

WEST SIDE TELEPHONE.

McMINNVILLE, TUESDAY, JULY 20, 1886.

Saunders is still at large.

Charley Parton was sunstruck at Roseburg at 5 o'clock Saturday. Something new in Oregon.

Crops, stock and families in Colorado are suffering for want of rain, as they have had no rainfall during the past three months.

The new town of Vancouver is sadly out of luck. It was just rising from its ashes, when a fire on the 16th reduced it a second time.

Four cars of Forepaugh's circus train were wrecked last Friday, in Maine. Twenty-five horses were killed and several men injured.

Douglas W. Taylor, of Portland, has been appointed surveyor-general of Oregon. He will succeed Judge Tolman who has held the position for eight years.

On Monday of last week fifteen hands on the Narrow gauge at Dallas struck for an advance from $1.50 to $2.00 per day. Receiver Scott granted the demands and work was resumed. So said the Itemizer.

There was a most disgraceful proceeding at Washington, Friday last. Two representatives, Laird, of Nebraska, and Cobb, of Indiana had a few words over the rights of homestead settlers, when Sullivan-like Laird struck Cobb a stinging blow in the mouth and nose. It is high time congress adjourned.

The New York Times has been making an investigation of the reported damage to the hop crop. Its report confirms those already published. There will be from one-third to half a crop. The price of hops for July is from twelve to thirty cents. Friday thirty cents was freely bid for 1886 Pacific coast hops and refused.

There is no reason in the world why Yamhill county should not have a most successful fair in September. She has the stock, the cereals and other farm products that must make up the most important features; added to these comes the promise of some of the best horses in the state from the outside. All things considered the affair is moving on delightfully and will terminate successfully if our people keep on the move.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The river and harbor bill passed the senate this afternoon. The bill is of very little value to California. The affairs of Oregon in the bill have been managed with great skill, and that state suffers very little by the scaling of 25 per cent. which the senate ordered. Every item in the bill is cut down. As soon as the bill came from the house the Oregon senators went to the senate committee and increased the Oregon items. The amount for Oregon in the bill as it came from the house was $605,000; the Oregon senators had $165,000 added in the senate committee. The twenty-five per cent. reduction leaves Oregon $577,500, nearly as much as originally allowed by the house. Both Dolph and Mitchell were opposed to scaling the bill.

The Oregonian's head is level on at least this point: "The teachers' institute held last week at Yaquina bay was the most successful and profitable ever held in the state. These conventions, of which we hear much good natured sneering from time to time, are doing a great deal for the cause of education in this state. Through them teachers become acquainted with each other and become filled with the professional idea and spirit. This, we think, is more of an advantage than the 'comparison of ideas' of which so much is said. School teaching ought to be the business of people devoted to it just as lawyers and doctors are devoted to their work, and not the makeshift employment of women between girlhood and matrimony and men looking for something better. The institute is a factor and an important one in training the army of teachers into a devoted professional corps."

Miss Snodgrass, aged sixteen years, was thrown from a pony at Tygh valley, Wasco county, a few days ago. Her hoop skirt caught in the horn of the saddle, and the horse becoming frightened ran away furiously, dragging the unfortunate girl about a mile and a half over a very rocky road. Finally the saddle was detached by the breaking of strap that served as a cinch. Miss Snodgrass was found in a field, her clothes almost literally torn to shreds and her body covered with bruises. The head was almost crushed to a jelly and the tips of the fingers were worn to the bones.

The Rural New Yorker's crop estimate is usually regarded as very trustworthy, and with regard to wheat it is inclined to be liberal, and puts the yield of winter and spring at 435,000,000 bushels. A crop calculator in the New York Tribune sees 450,000,000 bushels, and both these estimates are very much higher than the prognostics earlier in the season when a scare was on. The winter wheat crop, according to the Rural, will be better than last year's by about 80,000,000 bushels, while the spring wheat will fall short of last year's crop by about 5,000,000 bushels.

THE LATEST CROP REPORTS.

Bickleton, W. T.: Grain looks well and there will be an average crop.

Brown's Yakima county, W. T.: Crops in this neighborhood will be very large.

North Yamhill: Spring crops are not very good. Potatoes will be scarce next fall.

Linn county: The harvest of both spring and fall wheat will be larger than last fall.

Chobalia, W. T.: The yield of potatoes will probably be large this year, but the price will be correspondingly large.

Walla Walla: Preparations for the coming harvest are being made on all sides. Crops of all kinds will yield large.

Weston: Good judges say there are better crop prospects around Weston this year than in any section of Umatilla county.

Ellensburg, Or.: Owing to late frosts, dry weather and depredations of gophers the potato crop in this vicinity will be rather slim.

Gas on, Or.: Wheat is ripening fast with a prospect of a good yield. Hay harvest has commenced in earnest and there is a better yield than was anticipated.

Mt. Angel, Marion county: A number of farmers in this vicinity complain about their potato crops. They say most of the seed has rotted in the ground, and will not grow.

Oregon City: The indications now are that the farmers in this county will have an average crop in most things, while the hop growers are feeling good with hops at 20 cents, with a prospect of further rise.

OREGON'S GOVERNORS.

