Many people, not aware of the dangers of constipation, neglect the proper remedy till the habit becomes chronic, inflammation or stoppage results. A case or two of Ayer's pills in the beginning would have prevented this.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is one of the few medicines which are recommended by every school of medicine. Its strength, purity and efficacy are too well established to admit of doubt as to its superiority over all other blood purifiers whatever. Ayer's Sarsaparilla leads all.

One of the Gray boys living near Wato lake was shot Friday last in the groin, making a serious wound. While driving in a cart the gun slipped and the hammer striking, it exploded. Loaded guns in a jolting cart are dangerous. Three or four fatal accidents have occurred this year.

Mrs. J. H. Bell brought to this office yesterday an egg, the product of a Black Spanish hen, that measured 7 1/2 by 5 1/2 inches in circumference. She stated that she had sold during the year past 800 dozen eggs, and that the butter and eggs handled by her from the farm brought in an income of $300 per year. If more of our farmers' wives recognized the profit in eggs and butter as she does the country would be more prosperous.

A MASS MEETING.

The Ministerial Alliance Calls a Meeting to Discuss Sunday Closing.

On Tuesday evening a large number of ladies, a few of the business men and a crowd of boys gathered in the opera house for the purpose of discussing Sunday closing. This theme has received considerable attention from the pulpits of the city during the past three or four weeks and as a consequence it was determined to attempt to close the business houses on Sunday.

The president of the ministerial alliance, Rev. Meninger, was chairman of the meeting. He stated that the meeting was called for the purpose of getting a frank opinion from the people of this city on this subject. He addressed the audience for nearly 20 minutes and then gave way for five minute talks from the people who were present. There was either a lack of enthusiasm or a reluctance to talk before the crowd, on the part of the orators of the city and it was some time before the speeches commenced. At last Rev. Denton broke the ice and made a short and interesting talk. He was followed by Rev. B. Stone, who had been invited to attend. The Rev. Mr. Stone, Dr. Wallace, Mrs. C. A. Nelson, Dr. Rowland, J. E. Mages, J. J. Colard and E. C. Walker. Prof. Northrup then offered a resolution requesting the business men to close and calling for a committee of three to call upon the business men and receive their signatures. The resolution was placed before the house and was discussed, some of the business men making remarks of the meeting being made at this point by Rev. Hunsaker, J. E. Mages and J. H. Henderson.

Just before the motion to adopt was put, J. H. Henderson stated that he was a business man of the city and had been one for eight years past and that the people knew to what extent he had attempted to obey the laws of God and man without any statement from him. His store had been open on Sunday to accommodate his customers at various times, and that three out of every five who requested him to open on Sunday in the eight years had been of the Christian element of the city. He moved to amend the resolution by inserting a sentence to the effect that the Christian element would pledge themselves to refrain from requesting the business men to open their places on Sunday. This was seconded by Rev. Bonham, and here the chair got mixed up and had it not been for some old political caucus war-horses in the meeting the snarl would still be unraveled. Rev. Denton suggested that the sentence desired by Mr. Henderson be incorporated in the original resolution and after some parley the chair declared that as the motion of Mr. Henderson to amend had not been seconded the original motion to adopt was before the house, and it was put and carried by a standing vote.

The resolution carried with it the closing of the drug stores and the persons who had not voted for the resolution explained their vote. The chair was bothered, and some understanding that the suggestion of Rev. Denton to insert the amendment of Mr. Henderson had been carried without a vote upon it, the vote was reconsidered and the resolution of Prof. Northrup was adopted without amendment of any kind. The chair requested time to appoint the committee to solicit the signatures of business men, stating that he would have the committee in the field by Saturday of this week. Time was given and it was moved and carried that the result of the committee be reported to the pulpits of the several churches on the coming Sunday, and that it also be published in the papers of the city. The meeting then adjourned.

With but few exceptions the speeches censured the business men for keeping open. The fact of the matter is as stated by Mr. Henderson: the majority who demand accommodation from the business men on Sunday are church-going, and to all outside appearances are Christians. We do not mean that this class is the whole cause of Sunday opening, but that they constitute the majority is evidenced by the observations of conservative and honest business men.

