Presiding Elder Wilson will be present and officiate. Final reports for the year will be made by the pastor and the officers of the church. The quarterly conference will be held on Saturday the 18th at 10 o'clock p. m.

THE CELEBRATION.

A Large Attendance—Magnificent Parade—A Superb Barbecue—Fine Orations—Good Music—Lively Sports—In Each Everything that Goes to Make a Grand Celebration.

The morning of the fourth seemed to be anything but propitious for a celebration. Rain fell quite early, and from six to half past eight a regular Oregon mist came down so gently as not to be perceptible except to those whose business called them out upon the streets.

At nine the committees were conferring as to the proper thing to be done, when a slight breeze was noticed and a small patch of blue sky showed itself in the southwest. People were already beginning to arrive from the country by every road.

Chief marshal Dr. J. F. Calbreath was soon on the streets with his aids and formed the procession on Third street between C and E. When all were in line, this magnificent pageant moved east on Third street to G, south on G to 4th, west on 4th to B, north on B to 3d, east on 3d to I, north on I and Lafayette avenue to Oak Park.

The procession was led by "B" company band which discoursed fine music inspiring the populace to patriotism. "B" company made a good showing in the line. Considering the time this company has been in the service the officers and men perform their movements well.

The Indian war veterans, the true pioneers of this state, were well up in the front ranks of the parade. The G. A. R., W. R. C., grangers, the hook and ladder company and others all went to make up the longest procession it has been our privilege to behold for many a fourth of July.

The liberty car was a thing of beauty. It contained forty-four little boys representing the states of the Union. In the center towering above all was the Goddess of Liberty surrounded by four supporters or maids of honor.

Little Charley Ungerman and Roma Martin represented George and Martha Washington. They were driven in the procession by a very sedate coachman in livery, and were one of the most pleasing features of the parade.

At the Park the stand was tastefully decorated, there were plenty of seats for all and the comforts of the city's guests were carefully looked after. The exercises were carried on as previously published. The band and choir each rendered an appropriate piece of music; Rev. J. T. Abbott led in prayer; Prof. T. G. Brownson, president of the day, made a short address; Miss Leah Cook read the Declaration of Independence; and last and best of all was the oration by the Hon. G. J. McGinn, of Portland.

This oration we believe was a surprise to every one who heard it. It was delivered in the best style; there was no bombast; there was no gurgling of speech or gesture; it was a history of our country from the discovery by Columbus to the present day. The orator paid a glowing tribute to the early settlers of Virginia and Massachusetts; to the Revolutionary Fathers, who fought and won, and then framed the glorious constitution under which it is possible for forty-four free and independent states to form one nation with one president and one flag. He spoke of the trials and calamities through which the country has passed since its adoption, mentioning only the more prominent characters who helped to make history as we find it to-day. In conclusion he would say there was no greater menace to the free institutions of America to-day than the powerful corporations and trusts. These should be regulated by wise legislation, both state and national, so as not to be a burden to the common people.

Now came the most interesting part—to many—the distribution and eating of the barbecued dinner. The meat, two thousand pounds of choice young beef, was cooked just right. No portion of it was scorched the least bit, and the rarest part would have made a dainty dish to set before a king. Old men who have eaten barbecued meat from "Dan to Beersheba" say they never saw better anywhere. The result proves beyond the shadow of a doubt that Capt. Wyatt Harris and Henry Geig were the proper persons to take charge of this part of our celebration. We believe there was plenty for all, and there is almost no complaint as to the management of any portion of the program during the day.

In the afternoon the various sports took place on Third street. The most important were the hurdle race and the bicycle race. E. W. Fuller was first and Frank Purvine second in the latter; Granville Shadden first and Johnnie Campbell second in the hurdle race. Taken together it was a very creditable and successful celebration. The number present is variously estimated at from three to five thousand. The day was delightfully cool and pleasant after ten o'clock, and the one hundred and fifteenth anniversary of the declaration of independence was pleasantly passed and gone into history.

Fair Ground Races.

The attendance at the races on the fair ground track on the fourth was very good. The half mile dash was won by Paddy Ryan in 49.45 seconds; Lancer D, second; Roebuck, third.

Second race, one-fourth mile dash was won by Lancer D in 24 seconds; Roebuck, second.

The third and last race was a match between Triplet's mare and Martin's bay horse, one and one-eighth miles, won by the former.

New Law Firm.

In another column will be seen the professional card of Ramsey & Fenton. W. M. Ramsey has for a number of years been a prominent lawyer at Salem where his success, especially before the supreme court, became known throughout the state. Mr. Ramsey will remove his family to this city as soon as a suitable house can be procured. The location here of so prominent a gentleman is a valuable acquisition to professional circles.

