Our home local talent deserve credit for the way in which they made the evening enjoyable. It is our opinion that the local part was the best of the dittle brightness in her life and the first is an uncomfortable night, but from lates thing she is confronted by is, "The woman with a crying baby will, by unani-mous consent be allowed to retire." It shows condescension in the proprietor of the institution. We for one are willing to listen to the squall of a baby at an entertainment, it we know the poor tired mother is reaping any joy or recreation from it. A woman should not feel like going to a place of amusement when uch a sentence meets her eyes.
