

WEST SIDE TELEPHONE, The Official Democratic Paper.

McMINNVILLE, FRIDAY NOV. 18, 1887.

MARPLE, the alleged murderer of Corker, at LaFayette, will be hanged to-day. If he had been a man of large means, he would have been almost forgotten. He was convicted on circumstantial evidence, which ought to have left a "reasonable doubt" in the mind of any impartial man as to his guilt.

The above is from the East Oregonian. The paper is situated a number of miles from the scene of the murder, the trial and execution. The circumstantial evidence in the case with the unmistakably guilty actions of the defendant could not leave a "reasonable doubt" in the minds of any of the jurors who were unanimous for "guilty". It is expected that "distance less enchantment" and as for expressing an opinion the E. O. has a perfect right to do so, but this article refers a little to the injustice of the people of Yamhill and it is the unanimous verdict of the county that the right man met his deserts on the 11th day of November 1887 in the inclosure erected for the judicial death of R. E. Marple convicted of the murder of D. I. Corker. He was found not to be the "alleged" murderer of Corker, but "the" murderer of Corker by twelve impartial jurors, fellow citizens of Marple.

It is known through the medium of the geological surveys that a coal field 200 miles long exists in Montana, reaching from the Big Horn mountains, in Custer county, to the British line, says the Helena Herald. The evidences of the vastness of this coal bed have been obtained by explorations and developments. These explorations and developments have been extensively made at Livingston, Timberline, Dozeman, Sand Cooley, Rocky Fork, Rock creek and other places, from which large quantities of motive power coal have been shipped, as well as the very best of gas coal, from some of these mines. It has therefore been practically demonstrated that Montana has beneath her surface as big a coal field as probably any state in the Union, and one, too, that will be the great factor in developing the other resources of the territory to that state of boundless riches that will be the envy and admiration of the world.

San Francisco is being made the point for the Democratic National Convention held in 1888; by the Democrats of that state. It is claimed that the holding of the convention in San Francisco would insure the fourteen electoral votes of Nevada, Oregon and California to the Democratic candidate who ever he might be. As far as policy is concerned it would be a good move and outside of that it is no more than right that the national convention should be held somewhere else than always in one of the large eastern cities.

Democracy is surely gaining as is shown in the Key Stone state. Col. Fred Grant was beaten so badly that any future desire of any one wishing to rise on the great deeds of his father will be cut in the bud. An American king can not see the advisability of putting up for a prominent office, one that requires brains to manage, a man whose whole prominence is, that he is son of such a father.

Senator Mitchell of this state arrived in Washington on the 14th. He reported a general protest from the people of Oregon against the abandonment of Fort Canby as recommended by Gen. Howard. He and Senator Dolph will confer with Secretary Endicott in regard to the matter and try if possible to prevent the recommendation from being carried into effect.

A committee of Union veterans called upon the president Tuesday to request that veterans in the public service as clerks shall not be compelled to enter into competitive examination to retain their positions and, where they voluntarily enter examinations for promotion, that preference be given them. The president said he would consider the matter.

From the general look of affairs around this city the coming season will be a great one in the life of this place. Several prominent men have signified their intention of building substantially and well.

Commodore Wilson, chief of the bureau of construction and repair of the navy department, in his annual report renews his recommendation that two new vessels be built to replace the training ships Saratoga, Jamestown and Portsmouth, which cannot possibly be kept in service much longer; and asks that special authority be given for the repair of the historic sloop of war Hartford at a cost of $175,000. He recommends, if monitors are to be kept in the navy, that they be placed at once in perfect repair. He says that within six months all these vessels could be put in the same state of efficiency as they were at the time of their construction, at an expenditure of $50,000. This would give thirteen coast defence vessels actually available, armed with fifteen-inch smooth-bore guns. The guns could be replaced as rapidly as possible by rifles. By no other means could the same amount of money be spent to give the country such valuable returns. In conclusion the report says: "The outlook for the navy in the near future is very hopeful, and with the completion of vessels now projected the navy will consist of a number of modern vessels admirably adapted to the varied needs of the service."

A table attached to the report shows that in three years we shall have twenty-one wooden vessels remaining, in six years but four, and in nine years the entire wooden navy will have disappeared. Among the items recommended in the appropriations are: For extra tools at Mare Island, $175,000; for construction and repair, $900,000; and on account of hulls and outfits for new vessels, $300,000.

