She is the aged unfortunate mother of Clinton Pennington, sentenced to hang four weeks from to-day for the murder of C. B. Balcom. Almost immediately upon her arrival she sought the jail and was granted an interview of about an hour's duration with her erring boy. Her story, it appears, is a sad one. Left a widow infant, she labored often out in the fields Has the most complete stock of harner at home-all through the years it took to provide for her family and rear her boy to manhood so that he might be a comfort and help to her in old age.
