The Monterey, the new coast defense ship built at San Francisco, is in the harbor at Portland and is being visited by thousands. Notwithstanding adverse statements the vessel seems to be satisfactory to the government, as she has been accepted.

All the secretaries of the democratic administration are making sweeping changes in the administration of their offices and are cutting down expenses by getting along without the unnecessary. There will soon be another surplus for the republicans to howl about.

The reason, if there is any outside the present scarcity of money, why woolen mill owners are not purchasing wool is that they are liable to get it for 11 cents per pound less should the tariff be revised. This does not mean that the American wool will be sold for that much less from the fact that Australian wool in Australia is quoted at a higher price than the American production. Eleven cents a pound saved on a large part of their purchase is enough to make woolen manufacturers run short handed.

At the present time it is impossible to land Australian wool in the United States for less than 30 cents per pound, duty and freight—amounting to 13 cents per pound—counted in.

HENDERSON ON FINANCE.

Ex-Senator John B. Henderson, of Missouri, has addressed a letter to Secretary Carlisle, at the latter's request, presenting an exhaustive review of currency question. The concluding part of this strong paper sets forth the ex-senator's remedy for present financial ills, and from this we extract the following:

If greater expansion of the currency were really required by the legitimate demands of business it might have been secured, it seems to me, by inducing an increase of National bank notes, a currency secured by United States bonds, payable in gold and always worth a premium. Instead of this, the contrary policy was most persistently pursued, resulting in a decrease of specie-paying bank notes from $356,000,000 in 1883 to $172,000,000 in 1892. While this better currency was being driven out by unfriendly legislation, the channels of business were being gorged by an issue of 419,000,000 of silver dollars, 235,000,000 of silver certificates and finally, under the act of 1890, by the issue of $154,000,000 more of treasury notes in the purchase of silver bullion at an enormous loss to the people and to the government.

Of the 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 gold with which we began in 1878 none can be found in circulation. What has not gone to foreign countries, enjoying the blessing of a single standard, has been hoarded, not to reappear until the hold-ers have some guarantee if loaned it will be returned in money equally good. The gold certificates not already forced upon the government for redemption are no longer seen. The United States notes, for the redemption of which the $100,000,000 gold reserve is supposed to be held by the government, constitute the best security of the National banks and hence the greenback is rapidly disappearing. The National bank notes are necessarily held, if possible, by the bank issuing them, in fear that in the extremity of distress their redemption may be asked in gold. Nothing is left but silver certificates and treasury notes. The banks are unable to maintain their lawful reserves, hence they can give no relief to a suffering community. The government treasury is depleted of its surplus. Government expenditures exceed government receipts. Extravagant appropriations made upon a silver basis must now be paid in a medium of value. The heedless promise to pay has now run its brief course, and its performance comes with suffering and tears.

What now is the remedy? 1. The customs duties should be paid in gold alone. 2. The silver bullion in government vaults should at once be sold for cash in gold and the proceeds covered into the treasury. 3. That three per cent gold bonds to the amount of $300,000,000 should be promptly sold and the proceeds transferred to the treasury. 4. A day should be fixed, not later than January 1, 1898, for the redemption and payment in gold coin of all circulating notes of every description heretofore issued by the government. 5. At least half of the silver dollars issued under the Acts of 1878 and 1890 should be sold as bullion and the remainder minted into subsidiary silver coins, and made legal tender only in payment of ten dollars or less.

6. Provision should be made for the use of the 300,000,000 of gold bonds as a basis for banking, making the provisions as liberal as possible consistent with safety, but under government supervision.

7. The basis of National banking should be enlarged so as to permit the issue of circulating notes on the deposit of other than United States bonds, the solvency of such bonds to be passed on by responsible government officials.

8. All bank issues to be redeemed in gold coin on demand.

9. All foreign gold coins should be made a legal tender for debt and receipts for government dues at their value as fixed by law.

10. Previous to the 1st of January, 1898, the surplus funds of the treasury, either from loans or collections, to be placed with the banks in such sections of the country and such amounts as may be determined by the secretary. It is not poverty but distrust that afflicts this country. Our fabric of finance must be torn down and built anew.

REPEAL AND THE MARKET.

The business world is happier than it was. Money is easier, trade is brisker, apprehension is calmed and confidence is gradually returning. It is true that all this may be changed within a week or even within a day. It is true in money matters more than in any other relation of life that confidence is a plant of slow growth. But whatever of amelioration has taken place in the condition of business has followed close on the president's call for an extra session of congress for the purpose of repealing the Sherman law. It may be that the Sherman law will not be repealed. It may be that repeal alone will not put an end to the distressful times which are felt throughout the world, in all countries, without regard to kinds of money or to tariffs or to rates of wages. The chances are that the Sherman act will be repealed, and that the uncertainty and fear resulting from its existence on the statute-book will thereupon be dispelled.

All these facts are known to the men of the money market, and yet the mere call for the session has produced a calm and a certain feeling of security which, compared with the condition of things ago, may be said to indicate returning prosperity.

This is a happy augury of what would follow repeal. Intelligent people the world over have an abiding faith in the common sense of the American people, whose will congressmen are eager to learn and obey. The mere fact that the situation is to be discussed in the law-making body, and while the effect of the Sherman law is plain, causes a general faith that the offending statute will be repealed, and this in turn restores confidence and helps business.

If this is the result of the proclamation which gives the opportunity for repeal, what will be true of the repeal itself? Is it not already possible to foresee the beneficial results of such a measure?—N. Y. World.

The pension rolls of the United States are receiving an overhauling at the hands of the democratic administration.

A general notice to all pensioners is being sent out from the bureau requiring each pensioner to produce the certificate of a reputable physician attested by two witnesses that it is impossible for him to labor because of injuries received while in the service of the United States as a soldier. If no attention is paid to this matter by the recipient of the notice within sixty days, the pensioner will be dropped from the roll. If the pensioner submits this certificate it will then be necessary for him to go before the local board for further inquiry into his condition. While this seems unreasonable no doubt to many of the pensioners, it is absolutely necessary in order to rid the roll of a number of leeches that have never smelled powder in a battle for their country. The men who are receiving pensions for injuries actually contracted in the service of the government during the war have nothing to fear. Their pensions will neither be reduced nor taken away.

Reduced Freight Rates. The Southern Pacific railroad company has inaugurated a new tariff system that will effect all the lines in Oregon, and will reduce the rates of all local or short hauls considerably. The maximum rate will be twenty cents per hundred pounds on shipments of all kinds in less quantities than carload lots, fifteen cents per hundred on all kinds of merchandise per carload.

Hereafter all shipments will be subject to the western classification instead of the local classification as heretofore. This western system is the system that is used all over the United States. There will be no change in the local rates except that of a big cut. This action has been caused by the competition of the Oregon Pacific. In order that it can be understood in its proper light the following from the Eugene Guard is given:

The revised tariff schedule of the S. P. road substantially makes some small reductions on freight shipped south from Portland. On freight south from Albany as far as Ashland the rate is raised as follows:

First class, formerly 25 cents per cwt., 35 cents; an increase of 10 cents per cwt. Second class, formerly 21 cents, 32 cents; increase 11 cents per cwt. Third class, formerly 15 cents, 27 cents; increase 12 cents per cwt.

This third class includes sugar, which costs 12 cents per cwt from San Francisco to Albany and the added 27 cents of the S. P. from Albany to Eugene would make the freight on sugar nearly 2-5 of a cent per lb. This item is mentioned merely to illustrate the effects of this attempt at extortion. The same hardship would be worked in all other freight shipments.
