C Street, McMinnville, Or.

The opera house was comfortably filled Monday evening and Hon. J. F. Caples explained the mysteries of McKinleyism to the satisfaction of the republicans. We haven't heard that he made any converts.

A bright little New York boy after a hard evening's work trying to make a list of three hundred and sixty-five most notable persons in the world, gave up the task and tossed his list to his mamma. That good lady could not but laugh heartily when she read: "Jesus, Christopher Columbus, Papa."

Natural gas is failing. The unrestricted use of this cheap fuel has at last made inroads upon the supply, and already natural gas companies have recommended that their patrons supply themselves with coal or wood, as there was no telling when the supply of gas would cease.

During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries service as councilmen and constables in most New England towns was compulsory. Even John Adams, afterward president of the United States, paid a fine rather than accept a municipal office. In those days the office surely sought the man.

There are many signs that Canada is beginning to drift slowly in the direction of political union with the United States. We do not mean that such an event is likely to come soon, for the sentimental opposition to annexation is too strong to be overcome, but that the ultimate destiny of Canada is political union with the United States.

The death of Lieutenant Fred Schwatka in Portland last week is not only a loss to Oregon, which has been his home since he was five years of age, but to the whole nation. The New York World says: "Few latter-day explorers have attracted more attention than Lieut. Schwatka. He became known not only as a scientist who made discoveries of great value, but as an interesting writer as well."

In experiments on the influence of food and surroundings on the color of animals, Mr. E. B. Poulton reared caterpillars of the pepper moth under different conditions. Those confined among green leaves and twigs became green, those having black or brown twigs mingled with their food were brown or black and others were turned light colored by white paper. With artificial colors red and blue tended to produce a dark coloration, though, very strangely, painted twigs had not the same effect as those with the same natural tints.

Only Pennsylvania and Ohio Remain Reliably Republican.

TAMMANY HALL AND HILL PROVE THEIR LOYALTY.

Illinois Surprises the G. O. P. and Satisfies the Democrats.

True Jeffersonian Democracy in the Ascendency Once More.

269 FOR CLEVE AND STEVE.

Weaver May Have More Electoral Votes Than Harrison.

The election of Tuesday has passed into history. To the thinking, reading public there is no disappointment, unless it be one or two minor instances and these are favorable to the winning side. The landslide of 1890 is repeated with even more gratifying results to the democrats. There remain only a few reliably republican states, notable among them are Pennsylvania, Ohio and Oregon.

The here-to-for strongholds of republicanism are vanished and in their places are reared monuments of Jeffersonian democracy as exemplified by the life and acts of President GROVER CLEVELAND.

The electoral vote which this year will be cast for the democratic ticket comes from every portion of the country. Sectional animosities no longer control the determination of the voters of the nation. Honest, sober judgment on the facts and conditions of the times is the governing motive in deciding which party it is best to support. This judgment has just been recorded and to say that it has not been honestly recorded is to impugn the motives of the rank and file of the voters themselves. This is a great country and greatly complicated machinery is necessary to preserve the government and subserve the best interests of all the people. This we believe will be done by the new administration more nearly to the satisfaction of each citizen than by the present one.

Cleveland and Stevenson will have two hundred and sixty-nine electoral votes; Harrison about one hundred and thirty and Weaver forty. The states carried by the democratic ticket are: Alabama, 11; Arkansas, 8; Delaware, 3; South Carolina, 9; Florida, 4; Georgia, 13; Kentucky, 13; Tennessee, 12; Louisiana, 8; Maryland, 8; Mississippi, 9; Texas, 15; Missouri, 17; Virginia, 12; North Carolina, 11; New York, 36; New Jersey, 10; Connecticut, 6; West Virginia, 6; Illinois, 24; Michigan, 7; California, 9; Indiana, 15; Wyoming, 3; total, 269.

In all probability Wisconsin's electoral vote will be carried for Cleveland, also. And no one will be surprised if Cleveland receives 300 votes in the electoral college. There is no use to give majorities as the totals are not all in yet, but just as samples we give New York, 80,000; Illinois, 15,000; Connecticut, 6000.

YAMHILL'S VOTE.

The official vote of this county shows the following result compared with the vote on congressmen in June:

Republican	1469	1317
Democratic	682	877
Peoples	790	387
Prohibition	246	204

Total 3187 2785

These are the figures and you can draw your own conclusions, although it is but fair to say that quite a number of transients voted in this county on Tuesday; or perhaps the ticket voted this week, being less complicated than the state ticket in June, is a better test of the county's voting strength.

Cleveland is elected.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

The president issued the following proclamation of Nov. 4th:

"The gifts of God to our people during the past year have been so abundant and so special that the spirit of devout thanksgiving awaits not the call, but only the appointment of a day when it may have common expression. He has stayed pestilence at our doors. He has given us more love for free civil institutions, in the creations of which his directing providence is so conspicuous. He has awakened a deeper reverence for our laws. He has widened our philanthropy by a call to succor distress in other lands. He has blessed our schools and is bringing forward a patriotic and God-fearing generation to execute his great and benevolent designs for our country. He has given us great increase in material wealth and wide diffusion of contentment and comfort in the homes of our people. He has given us grace to the sorrowing. Now therefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, president of the United States, do call upon all our people to observe, as has been their wont, Thursday, the 24th day of this month, November, as a day of thanksgiving to God for his mercies and a supplication for his continued care and grace."

