, and by this means, will make his home a doubly ozy one.

Mr. J. C. Cooper is at present at work loing binding for everal parties in town. He takes, for instance, a volume of weekly papers and puts them into a book in a neat and substantial manner. Work that we have seen—the "Campaign" and he "Reporter," bears us out in stating that if you have any work of this kind you want done, you can do no better than to give him a chance.

The 4th of July committee are leaving nothing undone that will tend to make the celebration a success. Those having the liberty car in charge have it about ready to go into the procession; those interested in the army and navy have been working hard to have that move out in ship-shape, while Mr. and Mrs. Fellows are laboring assiduously with the little folks in order to have the Mother Goose Lancers pass off credita-bly. In fact everything moves.

The Drowning of Roy Brown.

One of the saddest events that has come to our ears was the drowning of little Roy Brown at Lafayette, at 4 o'clock Monday evening last. Together with his brother Ralph, a lad of sixteen years, Roy was wading in the Yambill just below the second falls-about two hundred yards above the bridge. The bed of the river is composed of solid rock, and a continual wash of the water over it makes the rock very slippery. Roy slipped and fell and as it strangled him he became frightened and grabbed Ralph by the leg and together they were washed from shallow water into a hole ing in primary and grammar schoolsbut Roy's struggles and the strong current proved too much for his strength, and after swimming with his burden several yards was compelled to abandon him to the mercy of the waters, and it was with difficulty he could reach the shore, so near was he exhausted. Imagine his feeling; there within a few feet he beheld his little brother rise and sink for the third and last time without being able to lend him assistance. alarm was given and the large-hearted people of Lafayette turned out en masse, to rescue him if possible before life had entirely left the body. A score of divers began the search, which continued up this time capturing a nest of coons, consisting of the mother and four young ones, all were killed but one young one which he brought to town to stir up the boys. He captured them on the old farm near town. waters. Roy was a bright little fellow of 10 years; he was a nephew of Dr. Calbreath, with whom he has lived the past three years. In that time those with whom he associated learned to love him; and it was no wonder that the drowning cast a gloom over the town. It is pre-sumed that the body has been caught beneath a rock or root and held down else explosions of the giant powder would have raised him.

LATER.—Just as we go to press we learn that a diver was brought up from Portland Thursday, and that he found the body near where it sank.

Important Resolutions.

The funny and interesting part of the affair came in afterward, and this was enjoyed by all. The ice cream and cake found ready purchasers and the result was the ladies "cleaned up" a neat little sum—site of the little sum—site of the programme was very short—long enough, the furnace. When Mr. S. withdrew the poker he did it, hurriedly and Mr. Willis received a blow from the end of it on the right cheek and eye that laid him cold for awhile. Though he recovered in a few moments, it left an ugly looking mark on his face.
