Democratic County Convention.

A democratic county convention will be held at the court house at McMinnville, Oregon, on Monday, May 19, 1890, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices to wit:

One state senator, two representatives, one county judge, one county sheriff, one county recorder, one county treasurer, one county school superintendent, one county surveyor, and one county coroner, and to transact such other business as may properly come before said convention.

Said convention will be composed of 112 delegates, apportioned to the various precincts on the vote cast for the democratic candidate for congress in 1888, being one delegate for each precinct over five votes so cast. In accordance with said apportionment the respective precincts will be entitled to the following representation.

Amity	1	Lafayette	10
Bellevue	4	North Yamhill	13
Carlton	7	McMinnville	11
Dundee	4	Dayton	9
East Chualar	5	West Chualar	7
Willamett	5	Williamina	6

The committee recommends that the precinct primaries for the election of delegates to said convention be held on Saturday, May 17, 1890.

W. M. GALLOWAY,
Chairman.
H. L. HEATH,
Secretary.

It is easy to tell which is the people's candidate when the republican bosses are telling everyone that Thompson stands the same as Pennoyer on the labor question, the bond question, the tax question, etc.

The democratic ticket which graced the first column on this page was elected without jobbery amidst great enthusiasm. The republican ticket headed by the owner of 17 banks in this state can be found in other papers devoted to the republican cause. The tickets are in direct contrast and no thinking man will vote for the party in which jobbery and corruption is paramount.

A novel way of raising money to build a church has been adopted by a congregation in an Iowa town. They borrowed $120,000 and gave life insurance on a number of the members, which is to be applied on the debt as fast as death ensues. An epidemic of smallpox or typhoid fever in that congregation would be money in the pockets of those who survived.

What ticks do you intend to vote at the June election? The one headed by D. P. Thompson, the possessor of millions and the proprietor of seventeen banks in the state of Oregon, or the one headed by Sylvester Pennoyer the owner of a saw mill and the champion of equal rights, one who works for the best interests of the commonwealth not for the interests of the few.

IN BATTLE ARRAY.

The people of this state are anxiously waiting to see if H. W. Scott will wear the old time uniform which the artist has pictured so faithfully and Scott has worn so gracefully, in the campaigns of the past. It is indeed a sad state of affairs when, through egotism, political wires and personal spite backed by the circulation of the Oregonian the control of politics in this state has virtually been in the hands of one person. Thousands do not know it after being influenced by the articles read. If the aim of the Oregonian editor had been a grand one for the aid of the multitude or the common people the means taken could be excused, but when bad methods are used for bad purposes the person using them should be ostracized. But then Harvey W. Scott is nothing but a fair average specimen of the republican leaders of Oregon.

THE POPE INTERVIEWED.

The New York Herald of Sunday, April 29, publishes an account of an interview with Pope Leo XIII., on the day before at the Vatican. The Herald and the World impose so many "fakes" on the public nowadays that one is not quite sure of the truth of anything of a startling character that appears in their columns. What makes the alleged interview suspicious is the puff for the Herald that appears in the midst of it, which has very much the appearance of a "fake," and was probably injected into Leo's remarks by the correspondent himself. The expressions of the pope are general in character, and made in a kindly spirit, differing in nothing from his published utterances for years past. They relate to the religious, moral, and social state of the world. His regard for America was also shown. "I have a claim upon Americans for their respect," he said, with kindly eyes, "because I love them and their country. I have a great tenderness for those who live in the land, Protestants and all. Under the constitution religion has perfect liberty, and is a growing power. Where the church is free it will increase, and I bless, I love Americans for their frank, open, unaffected character, and for the respect which they pay to Christianity and Christian morals."

PAN-AMERICAN COMMERCE.

