College Notes.

Three new students this week, Messrs. Cook and Withem, of Portland and Miss Harris, of Amity. Prof. Brownson attended a board meeting in Portland one day of last week. Miss Mattie Walton, of class of '93 will soon sail for Japan, she being the second female foreign missionary to emerge from McMinnville college walls.

Rev. George Hill, recent pastor of Albany Baptist church and a former student of McMinnville college, delivered a lecture on "China" last Saturday. He also preached Sunday. The president informs us that we are henceforth to have ample grounds for field sports.

The students were started when the professor announced that the Friday night entertainments would be resumed, and then unceremoniously read the program for the first one, Nov. 17th. There will be a debate, "scrap basket," oration, etc.

There will be a state oratorical contest held at Eugene the last Friday in February, 1894, and each college of the state is expected to send her best orators there to contend for the supremacy of the state in oratory. McMinnville students are preparing for the local contest which will be held the first Friday of February in the college chapel. It is to be hoped that these contents may result in the best exhibition of student oratory ever known in McMinnville and that it may be the means of drawing the colleges of the state into closer relations.

The Philergian has held a number of splendid meetings. There are some new students who have not yet joined. There are no students who can afford to go to college and not grasp the opportunity of learning to express their thoughts to others and in public. This society offers literary and parliamentary practices which cannot be acquired from books or any other society in the college. The society meets Saturday evening. Get all students to come with an intention to join. All interested in such work are welcome. Following is the program: Music, society; address, Lou Lynch; recitation, Mr. Blood; reading, Will Scott; quartet, essay, May Millon; college newspaper, Alderman, editor; music society; debate, Resolved, that Fairs are a poor expenditure of capital and labor; Aft. Wood and Fellows; Neg. Loder and Latourette.

On November 16th, 17th and 18th Wash Norton's Merry-makers will appear at Garrick's opera house. They have been in Corvallis and the papers of that city give their good notices. A first class company will be well patronized in this city, but slides should be clear of the town. What we want is a first class comedy or dramatic company and if the Merry-makers fill the bill they will receive a good house.

Several gentlemen from the east, friends of W. A. Howe, arrived in Carlton the other day. They came to the coast expressly for shooting and ship all their ammunition by express thinking Oregon was a wilderness. The expense on their shells cost them $80 and the difference in cost between the east and west amounts to but $200 thousand. They intend to take in all the good hunting grounds from British Columbia to Mexico before returning.

The latest railroad news is that the Union Pacific will be an active bidder for the Oregon Pacific on Dec. 14th. Some of its leases are about to run out so that it needs a line to the coast. Should this prove true and the U. P. be to secure the road it would mean the extension of the O. P. to Huntington at once. It is doubted if any road would do more for the valley by the purchase of this valuable property than the Union Pacific.—Albany Democrat.

The steamer Toledo arrived here about 1 o'clock yesterday morning and found that the warehouse was not completed so far as the means for removing freight from the boat was concerned. Over 200 sacks of wheat were loaded and she left at six o'clock for Portland. The McMinnville freight was taken to Dayton and it will be hauled from there by dray. The Toledo will be here tonight and it is expected that everything will be in readiness to remove freight. A dray company will haul the freight car up the inclined way.

The entertainment given at the opera house last evening by Wash Norton and company, of the Merry-makers, was more than worth the price of admission and was deserving of a much larger audience. No doubt, however, the opera house will be well filled to night, as it should be, the price of admission only being 10 and 20 cents. Everybody should turn out. We think Mr. Norton has acted very wisely in reducing the price of admission on account of hard times. They will perform tonight and tomorrow night with change of program.—Corvallis News.

This company will be here Nov. 16, 17, 18. General admission 15 cents; reserved seats 25 cents.

Seventy-Five Convulsions—A Thrilling Experience. There is no one but at some period in life has an experience that stands out prominently beyond all others. Such is the case of John B. Collins, of Romeo, Michigan, who says: "From September to January, before using Nelson's Pills, I had at least twenty-five convulsions. After three months use I have no more attacks." Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine also cures nervous prostration, headache, poor memory, dizziness, sleeplessness, neuralgia etc., and builds up the body. Mrs. J. R. Miller, of Valparaiso, Ind., and J. R. Taylor, of Logansport, Ind., each gained 20 pounds of flesh by taking it. Sold by Rogers Bros. on a guarantee. Get the Doctor's Book, free.

