Read G. W. Burt's new ad. Fresh roasted peanuts at H. H. Welch's. M. U. Gortner went to Portland yesterday. For posts and boards go to R. B. Stowe's lumber yard. Get some homebound candy, best thing for your cold, at C. Grissen's. Masks for the ball to-morrow night can be had at Chas. Grissen's. A prize will be given the best lady masker at the ball to-morrow night. Mr. I. C. Robinson, of Amity was in the city Saturday, and called on us. Our thanks are due to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Roof, for a bountiful supply of cake.

DECLARED INSANE.—From the Salem Statesman of Saturday last we take the following: "Early yesterday morning Policemen Lowe and Brandick found a man wandering aimlessly around the streets, who gave his name as J. J. Vannatta. The officers soon discovered that the man was out of his mind, and they took him and placed him in the county jail. Yesterday afternoon he was examined by D.S. McAfee and Smith and pronounced by them to be insane. He was accordingly committed to the asylum, Vannatta arrived in this city Thursday night from Portland, where he said he had been working as an engineer of a donkey engine on the Morrison street bridge. He was impressed with the idea that some body wanted to kill him and he was trying to avoid his fancied pursuer. He thought however, he was still in Portland, Vannatta is about 37 years old and a carpenter and engineer by occupation. He lived for a number of years in Yamhill county, and was at one time city marshal of McMinnville. He submitted quietly to the treatment of the officers and answered all questions readily. Mr. Vannatta is well known to nearly every resident of his city and his sad misfortune will be regretted by all. He has a wife living in this city.

THE EMMA HEATH COMPANY.—The Heath Dramatic company which appeared here Friday and Saturday nights, were first class in every particular. Owing to stormy weather and other obstacles only small audiences were present either night, but those who were present heartily enjoyed the entertainment. Miss Heath proved herself to be an actress of more than ordinary ability; her rendition of Kathleen Mavoureen, and Josephine, the child of the regiment, were simply splendid. J. R. Morrison, as Terrence O'More and Gulliver rendered those parts exceedingly well. F. J. Face is a first class comedian and continually brought down the house while Rush Bronson is the limberest man we know. In fact the whole company was good and acquitted themselves with credit. Should they ever return to McMinnville we are sure they will be greeted with the crowded house they deserve.

NINETEENTH BIRTHDAY.—At the residence of Wm. Roof, two miles east of McMinnville, his relations were assembled March 3, 1887 to partake of a dinner given in honor of his uncle Samuel Roof, who was one of the founders of Newcastle, Indiana, more than a half a century ago, where he has resided ever since; being a minister of the gospel and leader of the Christian church at that place until a few years past. He has been writing letters to his relatives here until one year ago when he gave up his writing to his grandson, S. Roof is grandfather of Mrs. F. Wolfe, of McMinnville. May we live to celebrate many more of his birthdays. C. S. R.

AN AGREEABLE SURPRISE.—During the absence of the Rev. Mr. Fair and his wife from their home on Saturday, a committee from the guild of St. James church, took possession of the rector's house. Before the Rev. Mr. Fair returned, they had accomplished a very pleasant and useful surprise, by placing a carpet on their bedroom, thus giving a more cheerful and comfortable appearance to the apartment. Since the rector's advent, the guild has presented two comforts and a very handsome easy chair. These together with the above are very encouraging to the rector as tokens of appreciation.

This piece of land is offered for sale cheap on easy terms. It is well fenced, contains a living spring of water, ten acres of it has been under cultivation, and eight acres has been slashed. Price $10 per acre. For further particulars call at the TELEPHONE office.

HERE'S A CHANCE.—We have for sale a small place adjoining town containing a little more than an acre of ground; a good two-story house and barn; well set with small fruit trees; good well, etc. We will sell this place at a bargain.

LECTURE.—The Rev. John C. Fair will lecture at St. James church Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Subject: "What is the relation between the Universal and the Supreme Intelligence? All are invited to attend."

At the regular meeting of St. James vestry last night G. E. Detmering resigned his position as secretary and Dr. Johnson was appointed to fill the vacancy until the next election.

Local Notice.

We are pleased to call the attention of our readers to the announcement of Messrs. Barncock, Thomason & Swanson, which will appear in this week's issue. These gentlemen have established at McMinnville, McMinnville crossing and Carlton, commodious warehouses, complete and improved machinery for the proper handling of grain, and offer the farmers of Yamhill county the very best facilities for storage and cleaning of their grain. Years of experience and a practical knowledge of the business enable them to guarantee satisfaction. They also pay the highest cash price for grain of all kinds, and carry in stock a full line of the very best farm machinery, wagons, &c. It will be to the advantage of all farmers to call and see them before making any other arrangements for disposal of their grain or buying their machinery or wagons. By their courteous and honorable dealing, and strict attention to the best interests of their patrons, Messrs. Barncock, Thomason & Swanson, will seek to hold the foremost position among the business firms of Yamhill county, and we bespeak for them the success which must attend their efforts. Call and see them.

College Notes.