We hardly think that a majority of the business men will sign the resolution, from the fact that they think that the reform should begin at home, judging from their statements at the meeting and their inability to get their side of the question represented in the resolution. We will venture the statement that there is not one business man in the city, saloon men not excepted, that would not rather close his place of business on Sunday than to keep it open. The demand of the people is the cause of it, and we are of the opinion that if the teachings of the Bible were better expounded; if the creeds of the various denominations were in closer touch with their members; if the church-going classes of this country were actual Christians in thought and deed; if the necessities, the trials and the temptations of the other class were recognized and an attempt made to better its condition by pure Christian love, that all shams and hypocritical thoughts arising from the Christian and unchristian element the two classes would assimilate and there would be but one congregation of good, pure thinking people in all this broad land. Such a time is coming and until it comes let us allow for the necessities of the other one and not condemn because they do not happen to be surrounded by the same conditions as are the Christians. The actual conditions are in this community is very small and is growing less and less, and citizens who are attempting to accommodate their fellow creatures, to do good as they see it, is not conducive to good morals or a Christian spirit.

Dr. Laughery and wife, of Seattle, are visiting relatives in the city. Ed Baker came home on a visit Saturday last, returning to Portland on Monday morning. W. T. Booth is building a new sidewalk around his property on the corner of Fourth and C streets.

The contract for the school house at North Yamhill were not let Friday because the bids were not within the limit of $4000. F. H. Morrison, the architect of the building bid $4675; H. C. Bertram, $5000; Webb Bros., $5545; W. C. Arthur, $4890; C. R. Cook & Son, $4950. Morrison in his bid put the plans in free, making the lowest bid. The plans will be cut down and bids will be advertised for again.

CROP-WEATHER BULLETIN.

For the Week Ending Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1893.—U. S. Signal Service.

A remarkably warm wave passed over during the first part of the week. August 31st was the warmest day of the year, the temperature reaching 96 degrees in many places. The latter part of the week was decidedly cooler. The mean temperature ranged from 58 degrees at places on the immediate coast to 66 degrees at inland places. The atmosphere was smoky, due to numerous forest fires. The smoke was particularly dense in the Willamette and Rogue river valleys. Fallingshades became objectionable to pedestrians on the streets of Portland, where the deposit was sufficiently thick to attract attention. There was about the average amount of sunshine and no rain occurred.

Harvest is nearing completion, being principally confined to late sown spring wheat and oats. Early sown spring wheat was a good crop, more than realizing expectations, while late sown spring grain was practically a failure. The grain failed to mature and many oat crops were cut for hay. The second crop of clover was light.

The hop crop is demanding the attention of the public. Preparations are being made for picking and securing large yields. From the first propitious weather which predominated resulted in securing to the hopgrower an excellent stand. Now the vines are laden with buds of good average size and excellent quality. Picking will commence in some sections on the 7th of September. The warm, dry weather of the past week caused the lice to multiply, especially on bottom lands, where the vines are green. The crop is so far advanced toward maturity that there is little fear of any material injury being done by the insects, should the weather be sufficiently warm to assist them in increasing.

Fruit is plentiful in market. Plums and pears are of excellent quality. Much fruit is being shipped to eastern markets. Apples are plentiful, but inferior, being injured by the codling moth. Peaches are plentiful in the southern and interior counties. The crop in northern counties suffered from cur-leaf and in some sections was an entire failure. Some fine specimens of vegetables are being shipped to market. Vegetables are plentiful for home consumption. Potatoes will average well; the crop has suffered from drought. More rain would have matured an enormous crop. Corn continues green, with good growth; the ears are not maturing. More rain is necessary to make an average crop in all sections, except in the southern counties of Josephine and Jackson, where the essential climatic condition is warm nights.

EASTERN ONION.

No rain fell during the past week, the temperature was decidedly warmer during the first days, and became much cooler during the close of the week. Many mountain fires cause the atmosphere to be smoky. The sunshine was about average.

Harvest is nearly over and threshing is far advanced in the Columbia river valley. Spring sown grain is yielding below the average, as was expected. Late sown spring grain is a poor crop, yielding from 12 to 16 bushels per acre. All fall sown grain has been threshed and the yields were most satisfactory, also the quality of grain is superior. The second crop of alfalfa is being cut. It is a light crop. Farmers will enter the winter season well supplied with hay, as the first crops were large and cared well. Hot, dry winds, which occurred on Sept. 1st injured fruit and crops. Fruits are ripening rapidly. Peaches are not plentiful but of good quality. Plums are of excellent quality and abundant. Owing to depressed times, there is no sale for produce of any kind. With increased acreage, as much wheat was grown this year as in 1892. A comparison of depot receipts show that the amount of wheat shipped equals not more than one-third the amount received at this date in 1892.

THE CHINESE WENT.