All of Oregon's governors who have served since the state was admitted into the union are yet living. They are Whiteaker, Gibbs, Woods, Grover, Chadwick and Thayer. Of the territorial governors none are living. Of those under the provisional government only P. G. Stewart is living. Of her senators, Delazon, Smith, Baker, Lane and Nesmith are dead. Geo. H. Williams, Ben Stark, Harding, Corbet, Grover, Slater are living. Stark served a few months by appointment, in place of Col. Baker, who was killed at Ball's Bluff, and now lives in Connecticut. Of those who served as congressmen, J. H. D. Henderson, J. S. Smith, Lansing Stout and J. W. Nesmith are dead; J. G. Wilson and Geo. A. Ladow died before taking their seats. L. F. Grover, Geo. K. Shiel, John R. McBride, R. Mallory, J. H. Slater, L. F. Lane, Richard Williams, John Whiteaker and M. C. Gore are yet living and all reside in this state except McBride, who lives at Salt Lake.

MANY FARMERS SWINDLED.

Henry Kleisni, of Clackamas county, claims that he and other farmers have been sadly victimized by an individual named D. Clark. In April of this year he paid Clark $2.50 for a recipe for a patent preserving fluid for preserving all kinds of meat, fish, fruit, cider, vegetables, eggs, flowers, etc. in a natural style for a period of thirty months. All this was to be done with the same fluid and without changing the flavor a particle. It was represented that the articles so preserved would not freeze, turn sour, become mouldy, whether sealed or unsealed. The ingredients consisted of boracic acid, carbonate of soda, salicylic and white sugar. These were to be dissolved in water. The victims of this cruel fraud were not only out their $2.50 first paid, but everything the preparation was tried on was destroyed, the fluid was entirely useless, and in some instances large quantities of fruit, cider, eggs and meats were lost by Clark's victims. Farmers should hand anyone trying to sell a formula of this kind to them over to the nearest constable.—News.

Professor Dodge, statistician of the agricultural department, says concerning various estimates made from his last report on the wheat crops, that though the average condition of spring wheat on the first day of last July was 96, it fell to 86 at the time of harvest, which is only three points higher than the present condition, and represents a loss of less than 6,000,000 bushels, as compared with the result of last year's harvest. Damage occurred last year in the last two weeks of July, and later. There is great risk of further damage during July and August, but that already means only a loss of 6,000,000 bushels in spring wheat and 5,000,000 bushels in winter wheat, or a total loss of 11,000,000 bushels in wheat during the month of June.

If an "outsider" thinks for a moment that he can keep track of the markets he is mistaken. As has always been the case a dark and gloomy showing is made by the "bulls and bears" in the wheat market in order to frighten our farmers and cause them to make a rush for the first chance, hoping thereby to get their wheat at their own figures. Let us say to the farmers of Yamhill: Be not hasty in selling your crop or any portion of it. The price is so low that it is not at all probable that it will drop lower while there is a very favorable outlook for a slight rise. The markets run in yesterday's quotations at different points: New York, 86½ cents per bushel; Chicago, 87c; San Francisco, $1.23½; @1.25 per cent; Portland, $1.12½ @ 1.15 per cent. There has been but little variation from this during the past week.

Native Missourians.

McMINNVILLE, July 16, 1886.

The native Missourians of this vicinity, catching the spirit of the age, in the rage for native societies, undertook to organize here yesterday. A parcel of 'em got together up in the loft in Crawford's brick and discussed the qualifications necessary for membership. After talking over the matter at loose ends for a while Film Jetcher thought we'd better have a chairman and proceed in business shape, and nominated Ben Jaker to preside for the present. Cool Capper objected to Jaker because he was a democrat and a little too orthodox, and was opening out on the war and theology in general, when Jaker took the chair and fetched his backhorn knife a whack across a goods box that was being used for a table, which brought things to order suddenly, and said: "Fellow citizens, I am proud to know that I have been elected president of my own countrymen on this far off coast (at this point Jaker was going to suggest that there had been no election yet, but he desisted) and we will therefore proceed to business." Woc Datts wanted to know if a man had to be born in old Pike before he could join.

Sec Dutton wanted to take in Kape-tucky provided the man had lived in Missouri as much as ten years.

Geop Jarrison wanted to take in Indiana, too.

Shelter Lobe asked if a man's war record would effect his standing in the society. The president stated that any man who had lived in Missouri ten years and would not deny his country would be taken in, but natives who stood by old Pike through thick and thin were to be given the preference of all soft places. That a man's war record would be no bar unless there was considerable contraband horse flesh mixed into it. In politics he must let every man vote as he pleased, and if his religion was no benefit to his neighbor, it was no go.

The meeting then sang "Joe Bowers" and stood adjourned. The president then said that, "any member caught smoking ten cent cigars or drinking ten cent whisky and grumbling about the hard times or Chinese cheap labor would be waited upon by the committee on Fellowship." SMOX JITH, Secy.

Ho! For the East!

Mr. J. C. Cooper has received the following circular from the State Board of Immigration, which should interest all: "The commissioners of immigration, having decided to send another exhibit car, freighted with Oregon products, on a tour of States East of the Rockies, most earnestly request your valuable assistance in make the necessary collection of grains, grasses, fruits, vegetables, woods, minerals, etc. While Mr. D. D. Prettyman has been appointed general collector for the board, the commissioners hope for and have need of prompt and efficient work on the part of those whose late tests will be largely benefitted by the results of showing Oregon products in the eastern states. The commissioners are anxious that every county, and particular locality in the state shall be represented in this car, and to this end, request your assistance. A very small amount of labor from two or three persons in each county, will in the aggregate, provide an adequate supply of these specimen productions." Mr. Cooper has established his headquarters at the drug store of Rogers & Todd, in this city, and we expect in a short time to see one of the finest collections there ever produced in Yamhill county. Farmers, don't forget this: No country in the world excels Oregon in producing the items mentioned above, and no county in the state can equal Yamhill, and all we need to place us in the front rank in the eyes of the Union is a little trouble in bringing our specimens together.