Miles' Nervine Liver Pills.

Get on a new principle—regulating the liver, the main source of health, and the best so far. It is terminated by a review, Major Burke, U. S. A., and Adj. Gen. Shofner being the reviewing officers. The company will leave in all probability on Friday night, but as yet this is not settled, as the colonel has not been seen in regard to it.

How to Succeed.

This is the great problem in life which few satisfactorily solve. Some fail because of poor health, others want of luck, but the most common cause of failure is a weak nervous system. They are nervous, irritable, changeable, easily get the blues and "take the spruce" from trifling disappointments. They waste time, money, opportunity and nerve force. There is nothing like the Restorative Nervine Pills for this. It is a great specialist. THE BOYS IN BLUE.

They are Now "Enjoying" Camp Life with Poor Rations.

On Saturday afternoon the boys of "B" company took their departure for the annual encampment at Milton station on the Northern Pacific, twenty-five miles from Portland. The name by which this place will be known in the future military history of our state is Camp Gibbon. There are eight companies in camp, six from Portland, one from Oregon City and one from this city.

The companies, their commanding officers and number of men are as follows: Company A, of Portland, First Lieut. E. D. Kelsay, with thirty-two men.

Company B, of McMinnville, Capt. H. L. Heath with forty-two men.

Company C, of Portland, Capt. M. G. Butterfield, with forty-six men.

Company E, of Portland, Capt. E. W. Moore, with twenty-one men.

Company F, of Oregon City, Capt. E. S. Warren, with thirty-five men.

Company G, of Portland, Capt. L. C. Farrar, with forty-three men.

Company I, of Portland, Capt. A. J. Coffey, with thirty-five men.

Company K, of Portland, Capt. H. L. Wells, with twenty-eight men.

The boys were well settled in camp by Monday morning and aside from the favoritism shown the Portland companies, and the very poor rations, our boys are getting along tolerably well.

Letter From Capt. Heath.

CAMP GIBBON, July 7.—Company "B" First Infantry is now fairly in it, and yesterday received a compliment from the commander of the regiment as being the most orderly company in camp. None of the men have been put in the guard house, and are fast becoming acquainted with the members of the other companies.

The band has been complimented by every officer in camp, from the Colonel Commanding to the Junior Lance Corporal.

Four men of "B" company have been excused from duty because of inability to perform duty and work at home.

The men of the company were much disgusted with camp life during the first two days, but are fast becoming completely satisfied with it. This was caused by a streak of bad luck. The company reached Portland in good order and because of being the last company in the column and lack of proper facilities for the transportation of the troops they were assigned to the baggage car for the trip to Milton. Upon arriving at camp it was found that the regimental Q. M. department was in chaos, and in order to procure company baggage it was necessary to detail the entire company to transfer it upon their backs from the depot to the camp. The quartermaster had been unable to procure tents. Taps were not sounded until eleven in order that the companies could prepare for the night.

Sunday morning just at 4:45 reveille sounded and a detail was dispatched to the kitchen for early coffee and bread. It was then learned that the company kits had not arrived and the men drank from the bucket. At breakfast the company could not go to the mess tent until after the other companies had eaten, because of the lack of necessary tableware. The contract for furnishing the meals was let to Freiman, of Portland, and the grub furnished was exceedingly bad, not withstanding the reputation of the caterer. However, during the day the meals have improved wonderfully and the boys' faces have brightened and their stomachs have extended.

The routine of the camp duty, new of course to the men, and this taken with the poor victuals and the continual guying of company "B" by the Portland men, had a depressing effect and nearly all were about ready to desert at any cost. They are now satisfied with their duties because they better understand them, and are making model soldiers both on drill and on guard. As this is being written company "B" and "I" are singing "The Ballad on the Bank," and are enjoying themselves hugely.

An outline of camp duty may be interesting to our readers so it is here given: At 4:45 a. m. reveille sounds and at 5 a. m. the men fall in for roll call. The detail for the early coffee and bread is then sent to the kitchen and the men are marched to the creek in squads where they wash. Upon returning tents and company streets are placed in good order, then at 5:40 a. m. an hour's drill in the setting-up exercises warms the men and creates an enormous appetite for breakfast proper which is ready at 7:15. Before breakfast the guard is mounted and the old guards report to company commanders. At 8:15 the call for drill is sounded and the battalion is formed and marched to the drill grounds by the colonel commanding. These drills are interesting to the men and they are fast "getting there." At 10:30 recall is sounded and from then until guard mount, after supper, the men amuse themselves by worrying the captains of the companies to death asking for passes through the guard lines. The lines are so easy to run at night that there is no fn in it, and the men have stopped it entirely.