It is related of Joseph Warren that, at the battle of Bunker Hill, he came as a volunteer, inquiring where his musket would do the most service. "Go to the redoubt, you will there be covered," said General Prescott. "I came not to be covered," said Warren, "tell me where the fight will be the hottest." You are ready to say that Warren exhibited the true heroic spirit. It is too tame to say he was patriotic. He deserves to be called a hero. We delight to recall the brave spirits, who stood in the morning of our history and fought for freedom and independence. But have we forgotten that every age demands heroic action? Is there not something that you do to merit the approval of posterity? It seems that history records only the great deeds of men. There is an instinctive desire for something grand, God-like. The school boys on Boston common were the first to begin the revolution by casting snow balls at a British sentinel. There is no reason for anyone to fold his arms and sign for some great event to take place, in order to allow him a chance of becoming heroic. Young man, that time is now. The world needs heroic leaders to-day. Men who have intense souls for the right, men who would rather have the right arm severed from the body, than yield one iota to the seductive influences of vice. Thomas Carlyle once wrote a book in which he says, "All things that we see standing accomplished in the world are properly the practical realization and embodiment, of thoughts that dwell in the great man sent into the world." This may seem like a severe criticism upon men in general, but there is truth in the assertion. Most men follow while a few are leaders. Most men are simply hammering away on some idea, which emanated from a man whom they regard as great. Thus it happens that great falsehoods, as well as great truths, have found their way into the practical affairs of men. On the other hand, who is ready to imitate the noble action of Joseph Warren and take his place in the "hottest" of the fight? Such are worthy to be inscribed in the list of the world's heroes. Willie Gwin has secured a certificate to teach school and is longing to wield the birch. Miss Maggie Wiley was missing from school last week. It is rumored that she is teaching. Hon. J. E. Magers and his father from Polk county, were on Collegeside last week. We understand the Dr. is looking for a location near our quiet town. The mission society held its regular meeting on Friday evening. The annual election of officers took place. Mrs. E. V. Ruegg was elected president, Mrs. W. J. Crawford, vice president; Miss Birdie Madock, recording secretary; Miss Lora Hunsaker, treasurer. Mrs. Nellie Wassen gave an interesting address on the custom of foot-binding as practiced in China. The literary society was not attended as well as usual, but the county seat question was debated to the edification of those who were present. Mr. Lorenzo Root went home on a visit for a few days. Mr. Charles Holson has been obliged to stay out of school for several days on account of his eyes. We heard some talk about having a public meeting for the benefit of the society. It seems too bad that students be one too busy with their studies to take up some such literary work. Mr. Millsap on Collegeside has a cousin visiting who has recently come from Tennessee. JACKSON.

Carlton.

March 7, 1887. Spring. Grouse hunting. School meeting. The river is booming at this place. This place is quiet on the county seat question. Mr. Ace Kelsey went to McMinnville last Saturday. The ring of Mr. Collins' anvil is heard rarely and late. Robert and Miss Georgia Hanna spent last Sunday at home. Uncle Pete Thomason broke a very fine young horse last Saturday. Wheat is looking well; farmers and stockmen have discarded the "blues." Of our people who have been to Portland in the last week, are Mr. Klosterman and J. Steward. Carlton will celebrate the coming 4th of July in grand style. Let us have rousing time, one similar to that held here in 1876. Mr. Wm. Loyd and family will leave for Butter creek in the near future. We are sorry to lose so good a family from our midst. We hear it said that St. Joe is soon to be discontinued as a station and all transfers for Lafayette, etc. will be made here. Hurrah for Carlton. Uncle Sam will have a faithful servant in our new postmaster. He will not take charge until about April 1, desiring to start in with the new quarter. However he can be seen in some isolated spot or building going through the motions of distributing the mail as though he had full charge of the mail bag. Joyce.

John G. Baker Dead.

