It is rumored that Tanner will join Boulanger on the Isle of Jersey.

Susan B. Anthony has sued a glucose company. This will surely make the American paragoner jocose.

Representative Cannon's friends assert that a speaker he would be a smooth bore.

Wm. E. Gladstone has a severe cold. The mucous membrane of even a grand old man is apt to be sensitive.

Chief Justice Fuller says he is not a candidate for the presidency. This is the more remarkable as he is from Chicago.

Washan Effendi is not a persona grata to the Italian government. It is too bad that Washan is not more popular in Europe.

King Kalakua of the Sandwich Islands is writing an epic poem on Hawaiian legends. Hawaiian goes up from the reading public.

The young king of Spain is to have his picture placed on postage stamps. It is seldom that a young boy becomes attached to letters.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox is devoting herself to works of charity, so says rumor. This is in line with the report that she had quit writing poetry.

Otis Skinner, who is pronounced by leading critics to be the best actor in the Booth-Modjeska combination, is the son of a Hartford, Conn., clergyman.

Queen Victoria will confer upon the young bridegroom, the crown prince of Greece, the Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath. She does not intend to be sarcastic.

The widow of the late King Luis of Portugal will receive a yearly allowance of $64,000, which will be reduced one-half if she lives abroad. Of course she has decided to remain in Lisbon.

John Thompson, the oldest Freemason in Philadelphia, died recently. He was born in Philadelphia in 1799, and in the course of his elective career held all the elective offices in the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania.

Richard Hynson, who recently died in Kent county, Md., was the recognized leader of the democracy in that section, and had been several times a delegate to the democratic national conventions. He was a staunch friend of Senator Gorman and greatly admired that leader's skill. Personally he could not be induced to accept office. He was an able lawyer, and leaves a fortune of $250,000.

Hugo Ziemann, ex-steward of the White House, spoke as follows to a Chicago reporter recently: "Mrs. Harrison is a grand and good woman. I have every reason to believe that she thought a great deal of me, and I was treated like a prince. She was sorry to see me go. In fact, President Harrison offered me $500 more than the government wages out of his own pocket if I would remain. Of course, a man is living to better himself, and the Richelieu offered me a good thing here, so I returned."

The oldest commodore in the United States Navy is Joseph B. Hull. He was born in 1799 and was appointed a midshipman in 1813. He is a nephew of the Capt. Hull who commanded the frigate Constitution when she captured the Guerriere. Commodore Hull performed gallant service during the Mexican war and the war of the rebellion. He was in command of the Philadelphia Navy-yard from 1864 to 1866. Although ninety years of age he is as hale and vigorous and enjoys meeting old friends.

It may be that the reports of the serious illness of the Prince of Wales are due to the fact that he has become extremely studious of late. He has always been fond of reading history and during the past year has covered a good deal of ground. He has been reading American historians and has gone through nearly all the works of Motley and Prescott. He considers the latter the most fascinating historian of modern times. The Prince is now reading McMaster's "History of the American People."

Gen. Billy Mahone does not weigh more than 105 pounds. Mrs. Mahone, however, tips the beam at 225. She has borne him triplets twice. The first time, the general was in his railroad office. A colored boy came in and told him there was a boy at the house. The general ordered wine for those present. Again the boy appeared and announced the arrival of another baby. Mahone ordered more wine. A third time the messenger put in an appearance and told of a third baby. "Gentlemen, you must excuse me," exclaimed Mahone. "I am going home to stop this business."

EASY INSTALLMENTS!

This magnificent property comprises 460 lots and lies in the very heart of the residence portion of McMinnville. It is high, commanding a beautiful view of the valley. Many of the most prominent residents of McMinnville are now purchasing property in "Oak Park Addition," and many elegant and substantial residences will be constructed there during the coming year. Water-works and electric lights will be put in this summer, giving all the comforts of the choicest villa property.

Lots are from 50x100 to 50x150, and blocks 200x215, with a 15-foot alley down the center of each. The advantages of having an alley in each block are obvious.

"Oak Park Addition" adjoins the depot of the Southern Pacific Railroad, the new county court house, the elegant public school building, and is three blocks from Third street, the business thoroughfare of McMinnville. "Oak Park Addition" offers superior inducements to investors, the settled policy of its proprietors being to steadily advance prices with its growth, rendering investments absolutely safe and profitable.

"Oak Park Addition" will be planted in shade trees; cross and sidewalks constructed and streets graded. The proprietors are turning in 10 percent of all sales as a fund for this purpose. This property is being offered for from 25 to 50 per cent less than any other property in McMinnville of half the advantages. Prices of lots range from 25 up and are sold either on the cash or installment plan.

A plat of this growing addition can be seen at Jas. Fletcher & Co.'s and J. I. Knight & Co., where all further information and price of lots and blocks will be furnished. Also at office of Barnekooff & Co., McMinnville Flouring Mills.

LOVED AND 'LOPED.

Mamie and Johnny All the Way from Ireland.

A youthful pair of lovers who arrived in New York recently were separated by the commissioners of emigration, for Castle garden is one place the portals of which are a bar to Cupid. It is a romantic story, that of blue-eyed, rosy-cheeked, seventeen-year-old Johnny Dolan and his buxom, black-eyed lass, Mamie Casey, four years his senior, and it recalls the recent elopement from the same county of Miss Mary Le Hunt, who brought over whom she could not have married at home. In this case, however, there was no other woman robbed of a husband. The boy lover was detained and will be sent back to his distressed mother, while his affianced, who pledged him eternal constancy long ago in the quiet nooks of Kullinavatt, a little town in Kilkenny, Ireland, will return to console him. She being of age and having a well-filled pocket is beyond the jurisdiction of the emigration board.