The Pan-American Congress has adjourned, and it seems to be the fashion to assert that the conference has been useless. This is a very short-sighted way of regarding an important international event. The mere fact that the representatives of eighteen republics conferred at Washington on the subjects of mutual concern which are of most importance is a vindication of the wisdom of the meeting. It is true, under the existing laws and conditions, that reciprocity is impossible, but reciprocity treaties are practicable, and the fact that republican protectionists are in favor of making them with the other American republics is a striking evidence that the present tariff is beginning to pinch its votaries. A wider market is wanted, and Mexico and Central and South America offer it. These people should be aided in their liberal tendencies. So soon as we have freer trade with the countries to the south we shall have closer relations with Canada, and in no long time we shall be on better terms with Europe. As soon as wool from the Argentine republic is free, we shall have lower duties on woolen goods. The selfish syndicate will go to pieces.

Above all else, we should endeavor to preserve the international relations established by the conference, and we cannot do that by dropping its work as if it were worthless. Europe is very anxious to monopolize the commerce of Central and South America, and Mexico and although our southern neighbors prefer to trade with the great republic, and are willing to sacrifice some profits to that end, they cannot wait upon our beck and nod to their own ruin.

The funeral of Rev. Neil Johnson took place at Woodburn Sunday. The scene was a notable and impressive one, and the form of the aged pioneer preacher, 40 of whose 88 years of life had been spent in Oregon, was followed reverently to his last rest by a host of friends and relatives. Sorrow is out of place at such a funeral. The broadest and kindest intent of nature has been fulfilled in a reputable, honest, Christian life of four score and eight years, and the desire to detain a man upon the stage of life after his part of the drama has ended, displays the uncharitable, selfishness rather than the essence of affection. True affection finds not more tender and legitimate expression in rejoicing that such a man lived so long, than in gladness that he has gone to his reward. The hand of death that arrests the steps of youth may well be dreaded and shunned, but when the same hand proffers to assist the tottering steps of age across the dark portals that divide the seen from the unseen the feeling that would repulse and turn it aside is ennobling alike by humanity and love.—Oregonian.

Mark Twain says he once quit smoking. It was when he began to write "Roughing It," and it took him three weeks to write three chapters. He resumed smoking and finished the book in three months. Mark now smokes 300 cigars a month, but his fun hasn't the old-time fragrance to it. Perhaps he could improve its tone by drawing on a corn-cob pipe occasionally.

Governor Pennoyer.

THE ISSUE PRESENTED.

The tariff contest in congress is about to open. The majority and minority of the ways and means committee represent opposing policies and principles. The issue between them is clear. It is this: Shall the United States always tax the many consumers for the benefit of a few manufacturers?

When the protective policy was adopted it was alleged to be for the benefit of "infant industries." But the infant industries never grow older. In the McKinley bill the tax is increased on some of the oldest articles that are to be found in the tariff schedules such as manufactures of flax. Therefore it is now proposed that the infant industries shall always be fostered; that the strength which they might naturally acquire by active competition in the markets of the world shall be compensated for by gifts of money extorted from the consumers.

In like manner the pretense that the tariff tax is intended to pay to the manufacturer the difference in the cost of labor and to provide a home market for the farmers is abandoned. The bounty is to be increased without reference to the rate of wages, while, in order to further benefit the farmer, he is to be protected against a competition which does not exist. How complete is the deception practised on the farmer is illustrated by the proposed tariff on horses. The farmer is to pay a duty on his imported breeding-horses nearly equal to the value of the animals, while the blooded and registered horse, imported for the hunt and steeplechase come in free of duty.

Mr. McKinley's bill has awakened such a storm of indignation that it is doubtful if he can receive the votes of a sufficient number of republicans. The protected interests themselves are unwilling to go to the logical conclusion of their argument. But, however that may be, the issue between the two parties is presented. The choice lies between higher taxes, permanent bounties and large revenues for the looters, on the one side, and on the other lower taxes and reduced revenues. The democrats welcome the issue and will make the most of it.

