CHURCH NOTICES.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH—Services every Sabbath at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday School at 10 a. m. REV. G. F. RICH, Pastor.

At the Red Front Grocery

You will find a complete line of fancy and staple groceries, crockery and glassware. A complete stock of green and coast Rio, Costa Rica, Mocha and O. G. Java coffee; fine gunpowder, English breakfast and Japan tea.

Local and General.

The McMinnville band left for Salem Sunday. Mrs. Dr. Pease left yesterday morning for Dakota. A motor line to Dayton is just the thing to talk about.

Yamhill watermelons are in the market and are being sold cheap. Put in your spare time talking about the average question. The city needs it.

Geo. Savage will soon go out to Mr. Sander's farm, southwest of Amity, to paint Mr. S.'s residence. Dr. S. A. Young has sold Vanderbilt, brother of Kettleman, to a Mr. Merrill, of Portland, for $2500.

At Hussey, of this city, has been appointed agent at the Grand Ronde reservation vice Thos. Faulconer resigned. Two lots 60x100 clear and level to blocks from post office for sale for $1600.

The Hook and Ladder company have new certificates of membership, printed at this office. All who have none should apply for one immediately. The W. C. T. U. will meet at Mrs. Dr. Johnson's on Friday 19 inst. All are cordially invited.

A. J. Edson of Carlton will start for the states about the first of the month. He will be gone about two months. Roseville Me. will be his headquarters while away. The mail route from this city to Grand Ronde went into actual service Tuesday morning. Mr. Youm arrived here at 10:15. McMinnville has now four daily mails.

At this season of the year farmers usually pick their cord wood and other early fall fruits. If you desire to pay for your paper with wood bring it in as soon as possible. The finest line of school books, tablets and all school supplies ever in the city also a moveably in view of a late cleaner to be found at book store call and examine them.

On September 23, 1890 there will be a public sale of farming utensils at the McCasky farm three miles west of this city. Considerable stock will be offered. The terms are easy. A. J. J. L. Rogers is sick with chills and fever.

Hewitt Bros have a fine line of school supplies books etc. Fresh bread, cakes, pies and taffy every day (Sundays excepted) at Grissens.

Highest cash price paid for Poultry of all kinds & eggs at Knight, Woods & Wallace. Wright's Blackberry Cordial should be kept in every house. Invaluable in all relaxed conditions of the bowels.

Some of the iron pillars for the new brick have been declared n. g. and will not be put in the building. They were furnished by the Dallas foundry. Poor work will not build up the business of the foundry. By the way, a foundry, managed right, would pay in this city.

Margaret Durland, recently deceased, has bequeathed to the school fund of Douglas county all the residue and remainder of her property after bequeathing one thousand dollars to John Perkins, of Medford, Jackson county, Ore. Our council can do the same thing and it would be likewise appreciated by our people.

Forest Grove is to have a cannery; it will not be a salmon cannery but a fruit cannery, and the subscribers have more than equalled the expectations of the originators of the scheme, they having secured enough to insure its start in first-class shape. A meeting of the stockholders will be held and officers and directors elected. The buildings will be erected and everything in good running order before spring, so as to take the early fruits, berries and vegetables.

H. Hirschberg of Independence, and D. W. Sears of McCoy, are still traveling in Germany. In a recent letter to the West Side Mr. Hirschberg expresses his sympathy for the laboring classes in Germany whose lot in life is so much worse than anything an Oregonian at least can imagine; women working sixteen hours a day at hard work and receiving twenty-five cents for it. He says living is expensive in Hamburg, and to quote his own words: "This is a great city indeed and it is as costly to live here as in San Francisco. They give it to an American and we have to watch them closely. We expect to leave here for Dresden in a few days, as they say it is a nice city. We have been on the river since we reached this country and never were two days in the same place. I have the following laid out for my journey: from Berlin to Dresden, thence to Carlsbad, thence to Munich, thence to Frankfurt-on-the-Main, thence to Weisbaden, thence to Cologne on Rhine, thence to Brussels, thence to Paris, thence to London, thence to Liverpool, thence to Southampton, where we expect to take a steamer for our return home about Sept. 20th, or Oct. 3d. It is a matter to get a room as they have all been engaged three months in advance, and the estimate is now that there are over 125,000 foreigners in this country this season to 80,000 last year."