The best drilled company on the grounds is Company I, of Portland, Capt. Coffey, commanding. The company is far ahead of the others, as all the men take great interest in making their movements as near perfect as possible. After evening guard mount comes dress parade. This evening the ceremony was seen by a special trainload of people from Portland, and was the best so far. It was terminated by a review, Major Burke, U. S. A., and Adj. Gen. Shofner being the reviewing officers. The company will leave in all probability on Friday night, but as yet this is not settled, as the colonel has not been seen in regard to it.

Novel Hop Louse Remedy.

A Chinaman is farming F. Levy's ranch about three miles up the river from Salem, and the blooming Celestial has adopted a new, not to say novel, way of ridding his hop yard of the threatening louse. The Chinaman, thinking to starve the louse, stripped the vines of their each and every leaf. The result of the experiment is not yet known, but new leaves are about taking the places of the old. In the meantime the naked poles—with their leafless, clammy vines—about their spires heavenward, and his and her lousiness are left to browse on the uncharitable body of the hop vine, or on the more friendly foliage adjacent. The experiment of the son of the Orient will be watched with interest.

THE CREAMERY.

A Brief Report Showing the Amount of Cream Gathered and Butter Made.

There seems to be a desire on the part of some people to want to discuss this business, and have publicly charged that they could make nearly two lbs. of butter out of one gallon of cream. This may be through ignorance. For the benefit of those interested herewith is given the results obtained by the creamery for the past five months to wit:

Jan'y from 62 1/2 gallons. . . 579 lbs butter

Feb'y " 507 " . . . 489 " "

March " 519 " . . . 454 " "

April " 610 " . . . 648 " "

May " 1574 " . . . 1696 " "

Total . . . 3842 " . . . 3816 " "

This shows a shortage of 26 lbs, or it lacks that much of averaging one pound to the gallon. It will be noticed however that for the first three months it falls considerably below while the last two gains, this is due to feed being better. Taking the entire year it will be found that the gauges are as near correct as possible to make them, and it will not average more than one pound to the gallon.

County Institute or Normal School.

To the teachers of Yamhill county, Oregon:

The annual teachers' institute or normal school will convene at McMinnville July 20th, and continue two weeks. A full corps of instructors has been secured, and it only remains for the teachers who would rise in the profession to attend the entire time and secure the full benefit of the full course of instruction. You can in this way at small expense secure the advice, instruction and experience of those who have had years of experience in the schoolroom. The law requires all teachers to be in attendance at least two days under penalty of revocation of certificate, but this should be a minor consideration compared with the desire to obtain a higher standing in the profession. This can only be obtained by close application to the principles of your profession.

I earnestly urge all of Yamhill's teachers to be present at the opening of the institute and to remain until the close.

In addition to the work heretofore indicated, arrangements are being made for a few days instructions during the first week of the institute in kindergarten work. Teachers of ungraded schools and primary grades should be on hand by all means to get this work.

I most earnestly hope that all the teachers in Yamhill will be present and assist in making this a successful meeting.

Respectfully,
L. H. BAKER,
School Supt. Yamhill Co.

A Fatal Mistake.

Physicians make no more fatal mistake than when they inform patients that nervous heart troubles come from the stomach and are of little consequence. Dr. Frank Miles the noted Indiana specialist has proven the contrary in his new book on "Heart Disease," which may be had free at Rogers Bros., who guarantee and recommend Dr. Miles' unequalled heart cure, which has the largest sale of any heart remedy in the world. It cures nervous and organic heart disease, short breath, flutter, palpitation, tenderness in the side, arm or shoulder, irregular pulse, fainting, another drop, etc. His Restorative Nervine cures headache, fits, etc.

After the Coal.

Mr. Coll VanCleve, of the Toledo coal mine, who was in the city yesterday, reported work having begun in earnest towards developing the mines. Roads will be built and preparations made as fast as possible to get into the bowels of some large veins of coal there. The company on Saturday purchased 200 more acres of land and now have about 400. The public generally view such enterprises in a passive kind of a way. But the industry is one which has a good promise of being a large one that will affect Western Oregon generally.—Allaby Democrat.

DIED.

KYDDER.—At her home, eight miles west of North Yamhill, July 3d, Sarah A. A. wife of A. J. Kydder, aged 45 years. She leaves a husband and six small children to mourn her loss.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. She bought a bottle and to her delight found her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued and after taking ten bottles found herself sound and well, now does her own house work, and is as well as she ever was. Few trial bottles of this great discovery at Rogers Bros' drug store, large bottles 50c and $1.
