WE ASK A FAIR SHOW.

The Independence board of trade met humbled, and the mighty brought low. last night and perfected plans for properly meeting C. P. Huntington when he makes the inspection of the west side road, and lay before him the necessity of This extension should take place for various reasons; the first being the increasfor with our growth the road's earnings would increase in ratio. Other reasons The efforts of the government would increase in ratio. Other reasons are apparent. The events of the past few weeks have demonstrated beyond a doubt that the west side is the best side for a road bed. It is less liable to serious weekens as the past few years have not been of a kind to strike terror into the lawbreakers. With only one or two vessels to patrol the Washington, who was born 158 years ago into weekens and below the past few years have not been of a kind to strike terror into the lawbreakers. With only one or two vessels to patrol the Washington, who was born 158 years ago lake region could be raised and all danger from a washout avoided. The road is demanded by the citizens of this side because of the present lack of facilities for the tourist to see the best part of Oregon. With the road built to Junction the tourist could take his choice of two routes through the valley. At any rate he could travel from Portland south on one line and return on the other, seeing breeding grounds is very destructive. It is estimated that seven seals are killed in this way for one skin secured. The good traveling facilities the west side would soon become thickly populated from the fact that it possesses and could offer better inducements in the way of climate, soil and variety of production to climate, soil and variety of production to climate. east side.

All we ask is a fair show. The increase of traffic since 1885 in this city over the Southern Pacific lines the slaughter of over 200,000 seals. With fourteen criminals were compelled to dig has been upwards of 50 per cent annually. This increase is unprecedented and goes to show the unbounded resources of the section with McMinnville as its center. This increase in the business of the road has been almost entirely due to the road has been almost entirely due to the their breeding-grounds to the Russian by a jury of his peers.