A Round-up of Mongolian Hop-pickers at Butteville.

The Oregonian of Tuesday contained the following account of the eviction of Chinese from the hop yards near Butteville:

Early yesterday morning 56 Chinese hop-pickers were evicted from their houses by 75 white men, escorted to the nearest dock and shipped to Portland on the steamer Toledo, arriving here late in the afternoon. The eviction was made by unemployed white men, who had been sent to the hop-fields by employment agents with the assurance that they would readily obtain work, and who arrived there only to find that all the yards had been supplied with Chinamen under contract with the growers. Many of the whites had families to support, and being without funds and no prospects of work, they drove the Chinamen from the town in the hope of securing their places.

Butteville is a small town in Marion county about 25 miles from Portland. It has a population of 175, and is one of the oldest towns in the state. Usually it is a very old place, but all was activity about 5 o'clock yesterday morning. There was a gathering of unemployed men at that hour, but not until two hours later was the purpose of the meeting and the intention of the participants made known. When it was understood the Chinese were to be evicted, 75 determined looking men formed in line and started for the hop-fields, there was great excitement in the little town. A number of inhabitants turned out but did not offer to stop the men.

The evictors were under the leadership of a young man, apparently not over 25 years of age, with singularly resolute features. The men started for the hop-fields in a body and met very few who offered any resistance. They were at the house of Mr. Eilers, of the Hopgrowers' association. He was not at home, but Mrs. Eilers, who answered the knock, received the men very kindly. In response to an inquiry by the leader, she replied that Chinamen were employed in the fields. Then the leader said: "We have not come to make trouble, but to get work. Our families are in the city and we need bread, and we must have employment." Mrs. Eilers replied that as far as work was concerned, she would pledge her word that the six Chinese on the fields would be returned to Portland at once, and the 100 or more engaged by Mr. Eilers and on the way to Butteville would be stopped at Boone's ferry and sent back to the city. Mr. Eilers came home soon afterwards and carried out his wife's promise.

The army then moved on to Beck's hopfields, three and a half miles west of Butteville. The same demand was made and was refused by Mr. Beck on the ground that he had written contracts with the Celestials and could not discharge them without losing a large sum of money. "If you cannot," was the firm reply of the leader, "Mr. Beck was politely told to step aside and then the men began searching for the Chinese. Rumors of a riot had been floating about Butteville for a day or two, and on the first appearance of the men the Chinese had scurried away to places of safety. Some sought refuge in the fields, some under hog-pens, some in hay stacks, but all were rounded up in the mile of the road. They were greatly frightened, but were given to understand that they would not be harmed, overcome their fears of their captors, and chattered pleasantly with them in broken English. There were 40 in the gang, and they were marched back to Eilers's, where the other six were taken into custody. Then all were taken to the dock and placed under a guard. The whites then returned to Beck's neighborhood and visited a hopfield and notified the 29 Chinamen employed there to pack up and prepare to leave. This they did quietly, and they were then escorted to the dock and placed with their countrymen.

The eviction was conducted in a very orderly manner, and all was over by one o'clock. There was no sign of violence until the preparations were made to put the Chinamen on the boat. When the Toledo arrived at the dock, the crowd, which then numbered 400, ordered the Captain to take the Celestials to Portland or anywhere else out of the city. He refused and was then told that there would be bloodshed if they remained in Butteville. The captain was determined not to receive them on board, and then someone shoved a Chinaman overboard. He fell into the water and was not hurt. Another one was pushed off and also fell into the water. Someone in the crowd shoved a third one off the dock, but he was not so fortunate as his companions, for he fell into the river and got a drowning. Then the captain saw that if he did not take the Chinamen on board there would be bloodshed, and accordingly brought them on board and put them in the hold.

The evictors, although a surprise to many, had been threatened for several days. Its first outbreak was the blowing up of two houses, owned by Chinamen, on Sunday night. The whites claim they took no hand in this, and called it an outrage. The immediate cause of the eviction was, of course, the fact that the white men could get no work. Messrs. Cone and Eilers, of the Hopgrowers' Association, who were appointed a committee to secure the necessary help, advertised for help and secured all the laborers they needed some time ago. Notwithstanding this, employment agents have dumped 400 whites, men, women and children, into the fields. None of these have been able to secure work, and they are absolutely in need of bread. They are apparently respectable people, were forced to the hopyards by the scarcity of work in other lines. It seems that some of them had applied to Messrs. Cone and Eilers for work and were told that white help had already been engaged.
