

WEST SIDE TELEPHONE.

McMINNVILLE, FRIDAY FEB. 11, 1897.

WATTS' LIQUOR BILL.

We are in receipt of a copy of Watts' liquor bill, a substitute for senate bill No. 63. It requires a license from the county to sell in less quantities than a gallon except for medicinal, scientific or mechanical purposes; license is placed at $500 per annum; before receiving the license the applicant shall file a bond in the sum of $1000; conditioned that the applicant, during the continuance of the license, will keep an orderly house and permit no gambling of any kind about premises; sell liquor to no minor, habitual drunkard or person intoxicated; allow no minors about his place, and not open or permit to be opened his place of business on Sunday. Any person applying for a license shall obtain the signatures of a majority of the legal voters of the precinct, to a petition to the county court, praying that said license be granted. No petition for a license shall be considered by the county court unless the applicant shall produce proof, by affidavit of one of the petitioners and two resident householders of the precinct that he has complied with the provisions of the act, and has caused his petition to be published for four consecutive weeks immediately preceding the application for his license, in a daily or weekly paper of a general circulation published in his county; provided, that if there is no paper published in the county, the petition is to be posted in three of the most public places in the county. These are the most important points of the bill. Penalties are attached for the violation of any part of the act. As will be seen by reference to the bill, in addition to the $500 license, it virtually prohibits gambling of any sort in the saloon or up in the premises, and contains some wholesome provisions against permitting minors to remain around such places. The license, particularly in cities, may not be considered as exorbitant, but some of the features will be regarded as an effort at local option, not to say prohibition. It is hardly to be assumed that a majority of legal voters in many precincts will care to have their names published as favoring an extension of the saloon business.

We have been asked a number of times during the last few days regarding Richard A. Jones of Oregon, recently appointed chief justice of Washington territory. The following flattering notice of him appears in the evening Telegram of a recent date, which will probably be satisfactory to all inquirers: "R. A. Jones, of Portland, who has been appointed chief justice of Washington territory, came here a year ago, and has been practicing law ever since, part of the time as a member of the firm of Jones & Merrick. He was a prominent member of the Minnesota bar, having practiced for years at Rochester, in that state, and he has always taken an active part in politics. During the war he acted with the republican party, but soon after the close of the rebellion went back to his first love. He will be remembered as one of the speakers at the demonstration for home rule, at Portland, last summer. Members of the bar of that city speak highly of Mr. Jones's legal attainments and social qualities." Probably the service rendered to his country which procured him such a lucrative position was that he helped nominate Cleveland for the presidency.

Parties who are urging the purchase of the Oregon City locks by the state claim that in the present condition it leaves the water power of Oregon City in a very unfavorable condition. The state has the privilege of purchasing the locks any time within the next six years and should they at the expiration of that time do so it would have the power to condemn any manufacturing industry using water power that might be established, consequently it is urged that the state either purchase the locks or relinquish its right to the water power to capitalists who can then invest in manufacturing industries with some degree of security.

The great strike along the river front at New York is slowly coming to an end. Freight is beginning to be moved with more dispatch. The time that has elapsed since the longshoremen and freight handlers quit work has enabled the railroad and steamship companies to select and in some cases train sufficient men to keep freight moving steadily along. Besides, many of the old freight handlers and longshoremen are coming back to work, not at the places where they are known, but where they are least likely to be known.

The Salem Statesman wonders why it did not occur to Miss Ninny Van Zandt and the murderer Spies to be married on the scaffold immediately prior to the bridegroom's execution, and thinks that as an advertising scheme it would yield a large dowry to the hempen (not grass) widow.

The San Francisco courts are giving Goldenison all the chance in the world to get clear. The commissioners to take testimony in eastern cities, asked by his attorney were granted. Goldenison presented an affidavit that it was necessary in order to prove his insanity.

The United States senate has passed, without debate or division, the twin bill appropriating in the aggregate $21,000,000 for the encouragement of the manufacture of steel for modern naval ordnance and armor, shafting and other naval purposes, and to provide for heavy ordnance adapted to modern warfare. The first part of the bill provides for the establishment of a gun foundry at Watervliet arsenal, West Troy, N. Y., for finishing guns adapted to modern warfare, and for the manufacturing of gun carriages and ordnance equipments and authorizes the secretary of war to make contracts with responsible steel manufacturers for heavy ordnance adapted to modern warfare, and appropriates $4,000,000 for the purpose. It further appropriates $5,000,000 for the construction of fortifications and other works of coast defense. The second bill provides for a naval gun factory at the Washington navy yard for similar authority in reference to the purchase of materials, etc. It also appropriates $1,000,000. The national senate has waked up to the necessity of something more than mere talk on the war question. The appropriation of $21,000,000 for modern ordnance and coast fortifications will convince the foreign powers that the government intends to back its words with effective deeds if necessary.