A few days ago Secretary Lamar wrote a letter to Land Commissioner Sparks requesting his resignation on the grounds that he was disobeying the orders from the head of the Interior department. In plain English Secretary Lamar requested the resignation of Sparks. The commissioner of the general land office draws a salary of $4000 a year, but its power and importance are in a way greater than the salary. Monday the commissioner was engaged in writing a reply to Secretary Lamar. On Tuesday he personally delivered the letter to the president in which he defended his cause and formally resigned his office. He finished his letter with the following: "In thus severing my connection with your administration, I beg to assure you of my earnest wish that the same wisdom, firmness and integrity which has thus far so eminently marked your administration may continue to enhance you in the estimation of your countrymen. Very respectfully, Wm. A. J. Sparks."

The statement has been made that Supreme Judge James R. McGuire, who left San Francisco nearly two months ago to stump the State of New York in the interest of Henry George, does not intend to return, and it is also said nothing has been heard from him recently. It will be necessary for him to arrive in California by Wednesday next to hold his seat upon the bench, as the constitution provides that a supreme judge who absents himself from the state for more than sixty days shall be deemed to have forfeited his office.

Ex-Gov. Burnett, the first executive of the state of California, has attained the ripe age of four score. He still enjoys good health and his mental powers are unimpaired. On the occasion of his eightieth anniversary he received visits from many of his friends and relatives. He is an Oregon pioneer. He was on very friendly terms with the Hudson Bay company in early days and it was on the advice of this company that he came to California.

A movement is on foot for the starting of a weekly journal in San Francisco, to be devoted to the interests of the Irish cause. The paper will be independent as far as American politics are concerned, managerial and editorial head of the new paper is to be James A. Power, late of the Waterford, Ireland Standard.

It would not be a bad idea for the council at its next meeting to pass upon the necessity of more street lights. The present number is entirely inadequate to the wants of the people. Several prominent thoroughfares are not lighted at all. A little expense would improve the town wonderfully in this respect.

Count Tolstoy gave to a recent visitor a glowing description of the labors of the field. "Ah!" he exclaimed, "what a joy it is, when the head is tired with work, to be able to repose one's self by a simple physical exercise! Every day according to the season, I go out mowing, digging or plowing. Oh, the plow! You little dream what a pleasure it is and what good it does to the heart? How joyfully the blood flows through the veins! The head becomes clear and the feet so light that you scarcely feel them. And what an appetite one gets, and how soundly one sleeps afterward." Somebody ought to have told him to "come off."

A Kansas editor devoted a great deal of space in his valuable paper to the abuse of a rival sheet edited in a distant town until he discovered that the latter was edited by a young and pretty woman. Since realizing that he has been deploring the fact that there are not more papers in the country as ably and carefully edited as the one in question.

Charleston News: "The matter of the protection of the English hen from the competition of the pauper fowls of France has been thought so serious that even Gladstone has paid some attention to it. Nearly $15,000 is paid every year for the eggs imported into England."

Worth Knowing. Mr. W. H. Morgan, merchant, Lake City, Fla., was taken with a severe cold, attended with a distressing cough and running into Consumption in its first stages. He tried many so-called popular cough remedies and steadily grew worse. Was reduced in flesh, had difficulty in breathing and was unable to sleep. Finally tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and found immediate relief, and after using about a half dozen bottles found himself well and has had no return of the disease. No other remedy can show so grand a record of cures, as Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption guaranteed to do just the same for you. Trial bottle free at Rogers & Todd's Drug Store. (4)

Renews Her Youth. Now I am free from all pain and lameness, and am able to do all my own housework. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth, and removed all disease and pain. A Common Cold. Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough. Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured. I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

The Best Remedy for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung Affections, ever used in my family.—Robert Vanderpool, Meadville, Pa. Those who know me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine in our class.—J. F. Finally, I was told of a medicine called 'The Only Remedy for Contagious Blood Poison.' I bought a bottle and used it according to the directions. In a few days I began to feel better, and in a short time I was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this medicine. I will be glad to give it to anyone who is afflicted with this disease."
