GRAND SCENERY.

Graphic Description of the Great Stone Face of the "Man of the Mountains." The vicinity of Franconia Notch, in

New Hampshire, abounds in scenery which is wild and rugg d. but picturesque beyond description. Such : union of granite hills and grassy dells. of rock, and lake, and river, such a mingling of the beautiful and grand. is to be found nowhere else in America.

The bold outlines of Mt. Lafayette are near at hand, with mountain-top looming over mountain-top in the dis Here are Cannon Mountain tance. and Eagle Cliff, one on the right hand and the other on the left, forming the walls of the Notch, while nestled in the valley at their feet lies Echo Lake. twin sister of the mountains.

Further to the south is the Flume, : mammoth fissure in the rocks, 700 feet in length, and with perpendicular walls 60 or 70 feet in height; and a little distance away are the Pool and Basin, with other curiosities.

But the crowning feature of the scene is the wonderful Profile, the "great stone face" of the "Old Man of the Mountains," which keeps guard over the Notch, and casts its shadows in the limpid waters of Profile Lake. This is the closest resemblance to the human face which has ever been found in natural scenery anywhere in the world. It is carved in solid rock upon the southern face of Cannon Mountain, and fneasures 80 feet from forehead to chin, while the top of the mountain is 1,500 feet above the lake at its foot, and nearly 4,000 feet above sea level. The outlines of the face are composed of three great masses of rock, one of which forms the forchead, another the 1.ose and upper lip, and a third the chin.

To obtain this outline in its perfection, one point of view is necessary-a small cleared space, close by the mountain road, and on the eastern edge of Profile Lake. Looking across the lake from this point, the hold outlines of fortresses in the heart of France to Cannon Mountain loom up but half a mile away, and far up its sides, looking down upon the valley, is the face of the Old Man of the Mountains, stern, bold. relentless, unchanging. "He neither blinks at the near flashes of lightning beneath his nose, nor flinches from the driving snow and sleet of the Franconia winter, which makes the mercury of the thermometer shrink into the bulb and congeal.'

Passing down the road, the Old Man's face changes first into that of "a toothless old woman in a mob cap." ' and soon the entire outline is broken up and the resemblance is lost. Going up the road, the nose and face flatten out until only the forehead is seen.

The profile is said to have been discovered in 1805 by two workmen on the mountain road. It had, however, been known for ages to the Indians. who attributed to it supernatural attributes. They even feared to fish in the lake at its feet, or to sail their back canoes over its waters, from fear of the stern face which it reflected. Many legends and tales have been related concerning the wonderful face. In one of these it is represented as the face of Christ the Judge-"Christus Fudex."

Some one has written concerning it: "Men put out signs representing the different trades; jewelers hang out a monster watch; shoomakers a huge boot; and up here in Franconia, God Almighty has hung out a sign that in New England he makes men." -Woman's Magazine.

FRENCH FORTRESSES.

How France Has Strengthened and Fortified Her Military Frontier.

The cession of Alsace and Lorraine placed Metz and Strasburg, the keys of the old French frontier, in German hands. It gave France a new frontier, and a very open one: a frontier unprotected by any very great natural obstacles, for the Germans now held both sides of the Rhine, and the northern passes of the Vosges (the passes by which the French armies used to march to the Rhies under Napoleon L) were well within the new German territory. Moreover, this naturally open frontier might be said to be wholly unprotected by art, once Metz and Strasburg were gone. True, there was the fortress of Belfort on the extreme right, guarding the well-marked valley between the Vosges and the Jura, which French geographers call la trouce de Belfort. But Belfort, shattered by the successful siege which was the last act of the war was only the wreck of a fortress, and in any case its works were not of such a character as to fit it for its new position on the very frontier line. Taught by the hard lessons of defeat, the French Government at once set to work to pe the new frontier into a thorough state of defense. Successive War Ministers have steadily worked upon the lines originally laid down by the engineers sharged with the task in 1871. Money aas not been spared. It has been spent by millions, and now, after the labor of sixteen years, the work is done. Probably so vast a scheme of military ingineering was never before planned and executed in so brief a time. The French engineers have not been content to erect upon the new frontier three or four first-class fortresses to serve as points of support for a defending army. They have closed it with a double line of works, linked these together by an elaborate system of railways, and, besides refortifying Paris, they have constructed two other great serve as bases of operations for her armies if, as in 1870, the barriers nearer the frontier were again pressed by invading armies from beyond the Rhine. -- National Review. -- Of late one may read of wonderful operations upon the eyes in the way of transplanting tissues of the eye of the rabbit to replace parts of imperfect eves in man. The transplantation of the mucus membrane of the eye and even of the cornea has been successfully accomplished in a few instances. The attempt has even been made to reimplant the whole eyeball of a rabbit in the vacant orbit of a man. Of five experiments of this kind only one is reported as successful, and even that is doubtful. -- Health Monthlu.