The Scientific American says that France has produced a submarine torpedo boat which appears to be entirely successful. It employs a crew of three or four men, who can remain under water, if they desire to do so, 24 hours at a time, and have complete control of their vessel. The "Goubert," as it is called after the inventor, is operated by electricity and supplied with oxygenated air at normal pressure. Its system of ventilation is most ingenious, and without this it could of course not be successfully operated. The vessel will be employed to set or explode torpedoes under hostile ships, being itself completely protected from attack by approaching the enemy under water. This creeping engine of destruction is one of the most ingenious of devices. Its only formidable foe, outside of itself will be found in sunken torpedoes set to protect vessels from its attacks. If it is possible to carry out the intent of the inventor the insidious, armed terror will add one more to the long train of horrors that always follow in the wake of war.

David Sinton is the wealthiest citizen of Cincinnati. He has recently given $25,000 to the Young Men's Christian Association the other day, and the editor of one of the leading newspapers of the city, being anxious for the city to manifest its appreciation of Mr. Sinton, thus relieves his mind.

Mr. Sinton is not a purse-proud hypocrite and does not stand in the corner and pray, neither does he squander his wealth in snobbery; but when he is called on to say good-bye to this terrestrial sphere the Lord will send his best angel, and when he gets to heaven will say: "Well done, Dave, old boy; you were a thoroughbred on earth, and you can sit right down here by my side." There are only a few of us left. The citizens of Cincinnati should escort David to a banqueting hall and tell him what they think of him. Don't wait till he gets wings. Just start the ball at once. Put us down for two front seats. Dave, you are a Lulu!

After this wonderful expression something will have to be done for Mr. Sinton.

Prof. Kein, a scientist who has been investigating the natural resources of Japan, says: "They reveal a national frugality and economy of a marvellous type. The area of Japan is less than that of California. Its cultivated land is less than one-tenth of its total acreage, yet its products support about 38,000,000 people. In Japan 2,500 people subsist from each square mile of divided land." If the land were divided up among the people a single-taxer would not have room enough on his own plot to swing his theory without knocking down his neighbor's fences.

A discontented millionaire rolled through the city Sunday in his special train and gazed upon thousands of happy people, whom, no doubt, he envies in his own way, but would not give one cent of his vast wealth for happiness like theirs.

In remitting for a subscription do not say, "Please find enclosed," etc. Leave off the "please." It is unnecessary to plead with an editor in that way. If there is any money in the letter he will find it, and don't you think he won't. If he doesn't, he is a bogus member of the profession and you are well rid of the paper.

B. S. CLARK

Wishes to announce to the citizens of McMinnville and vicinity that he has leased the room now occupied by Mrs. Morris & Co., and open up a line of goods, in which will appear

Staples and Novelties,

DIRECT FROM THE EAST.

The stock will be replenished every few days, and we wish to impress on the minds of our patrons that he will not be undersold but will undersell any and all competitors; that he will be aggressive and progressive; that he will do as he agrees; that any and all goods not satisfactory or not in strict conformity in and to the recommendation of the said B. S. Clark will be received back and the money refunded to the purchaser, provided, however, that the goods are returned in as good condition as when bought; that the store shall be known as

and that the proprietor does not intend to be restricted in his purchases, but will buy any and everything that in his judgment will be saleable and meet the requirements of the trade. The writer wishes to impress on your memory the following pointed and pertinent truths, facts and figures: First—That there are two ways of doing business—one is the old and exploded idea that you must buy on time and sell on time, that you must have a set of books and a book-keeper, a collector, and last, but not the least, an assignee to wind up your affairs; that in order to do business you must buy tax-laden goods on time and after having loaded them to the water's edge with additional taxes, you sell them on long time to the consumer. Is it any wonder that there are so many failures among men, not only those who merchandise but also among the tillers of the soil. The old credit system is the deadly upas plant and should be shunned. My PLAN is altogether a different way. I pay cash for my goods and buy where I can do the best. I sell my goods at a very small margin for the

C-A-S-H,

and I do not hesitate to say that I can and will sell goods cheaper than they can be sold by any credit concern in the city. All I ask is this, first and foremost, come and see me, and if I have what you want buy it of me and save from 25 to 50 per cent; if I should not have the article sought for, then would be ample opportunity for you to pay the old and ruinous prices. A dollar saved is a dollar earned, and the sooner mankind learns to shun the credit system the sooner will prosperity perch on their banner.