It is a little more than two years since a winsome and attractive lass of eighteen summer made her debut in Mullinavatt as the village schoolmistress. Fresh from Biggot college, Dublin, where she had won laurels for her intellectual abilities, Miss Casey created quite a sensation among the village gallants. Miss Casey, it also became known, was an orphan and an heiress, which, with her personal attractions, made her the most admired of all the girls in Mullinavatt. Just before Miss Casey was graduated and began to teach, her grandfather, a successful merchant in Dublin, died and bequeathed her the sum of £317, which she put in bank. For some months her life was the same as that of the ordinary schoolmistress. Her gentle disposition and winsome ways won her the respect and esteem of all the villagers and she was the popular leader of every social event in town.

It happened that among Miss Casey's pupils was blue-eyed Johnny Dolan, the same gallant youth who arrived with her in New York. Johnny's father was the keeper of a popular inn in Mullinavatt, and was an important citizen of the Odd and Interesting.

Somebody who believes in old-fashioned methods of discipline recently sent a young lady teacher in Maine a bundle of shingles.

Recent statistics show that 9,000,000 Germans live outside of Fairland, of whom 7,000,000 are to be found in the United States.

Female telegraph clerks in Russia are not allowed to marry any one but telegraph officials, and there is, consequently, bitter dissatisfaction.

An Eiffel tower in diamonds, which has been on exhibition in Paris, may be expected in America soon. It has been purchased for exhibition in this country.

Somebody figures out that 3,000,000 people walk about London's streets daily, and that in so doing they wear away a ton of leather particles from their boots and shoes.

Swallows are being trained in France to act as carriers of dispatches in case of war. If the experiment shall prove a success, a swallow cot will be erected on Mount Valerian, near Paris.

An elephant recently died in Ceylon which had served the public works department for over sixty-five years, and had previously worked in various parts of the island for an unknown period.

A young lady of Columbus, Ga., has made a crazy quilt out of Louisiana state lottery tickets that failed to "connect" with the prize wheel. The numbers are worked in silk of beautiful colors.

A magnificent English tree, known as the "Winfarthing oak," which measured 38 feet 7 inches in girth in 1744, has just been measured and found to have grown just seventeen inches in the interval, 130 years.

The empress and members of the aristocracy of Japan have given up the idea of adopting the western styles of dresses for women. The Parisian models did not please the people in general, and the historic costumes will again be worn exclusively.

One of the visitors to the Eiffel tower has expressed in the Paris Figaro his sense of its height. "I would throw myself down from the top," he writes, "but that I am afraid of dying from hunger before I reach the bottom."

The postal card, though little, is twenty-five years old. It is a forerunner by birth, and made its appearance in Austria in 1864. During the Franco-German war they were issued free to German soldiers in the field and sold at five for a cent to their families at home.

A subterranean river has just been discovered in the department of Lot, France. The discoverers worked their way down stream for a couple of miles through a succession of wonderful grottoes sparkling with stalactites. They found seven lakes on their way and had to shoot thirty-seven cascades or rapids.

A French statistician has just ascertained that a human being, of either sex, who is a moderate eater, and who lives to be 70 years of age, consumes during "the days of the years of his life" a quantity of food which would fill twenty ordinary baggage cars. A "good eater" however may require as many as thirty.

At the Paris exposition a Florentine friar shows a watch only a quarter of an inch in diameter. It has not only the two regular hands, but a third, which marks the seconds, and a microscopic dial which indicates the days, weeks, months and years. It also contains an alarm and on its front lid or cover, an ingeniously carved figure of St. Francis.

There are between 500 and 600 Chinamen in Sunday schools and missions in New York. They are there chiefly to learn to talk English, for there are only fifty-three of the number who are out-and-out Christians; that is, members of the churches. A religious worker among the Mongolians says that the church people have got to realize that the Chinaman is a pretty hard subject to Christianize.

Powderly's Strong Memory.

T. V. Powderly, the general master workman of the Knights of Labor, possesses a most remarkable memory for names and faces. Many incidents going to prove this have been related. Although he meets thousands of persons in his travels, he invariably recognizes them and calls them by name, if he should chance to meet them years later.

In the spring of 1856, while the Southwest strike was in progress, man about town conversed with Mr. Powderly for some time concerning that gigantic uprising of the workmen employed on the Gould system. The man about town did not meet the great labor leader again until a day or two ago, when he grasped the news-gatherer by the hand and called him by name without a single moment's hesitation. This is only one of the many instances going to show the really remarkable memory of Mr. Powderly. This faculty is one which, in a great public man, is invaluable.

Says a Washington correspondent: "He who cares to write on a subject so threadbare as that of drink, will find a field of ripe promise in Washington. Yesterday afternoon I was passing one of the most exclusive restaurants in the city, when I observed three young ladies emerge from the elegant vestibule and enter a public hack that had the curtains partly drawn. All three were very young women and very beautiful women. I knew two; one the daughter of a United States senator, the other nearly related—and the ward—of a member of the supreme court. All were drunk. They were not simply tipsy, but drunk. One dropped her hat, and the extra exertion required to replace it so exhausted her that the vigorous assistance of the jehu who drove the ramechale was necessary to place her inside. Two helpless dudes who tried to start a quick flirtation with the young women were promptly snubbed, an action which cast perhaps one ray of sunlight across their record."

It took seven years to make a handkerchief for which the empress of Russia paid $2,500. Great Britain saves $4,000,000 tons of coal a year by utilizing the gases which once escaped from furnaces.