The looked for veto of the governor on the bridge bill was read in the senate Wednesday morning. A few weeks ago Governor Penoyer declared in his inaugural address that the federal government had no right to interfere with certain legislative rights of the state, and his first veto to the legislature was based on the objections of the general government through government engineers. The inaugural claimed that when the federal courts conflicted with state courts the decision of the state courts should stand. If that is the case, why should the opinion of the government engineers have precedence over local engineers? Quite a number of gentlemen around the state capital cannot mix the two opinions, and do not hesitate to say so. There was no argument in the senate at the time the message was read, and it was contented by simply making it a special order for Friday at 10 o'clock. If any kind of a fight is made for the bill it can be carried over his veto, and its friends express no doubt about it. Of course the objections furnished by the governor will receive proper consideration.

Last week Mr. E. P. Rogers, of the Oregon & California railroad company received a dispatch from San Francisco to the effect that another section of the road on the extension toward the Oregon line had been completed and would be thrown open to travel Tuesday, February 8th. The new portion is about fifteen miles in length, and extends from Edgewood, the present northern terminus of the Southern Pacific branch, to Montague. This latter point is opposite to and seven miles east of Yreka. On and after Tuesday trains will run regularly to Montague, where connections will be made with stages to and from Ashland. The staging gap before Montague was reached was seventy-five miles, and now the distance is reduced to something less than sixty miles.

Since it is probable that the present session of the legislature will create the office of attorney general, and that, in case they do, it will devolve upon the governor to appoint some one to fill that position until the general election in June, 1898, several names have been mentioned already in connection with the office. Hon. W. D. Fenton, of McMinnville, is one. Others are J. M. Gearin, of Portland, W. M. Ramsey, of Salem, and Lafayette Lane, of Roseburg, any of whom would fill the office most acceptably.

Gambling seems to have as much fascination for Chinamen as for whitemen. The other night in Brooklyn, N. Y., in a place known as a Chinese tea store, a squad of the police battered down the doors and captured seventy-four Chinese who were gambling and $50,000 in cash. Three of the prisoners had $7,500 each and two $5,000 each. They came from San Francisco, St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Newark and Patterson, N. J., for the purpose of breaking the bank of the gambling house of the address named above.

W. J. Beatty, supervisor of the insane asylum, has tendered his resignation. This was occasioned by charges of irregularities, which were partially considered by the state board. The charges are that he has been guilty of stealing the funds from attendants. And it is further reported that he has confessed to stealing $102 from attendants. Further investigations may prove further facts.

A San Francisco fool attempted to blow up Patti with an infernal machine Wednesday night. But the thing went off before he got ready and instead of blowing Patti it blew up the idiot who planned it. The only regret is that it did not kill him.

Cornelius J. Murphy, the husband of Mrs. Matilda Murphy, has sued the Oregonian for $50,000 for libel, in an item upon his appointment as a day inspector of the San Francisco custom house. The fools are not all dead yet.

The strike of 6,000 Monongahela river coal miners is practically settled and work resumed in nearly all the mines in the first, second and third pools at the rate decided upon by the miners' national executive board. Meetings were held by miners in the various pools, and it was resolved to accept the compromise suggested by the national board. It is expected that all mines will be in operation next Monday.

The United States senate has confirmed the following Oregon appointments of Indian agents: B. Coffey at the Umatilla agency; J. Wheeler, at the Warm Springs agency; J. B. McFlane at the Grand Ronde reservation. R. Thompson was confirmed as postmaster at Albany.

The supreme judge salary bill was defeated in the senate by a vote of fourteen to sixteen. The temperance vote was cast solid against the bill because of the determination to submit it with other amendments to a vote of the people at a special election in November.

What we Guarantee for the Dress Goods of our Manufacture: To be made from the very best material, by skillful workmen, with the latest and most approved machinery, and to be the cheapest goods in the market when service is considered. Are so thoroughly finished that they can be worn in damp weather or a shower, without fear of being ruined by curling or shrinking. The manufacturing, dyeing and finishing is done in such a manner, that the goods can be washed if desired, without the least injury to the fabric. Our goods are wool dyed, and the colors are as fast as the purest dyes and grain care and skill can make them. Goods show just what they are and will be until worn out, as there is no weighting, stiffening, or artificial lustre used, to increase the weight or finish; as is the case with a large class of goods in the market, but which disappears after a few days' service. As manufacturers we have taken great pains to supply an article in every way reliable, and unsurpassed by similar goods, either foreign or domestic, and would respectfully ask an examination of the various styles and shades to be found on sale by merchants who are agents for the goods. All goods of our manufacture should bear the name and trade mark of Broadhead Worsted Mills, Jamestown, N. Y.