One day recently the writer was in the thriving little village of Willamina. This town is keeping pace in growth and prosperity with the surrounding fertile farming and stock country. A fine large two-story store building is in process of erection, and several new dwellings are to be seen. Thirty lots were sold in one day recently and the lumber is now on the ground for a number of substantial residences. The flooring mill is doing a good business, running to its full capacity. H. Baily is talking of putting in the necessary machinery for a furniture factory soon. Hopes are entertained that the railroad will be extended to Willamina in the spring, and taken altogether the town has good prospects for the future.

At the College. The work at the college has opened with a considerably larger attendance than in preceding years. Quite a number of the old students are back and an unusually large number of new students. There are students from Western and Eastern Oregon, Montana, and all parts of the Willamette valley. Everything indicates an exceptionally prosperous year of work. Most of the students have already entered upon regular courses of study, much more so than in preceding years. Classes are now so arranged that students coming in will have no difficulty in finding such classes and such studies as they want.

SHADDEN-GILLIAM—At the residence of the groom, two miles west of this city, on Saturday Sept. 13, 1890, Ammon Shadden to Mrs. Sallie M. Gilliam. W. T. Shurtleff officiating.

G. A. R. Center Post. Hall corner of Third and F streets, McMinnville, Ore. Post meets on the second and fourth Saturdays of each month at 7:30 p. m. Transient comrades cordially invited to attend.

Probably the oldest vessel in the world is now running on the Pacific coast. This remarkable vessel, a fore and aft schooner of about eighty tons register burden, called the Vigilant, is now and has been regularly running from Santa Cruz to St. Thomas and vice versa, as a passenger, freight and mail packet for upwards of four score years. The Vigilant, it is said, was built in Baltimore, Md., during the first years of our national independence, making her upwards of 110 years old. She was of the Baltimore clipper class, so famed many years ago for speed, and must have been a wonder and a beauty when launched.—Astoria Columbian.

Byron Springer Suicide. From the dispatches we learn that Byron Springer of Prineville, Or., formerly of this county, committed suicide at Red Bluff, Cal., Monday. It seems that he telegraphed the sheriff at Red Bluff last Friday to arrest two men for horse stealing. He arrived Saturday night with a warrant. The men were tried and there being no evidence they were released. They had Springer arrested for false imprisonment, and the trial was set for 10 o'clock Monday. At 9 A. M. people in the hotel were startled by a loud report of a pistol. On going to Springer's room they found him lying on the floor, shot through the head.

SALEM WITHOUT A TITLE.

A Quarter Section in that City Which No Man Owns. It is not generally known, but according to the tale of a gentleman, formerly an attorney of Salem, Oregon, a large portion of that city is unquestionably in jeopardy as far as perfect title is concerned. Some time since an eastern capitalist concluded a bargain with a citizen of that place for the purchase of several acres of vacant land near the Willamette University. The stranger employed a well-known Salem lawyer to search the title. The attorney did his work and reported the title defective. In 1852, or thereabout, the old Methodist mission took up 160 acres of ground, on which now stands the state house, Marion courthouse, the Willamette University and scores of the finest residences in the capital city. The East Salem school building also stands on the land in question. The necessary filings were made, but for some reason the Mission failed to apply for and obtain the final papers of transfers from the government, but in later years sold, gradually, pieces of the land until now about ninety acres of it are covered with buildings, and the whole, with present improvements, is worth over $2,000,000.

When these facts were learned, those who owned land within the limits of the Mission claim were badly scared, and at once employed an able lawyer to look out for their rights. An obtain a patent from the government for which they agreed to pay a handsome fee. Only a few days since was the application made, and up to that time the whole tract might have been preempted by some daring speculator and for the next twenty years this case would have filled the courts. This story is no canard. It is an absolute fact that even the proud, pushing state of Oregon does not even own the ground upon which her capitol building stands.—Evening Telegram.