Throughout this land of ours there is a gradual tendency toward electing both United States senators and the president directly by the people. The proposition is becoming more and more popular among the masses, but not many senators take to the idea. They are almost without exception moneyed men who can bring strong influences to bear whenever they can get a footing, and it would not be half so easy to manipulate the general public as it would a few trusted with the interests of many.—Polk County Remiter.

Mr. Blaine did not vote for president this year. An intimate friend of his says this will be the first time that Mr. Blaine has failed to vote in a presidential year since he became of age.

Bosier Brown, a man 100 years old, residing at Drain, this state, was carried to the polls in an armchair by four prominent citizens and cast his 20th vote for president. He was in the war of 1812.

THE NATIONAL BANKING SYSTEM.

A Few Ideas in Reference to this Great Question.

The existence and perpetuation of the banking institutions, created mainly by the statutes of the United States in 1864, touch the interests of the people in two important ways: (A) as affecting the circulating medium used in daily transactions; and (B) as affecting the management of institutions where business men keep their daily deposits, and where men go to borrow capital for ordinary commercial uses. It is not generally appreciated by persons who have no time to inquire into the organization of banks how the continuance of national banks may be of distinct benefit or injury as affecting a part of our currency.

In the first place the note of a national bank is a promise to pay by the bank, and not by the United States. It is, therefore, not government paper money, like the "greenbacks." As only the banks themselves must redeem their own notes—and the notes must be redeemed at any moment on demand in lawful money—the government steps in only to the extent of obliging the banks to deposit a special part of their resources, invested in United States bonds, with the treasurer at Washington, for the security of the notes issued. On every $100,000 of bonds put up, a bank can issue only $90,000 of its notes. There is thus the most perfect security to holders of notes, since our national bonds sell much above par. If a bank should fail, the government could sell the bonds and with the proceeds have more than enough to redeem the notes. A national bank note is, also, a much safer note to carry so long as gold is paid by the United States than silver dollars, because the latter have only 65 or 70 per cent of value behind them. In fact, no one ever lost a cent by having in his possession a National bank note, although this system passed through great vicissitudes.

This fact is in striking contrast with our experience under the old state banks before 1864, when the notes had as many different values as the banks which issued them; and no one could then take notes in change without resort to a "bank note detector" to find their value, week by week, or without losing by discount (through exchange) when sending money for payment to different parts of the country.

Each National bank must, also, redeem its own notes at its own counter on demand. Above I have referred to the method of attaining redemption, as in the case of the failure of a bank. Now, I refer to the method of daily redemption. Inasmuch as notes are so safe, they are not lost a cent by having in his possession a National bank note, although this system passed through great vicissitudes.

Great Relief

Instantly afforded sufferers from Bronchitis, by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Either as an anodyne, to allay inflammation, or an expectorant, to loosen and bring away the mucus, this preparation has no equal.

Last winter I contracted a severe cold, which, by repeated exposure, became quite obstinate. I was much troubled with hoarseness and bronchial irritation. After trying various medicines, without relief, I at last purchased a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. On taking this medicine, my cough ceased almost immediately, and I have been well ever since.—Rev. Thomas B. Russell, Secretary Holston Conference and P. E. of the Georgia Dist. M. E. C., Jonesboro, Tenn.

My mother was sick three years and very low with bronchitis. We feared nothing would cure her. One of my friends told me about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. She tried it, and had eight bottles, and is now well.—T. H. D. Chamberlain, Baltimore, Md.

DO YOU CROCHET?

I don't mean traps. They are very pretty in their proper place, but when they are used to assist the street cleaning department they justify all the abuse that can be heaped upon them. I mean skirts which nearly touch the ground, and which when standing or sitting practically cover the feet.

I remember the poor and pretty heroine of a story I read long ago, who, when she was surprised by visitors in her worldly costume, "sat down and confided the shoe with a patch to the friendly protection of the pretty pink skirt," which she could never have done if she wore a reform skirt that only came to her ankles.

The latter of course would be more comfortable in bad weather, but the two or three extra inches are so friendly to women who have to economize in shoes. I think this is one very strong reason with a great many women for clinging to long skirts, and it always seems odd that you don't hear it mentioned. Perhaps many women don't think of it in that way. They only know that they are uncomfortably conscious of their feet in a short skirt.

It costs a pretty penny, the reformer ought to know, to be always newly and neat and dainty shoes. If you can spend forty dollars, say, on shoes; if you can have a variety and suitable ones for all occasions, and they fit like gloves, and you can discard them as soon as they need mending or get rubbed or out of shape, then indeed you can rejoice in a reform skirt with some of the inward tranquillity which comes from a consciousness of being well dressed.

But the case is very different with women who must restrict themselves to ten dollars or less a year; with whom each pair of shoes must last so many weeks or months, no matter what work is expected of them; who never dream of having shoes made to order, and who must consider their substantial qualities more than their style.

This friendly service on the part of the long skirt is one thing that helps it to hold its own against the peddler stout on the king's highway.

M. HELEN FRASER LOVETT.

A Gift from Her Son.

Empress Frederick has received a pleasant gift from her son Emperor William—the ruined castle of Cronberg, crowning the hill opposite her new home in the Tannus-Friedrichshof. The empress wanted the castle in order to enlarge her grounds, but the property belonged to the state. Accordingly Emperor William bought the estate for her benefit.

Dear girls and women, co-operation will give you everything you desire—co-operation in sympathy and in intellectual, financial and social effort. It is the open secret of success, lying bright and smiling in our path at the door of the Twentieth century.