THE BEGINNING OF THE END.

The beginning of disease is a slight debility or disorder of some of the vital organs, the stomach, the liver or the bowels usually. There are dyspeptic symptoms, the liver is trouble some, the skin grows tawny and unhealthy looking, there are pains in the right side or through the right shoulder blade. The climax is often an utter prostration of the physical en is often an utter prostration of the physical en-ergies, perhaps a fatal issue. But if the diffi-culty is met in time with Hostetter's Stomach B tters, which is always effective as a remedy, and it should be resorted to at an early stage, there will be no reason to apprehend those in-jurious subsequent effects upon the system often entailed by entirely cured diseases. Far better is it, also, to employ this safe remedial agent in fever and ague, and other malarial complaints, than quinine and other molern drugs, which, even when they do prove effect-ual for a time, ruin the stomach and impair the general health.

MURDERED BY PREINDICE.

Thousands of men die every day who might be saved. Prejudice has murdered many a man and woman. If it were bewe ought reasonably to expect disea e to settle upon us because we do so much to attract it; because we so often and so steadily expose ourselves to it. At the same time we all ought to understand, as a p rt of our rudiamentary education, that to save ourselves from the effects of such exposure some kind of fortification should be built around our vital forces lest the enemy carry us as it were by a sudden enemy carry us, as it were, by a sudden onslaught. ### MUTES OF ALASKA.

Superstitions Prevailing Among the Natives of the Bleak Territory.

These people have no name as a race, but merely designate themselves as Mutes, a word which means "dweller at or upon." A person born at the village of Tigerach is a Tigerach Mute. and so on. In appearance they resemble the Mongolian type, having promninent cheek-bones, oblique eyes and straight, coarse black hair. If it were not for the thick layer of dirt covering their faces, their complexion would be almost white, and this, with their brown, sparkling eyes, and white teeth, would render them very agreeable to the sight.

A belief in the presence of evil spirits constitutes their only religious idea. There are among them individualcalled toonrachs, who perform the general offices of "medicine men." If a person is ill before the whaling season opens, the toonrach is called upon to exercise his skill in driving the evil spirits from the body of the sick person, and from the sea, that the whales or seals may arrive. His operations in almost every ease are the same. After a long silence he suddenly begins to roll his eyes, while convulsive shakes penetrate his frame; he gives utterance to groans and sighs, intermingled with sentences pertaining to the subject in hand. During his performance a continuous beating of drums is kept up, and he falls, at the close of his efforts, into actual paroxysms. Froth exudefrom his mouth, his eyes glare and roll, and his face is contorted. After a period of rest he regains his composure. begins again his interrupted smoking. and receives his pay for the services performed.

The following words, in praise of DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION as a remedy for those delicate diseases and weak-nesses peculiar to women, must be of interest to every sufferer from such maindies. They are fair samples of the spontaneous expressions with which thousands give utterate to their sense of gratitude for the inestimable boon of health which has been restored to them by the use of this world-famed medicine.

TREATING THE WRONG DISEASE.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here or there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct disease, for which he prescribes his pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some womb disorder. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his practice until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine, like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery.
