If you want your knives, scissors, razors or anything in that line sharpened, take them to Frank Collard. The ladies guild of St. James church will meet at the residence of Rev. J. C. Fair, Wednesday at 2 o'clock p. m. Miss Russ has just received a new in voice of elegant spring styles in hats. They must be seen to be appreciated. Gov. Penoyer has appointed G. W. Holl, proprietor. Of the famous roller stoves, another car-load will arrive some time next week, for Manning & Co., direct from St. Louis, Mo. Just as we were going to press we learned that a man dropped dead in Carlton late last evening. But we were not able to learn his name. There will be a series of meetings at the Christian church, beginning next Sunday. Several ministers from abroad will be present to assist in the meetings. W. E. Martin, proprietor of the new billiard hall at the Cook hotel, has just received a new supply of fine cigars. "Billy" keeps the best brands, in fact everything you get there is of the best varieties. Mr. John Holman received word yesterday from his wife, who has been at the bedside of her father in Compton California, that her father is dead, and that she will return home about the first of next month. Mrs. D. C. Narver left this city yesterday, in company with her mother Mrs. E. A. Turner. Mrs. Narver goes to Albany where her husband is engaged by a prominent firm, and will make her home there. Mrs. Turner goes to Portland where she now resides. Itemizer: The fellow that wrote the following is sometimes called Snyder and sometimes Al., and he lives at Astoria—kill him: "Spring spran, beautiful spring! The wild, windblown warblers are wanging a wung; the south breezes are breezing a brooz; which thaws up the ground with remarkable thoz."

BOYCOTTED.—Saturday morning several hacks were driven through our streets, containing the Heath Dramatic company, while on the outside placards were visible, bearing the inscription in large letters, "Boycotted in Lafayette, for hiring teams in McMinnville." Of course a lively interest was taken by our people to find out the cause for this action. In conversation with a member of the company we were told that because they had made arrangements, while here last week, with our livermen to bring them to McMinnville after the performance in Lafayette they were boycotted in that town—not half-a-dozen being present on Friday evening—and that they were told that as they wished to spend their money in McMinnville, they could go elsewhere for an audience. The company took the advice of the level headed Mr. Powderly, and "boycotted the boycott," coming to McMinnville to stay over Sunday. Saturday night they gave an entertainment here placing the admission at 25 cents, and a crowded house greeted their appearance. No one in this city questions the right of Lafayette people in regard to this matter. If they did not wish to patronize the troupe, it is all the more their privilege to stay away. But if all the reports are true, and the company was boycotted, simply because they wished to spend their Sunday in this city, and thus facilitate travel, it certainly shows a selfish and shortsighted policy on the part of our sister city. It was certainly doing Miss Heath a great injustice. Her plans had already been made, weeks in advance, and it would have been very inconvenient for her to change them. We suppose it makes very little difference to Miss Heath and her excellent company where the future county seat of Yamhill county is to be located.

College Notes.

One cannot look upon the system of education in America without admiring many of its features. There is a grand company of men and women engaged in training the young. It would seem every community, and the whole community, is interested in this important question. To say that all are engaged primarily in building up the mind and morals to make thereby good citizens, is to go beyond the truth. Still, it is true that the main object of education by the state is to secure good citizens. This should be the limit of state support. It is no part of the duty of the state to educate men for the professions as such. If a minister wishes to preach, the state should neither hinder nor help him. If a lawyer wishes to practice his profession, there are schools backed by individual enterprise, let him take a course that will suit his mind; but let the state keep its hands off. If any one is ready to controvert these views, let him consider that one profession is as deserving and needful as another. If one is to be helped, why not all? There are not many who are ready to take the longer of these alternatives. Some legislators are willing to find fault with our railroad companies, because they have favorites and issue passes to accommodate their friends. Why should it be thought a greater evil for a railroad to issue passes, involving a few dollars than for a state to issue free scholarships to a few who are professionally inclined? It sometimes happens this way, that the mass of the people, rich and poor together, pay taxes to benefit a few, who in most cases are able to pay for their own education. Of course, the common school system is a grand feature in our civilization, and it would be difficult to do without it, but all must see that class legislation is not the best thing in America. Wayne bonus ad numeribus, and whatever destroys this sentiment is not germane to our free institutions. Misses Sarah and Fannie Baxter visited the academic room last week. Mr. B. F. Rhodes and Mr. Willie Gwinn have each secured a school in Happy valley. Good luck boys. Mr. R. O. Jones was around on Friday shaking hands and saying good bye. It occurred to us that this is a proper thing to do when a student leaves school. It isn't manly to leave school without notifying your teacher. If the teacher has a proper regard for the pupil, it is an affront to steal away without his knowledge. Such things are ever afterward treasured up against the miscreant. Not a few pupils are guilty on this point. The class in chemistry are reviewing their work in the laboratory and are having some very amusing, as well as instructive experiments. Among the visitors on College last week were Mrs. Nellie Warren, Mrs. M. J. Clark, and Mrs. H. Henderson. It is gratifying to note that those girls who were caught with cigarettes in their mouths last week, say that smoking is not a habit with them and that they will not smoke again. It will be remembered that there is a standing rule prohibiting students from smoking. There are still two weeks in the third term. Miss Lora Hunsaker visited chapel on Monday morning, accompanied by two young ladies from Turner. Elton Antrim was in chapel the other day. He is looking well. John Clark spent Saturday and Sunday at his home in Polk county. John Sanders has been home on a visit. He is back again. JACKSON.