Prof. Fred G. Plummer, the civil engineer of Tacoma, says: "I have been all over this country and have the best collection of the flora to be found anywhere. What do you think of these trees 650 feet high. They are to be found that high in the unsurveyed townships near the foot of Mount Tacoma, and what is more I have seen them and made an instrumental measurement of a number with that result. There are lots of trees near the base of Mount Tacoma whose foliage is so far above the ground that it is impossible to tell to what family they belong except by the bark. Very few people know or dream of the immensity of our forest growth. I wish that some of our large trees could be sent to the world's fair at Chicago. We could send a flag pole for instance 300 or 400 feet long.

An Ancient Vessel. Probably the oldest vessel in the world is now running on the Pacific coast. E. L. Rector, of Gervais, says the Star will ship about 10,000 boxes of fruit this season and upon each box is painted: "Wholesale dealer in Oregon fruit, E. L. Rector, Gervais, Or." This is an excellent way to make known to the world that Oregon is a fruit producing country, as it attracts the attention of many thousands of fruit users and dealers wherever he makes his shipments.

Railroad Extensions. Railroads on paper continue to rapidly expand. If they would materialize it would be a fine thing. The Eugene Guard says: We have heard railroad this week to the effect the Oregonian railway would by another season cross the Willamette at Springfield, and from Eugene would build down the Siuslaw, thence to Coos bay. It was also said that the wide road would not connect at Junction, but would make a connection with the Oregonian road at some point west of Eugene. There are rumors, but the scheme looks feasible on paper. A road from Eugene to Coos bay would pass through a good section of the country, and be a comparatively cheap road to build.

A STARTLING CASE.

A singular case is reported to the La Grande Gazette of a Union county man who spoke his first word on Wednesday of last week after a silence of seventeen years. The name of the man who has undergone this agreeable change is James Smith, brother of a well-to-do farmer living near Island city, in that county. In 1873 Mr. Smith was prostrated with a severe attack of fever, and during his sickness lost all power of speech. He recovered his faculties in every other way, and has since been physically as strong as the average man. He had taken a land claim, and came to the land office Wednesday to see about it. In some transaction with the officials, which he probably did not readily understand, he conceived the idea that he was being defrauded, and was seized with a fit of passion bordering almost upon insanity and immediately began to talk a "blue streak." His conversation was disconnected, but every word was articulated as plainly as if he had never been deprived of the power of speech. He has since been able to talk readily, and seems to be making up for lost time.

A singular feature of the affair is that his conversation is principally upon topics that were prominently before the public at the time he lost his speech. The theory of the physician who is attending the man at La Grande is that part of the brain controlling the vocal organs had become paralyzed during his long sickness and had again become stimulated to action by violent passion.

The Wilds of the N. W. Most eastern people do not have any reliable idea of this glorious N. W. country at all. Rev. E. W. Clark, traveling correspondent of Frank Leslie's Illustrated Weekly, did not until recently. Here is what he says: "This northwest is a wonder to me. I can hardly believe my senses. I, in common with the people of the east, have labored under the impression that here were the wilds of America. Here in Oregon I expected to find frontier settlements of logs and adobe with little patches of vegetables, wheat and Indian corn, growing among the stumps of recently fallen forests. Instead I find thriving cities, which for push and enterprise are far ahead of towns in the east. And here, too, is to be found one of the greatest wheat centers in the country. The people of the east will not conceive it until they come and see for themselves."

The Latest Swindle for Farmers. It beats the Bohemian oats. A glib tongued agent goes to a farmer and makes a bargain with him to furnish him a cinnamon bean, something new, just out, and for which there is a great demand in the production of cinnamon oil which is expressed from the beans. The beans are worth $20 a bushel and he will agree to give the farmer $5 for each cinnamon tree grown from the seed he furnishes, when it has reached the growth of five feet, and he will bind the contract by a good and sufficient bond. The seed beans the farmer gets are common red beans saturated with cinnamon oil, and which seldom reach the growth above 6 inches. The farmer will wait a good while for the return of his $5.—Ex.