Died, at his residence in this city, March 4, 1887, John G. Baker, aged 68 years, 4 months and 25 days. It is with feeling of the deepest regret that we are called upon to chronicle the death of one of our oldest and best and most influential citizens, John G. Baker, familiarly known as "Uncle John." Saturday he was with us, seemingly as well and strong as ever, but death, with his glittering sickle was hovering near ready to strike the blow that was to remove from our midst a loving father and friend to all who knew him. He leaves a wife and four children, three sons and one daughter, besides numerous other relatives to mourn his demise. The funeral took place from the family residence on Sunday at one o'clock. His remains were interred in the Masonic cemetery and were followed to the grave by a procession of sorrowing relatives and friends. The pall bearers were J. W. Garrison, N. K. Sitton, D. S. Holman, A. J. Baker, W. C. Hembree and Samuel Cozine, all pioneers, who came to Oregon the same year as deceased—1843. The services were conducted by Rev. T. H. Henderson. By request we publish the remarks made on the occasion. No more fitting tribute could be paid to John G. Baker than is contained in the following words: The purpose for which we are together is understood by all present. One of our old and well respected citizens has just passed away, and we now come to lay his body to rest and pay the tribute of respect due to him as an old and honored citizen of the community. John G. Baker—we all knew him as Uncle John—was born in Madison county, Kentucky, October 7, 1818, and died in McMinnville, Ore., on March 4, 1887, aged 68 years, 4 months and 25 days. Early in life Father Baker moved from Kentucky to Missouri, where he married the faithful wife who survives him. In 1843 he came with his family from Missouri to this country, crossing the plains with ox teams. In 1844 he settled on a donation claim just north of this town, which he owned at the time of his death. It is said he was the first white man who settled between the North and South Yamhill rivers. He was sheriff of this county under both the provisional and state government, which shows something of the esteem in which he was held by the people who lived here in that early day. From these statements it will be seen that he was one of the very early settlers in this section of country. We are not yet fully prepared to correctly estimate the value of the services that he and others who came here in an early day rendered to our whole country by opening up this territory, which was then inhabited almost exclusively by savages, to settlement by citizens of the states of our American republic. What they did in that early day, under the greatest disadvantages, went far to give this vast northwestern territory to our nation. Their coming here was an event of international importance. It touched the relations between this country and England, and affected, to some extent, the subsequent career and destiny of both. In opening this country to settlement by civilized people, Father Baker and others who came here in a very early day were opening the way for all the splendid works which have followed, and giving to civilization the opportunity to gain the glittering and enduring triumphs it has gained and is gaining among us and will gain among those who shall follow us hereafter. They were preparing the way for, and making possible, the school of every grade that now so thickly dot the whole north Pacific coast, and the educational work that has been done, is now being done and will forever be done. We sometimes grow impatient with our old men because they are not more progressive. But let us not forget that through struggles and self-denial that we are probably incapable of, they made the progress we enjoy, and that for which we clamor, possible. But let us not expect of them when they have grown old the views, purposes and work that were intended for younger and better equipped minds and hands. Father Baker and others who braved the difficulties and dangers that must be endured and overcome to plant our civilizations and institutions here were opening the way for all the christian work that has since been done and is now being done among us. The churches that have been built, the spiritual triumphs that have been gained, the sweet experiences that have been enjoyed, that we have to-day enjoyed, in this beautiful valley and far beyond it, were made possible by what they did and endured in the days of pioneer struggles and sufferings. In opening the way for the planting and development of all our wonderful institutions here, they were also opening the way for the transfer of some of these institutions—burdened with blessings of this generation and other generations of men yet to live—to the islands of the Pacific so that those who people those distant islands may share our blessings and joys forever. And beyond these China and Japan have left, still feel and will feel to the latest generation the influences set in motion and the blessings sent abroad by the efforts of our pioneers. These men—many of whom are already dead, and others in ripe old age are waiting to be called hence—have, it will be seen, not only done much to influence the people and institutions around them, but have done something to determine the career and work of civilization upon earth. Gathered around the cold and silent form of one of their number who contributed his share to these grand results let us reverently lift our hats and stand uncovered in this presence. When I was invited and had consented to conduct this service I felt impressed to pay this feeble and inadequate tribute to the dear old pioneers who will soon all be gone from us to the rewards of eternity. Father Baker, around whose form we now stand, was a quiet and orderly citizen, respected, so far as I know, by all who knew him, and he was known and well known to all the old citizens and to many of the younger people and later comers in the community. And now as we bid him good bye, I do not believe there is a single soul in the community or within the entire range of his acquaintance that does not wish him a sweet and blissful rest forever.

School Meeting.

The annual school meeting for district No. 40 was held yesterday at the public school house. A large number were present, and considerable interest was manifested in the meeting. The meeting was opened by Director, Braly who stated the object of the meeting was to elect a director for a term of three years, and a clerk for a term of one year. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and the financial statement of the district was read and accepted. The clerk's financial statement is as follows: Moneys received from all sources during the year.....$2863 26 Expenses.....1723 07 Balance on hand.....$1140 19 Then came the election of director. It was moved that an informal ballot be cast, in which Hon. Wm. Galloway received a majority. A motion was then made to suspend the rules and declare Mr. Galloway director. Carried. Ballot was then taken on clerk in which John Wortman was re-elected. The following resolutions were then read and adopted: WHEREAS, The Almighty in His wisdom has seen fit to consign Hon. John G. Baker, director in this district, to that sleep that knows no waking, thereby reminding us once more of the uncertainty of life; therefore be it Resolved, That we publicly record upon the minutes of the meeting our heartfelt sorrow for the loss of our fellow citizen, who was always mainly and conscientious and we take this means of commending his memory. That in the death of John G. Baker, the bereaved family have lost a kind husband and father, and the community one of its most valued and esteemed citizens. That we present our condolences to the bereaved family and friends, and assure them that if their grief could be lessened by being shared by others we should most assuredly be foremost to assuage it. That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the widow of our deceased fellow citizen, and also to the city papers for publication. D. C. IRELAND. Another resolution was then read and adopted: WHEREAS, The present school building is inadequate for the present needs of the district, therefore be it Resolved, That the directors are hereby authorized to provide additional room as their judgment may require.