WEATHER-CROP BULLETIN.

For the Week Ending Saturday, Sept. 13, 1890.—U. S. Signal Service. About normal temperature prevailed during the week. In various sections frosts were more frequent and of greater severity, though the period for any serious damage being done has passed. There was no rainfall reported. The winds have been light, generally from the northwest. The mornings have been partly cloudy or foggy, the atmosphere is becoming more filled with smoke from the forest fires. The coast and Willamette valley are more free from smoke than any other sections. A few hares have begun to fall, a few varieties are coloring, showing the rapid approach of autumn. Grain harvest is over; the crop is generally threshed and hauling to warehouses, mills, etc. is now in progress. Good crops of extra good quality of wheat is generally reported to have been secured. Fruit drying is in progress. The prune crop was large, of good quality and in demand. The onion crop is being pulled. Potatoes are ready to be dug and are more than average in quantity, quality and size. Some hops are already being hauled to the market. In Marion county hops are active at 32 cents per pound. Grapes are ripening. The vines are very healthy and are bearing heavily. The grape yield in Jackson county is unusually large. The corn crop is fair. The general yield of grain in Sherman, Wasco and adjoining counties was larger than expected. Through the sections south of the Blue mountains grain and hay crops are unusually good. Forest fires are quite extensive, though not so great as in former years. There will be issued from the central office in a few days, a circular, asking for information relative to the grain and fruit yield of the state this year, and it is hoped that those receiving the same may answer promptly, fully and comprehensively. The quantity, quality and average yield of the crops in Oregon, in 1890, should be put on record.

Growth of Clackamas County. The result of County Assessor Noble's work shows a marked increase over last year in the taxable property of Clackamas county. From a comparative summary furnished by him the following facts and figures are obtained: Acres of land, 440,733, an increase of 88,357 acres over last year, which are valued at $2,694,205, an increase of $552,488 over last year; value of town lots and improvements $863,285, an increase of $291,965 over last year; household furniture $85,000, an increase of $22,000; horses and mules numbered last year 2815, this year 4154; cattle increased to 32,544, 7964 over last year; sheep to 12,162, 1950 over last year; and hogs to 6419, 455 over last year, mortgages were last year $439,076, and this year $522,307 but this increase is solely due to a few real estate speculators; gross amount of taxable property $5,274,556, an increase of $729,256 over last year; indebtedness is $1,594,136, an increase over last year of $251,537; the exemption amount to $382,750, an increase over last year of $28,000, leaving the net value of taxable property $3,396,634, an increase over last year of $554,165.—Oregon City Courier.

Work Commenced at the Hatchery. Work at the Clackamas salmon hatchery has been commenced, and in a few weeks eggs and young fish may be seen in all stages of growth. The artificial propagation of salmon is an interesting study. Upon its success, to a large extent, depends the future of the salmon industry of this state, as the natural increase of the fish is not sufficient to keep pace with the heavy annual catch. United States Fish commissioner Hubbard this year has charge of the hatchery, and the usual success is expected. The output of young fish this year, however, will fall short of that of last year, owing to the high water and a delay in building the racks. If 4,000,000 young fish are obtained, the fish commissioners will realize their expectations.

NO LONGER A TERROR. Modern Treatment That Cures Constipation. According to the San Francisco Bulletin a remedy has been discovered that will almost surely bring certainty overcomes constipation. It is the new laxative principle in Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. The papers are full of recent occurrences confirming its efficiency, and we give place to their last sensation. A card from San Francisco will know lady manure. She says: "I am willing to state the following experience: I have for years had a weak stomach attended with constipation, and never found but one preparation that helped me, and that soon cured me and left no effect, and I was again suffering until I tried Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. It helped me in every way and has thoroughly reorganized me. I had one of the most sensitive stomachs and was in continual distress, but can with the aid of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla now eat any and everything with my old accustomed freedom without any effects. I am both surprised and delighted, and gladly recommend it."