The City Election. The city election on Monday was very quiet and with the exception of several wordy battles between old time citizens nothing of importance transpired. Three tickets were in the field. The "Regular City Ticket" contained the names of the men nominated at the caucus, the "City Ticket" the same names excepting E. C. Walker was added in place of Henry Gee; the "Citizens Ticket" bore the names of W. M. Ramsey, mayor; E. C. Walker, M. Root and Sausky, recorder; C. E. Loux, marshal. The "City Ticket" was elected. 264 votes were cast for W. M. Ramsey, 2 for Rev. Denton; the councilmen receiving the following votes: Gee 125, Christian 182, Wilson, 259, E. C. Walker, 152, L. Root, 77, Eslinger, 1, for recorder Vinton received 263, Peter Head, Rev. Bonham, 1; for marshal, Neal received 177, Loux 91.

TWO THANKSGIVING DAYS.

The President of the United States and our Governor Disagree. The alwise and almighty Penoyer has again given cause for his name to appear in the public prints. He is wrong and he is right in designating the day, but the garbage in his proclamation should be removed. The thing reads as follows:

"I do hereby appoint the fourth Thursday of the present month as a day of Thanksgiving to Almighty God for the blessings He has bestowed upon this commonwealth during the present year. God has indeed been most beneficent to our state and nation, and yet unjust and ill-advised congressional legislation, having made gold alone full legal tender money, has so dwarfed and paralyzed business that the bounties of Providence are now denied to hundreds of thousands of people within the national domain, who are not only without employment, but are also without the means of procuring food, raiment or shelter. While, therefore, the people of Oregon return thanks to God for His goodness, I do most earnestly recommend that they should devoutly implore him to dispose the president and the congress of the United States to secure the restoration of silver as full legal tender money, in accordance with the policy of the fathers of the republic, whereby our industries may be revived, and the honest toilers of the land may procure their daily bread, not as alms, but as the reward of their labor."

In marked contrast to the proclamation of Oregon's cranky governor is the following beautifully worded proclamation of President Cleveland, which it is safe to predict is the only one that will be read on Thanksgiving, which everybody will observe on the date named in it.

"While the American people should every day remember with praise and thanksgiving the divine goodness and mercy, which have followed them since their beginning as a nation, it is fitting that one day in each year should be especially devoted to a contemplation of the blessings we have received from the hand of God and to a grateful acknowledgment of His loving kindness; therefore, I, Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the 30th day of the present month of November, as a day of thanksgiving and praise, to be kept and observed by all people in our land. On that day let us forego our ordinary work and employments and assemble in our usual places of worship where we may recall all that God has done for us, and where from grateful hearts our united tribute of praise and song may reach the throne of God, and the nation of kindred and social meeting of friends lend cheer and enjoyment to duty, and let generous gifts of charity for the relief of the poor and needy prove the sincerity of our thanksgiving."

Governor Penoyer, referring to the Thanksgiving proclamation, said to a Statesman reporter: "Of course I expect that religious services will be held on the day appointed by the president, and what few of the Oregon commission will do on that day will be their own expense." The Washington executive commissioner went ostentatiously at a salary of $300 per month and room rent while there. "The secretary, with natural newspaper modesty, never had anything to say about himself." He was far different from our "press agent."

"The superintendents from Oregon worked hard and the people of the state helped them out nobly." Our superintendents spent their main strength in drawing $300 a month and put in the balance of the time quarreling with each other, while the people were requested to keep their hands off and their noses out. "The Webfoot Lads denied themselves their own corsets and waists for advertising purposes. What tears they had to shed they wiped away in secret, and if they called each other names they did not give them out for publication." The Washington ladies—well, the majority of our lady managers did not do these things. This is the contrast. Our wonderful state with her wonderful people and wonderful resources can now see how it might have been done and what the reward would have been. But the hour of grace has passed and we are still devoutly nursing our four leather medals for coking coal, tan bark, one large tree and an incompetent board of commissioners.—Olympian Tribune.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Lighthouse. Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are the keepers of the government lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain; she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones."—Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you can get a trial bottle free at Rogers Bros. drugstore.

Preparing for the Judgment Day. The disciples of Mrs. Williams in Portland think there is to be an ascension soon, whereby all the people are going to be carried up into heaven. Her followers, located in various parts of the city, are daily working on their new white robes, which are made something like a Mother Hubbard with wing attachments. Their slippers are also made of white material, and the head is presumably to take care of it, as there is no headgear being prepared. Mrs. Williams' followers all say that she has positive knowledge and indisputable proof of the hour of ascension, and they look with pity and compassion upon the thousands who have neglected to become one of them, and consequently will be left behind. One of their disciples said that their bodies, that is, those of members of the ordinary humanity; that after their customary "fast" their bodies had undergone a complete change and were composed now of far better, purer and more holy material. The disciple further stated that this ascension had long been anticipated, that they were prepared for it, and that their set would just as surely go up bodily at the proper time as the sun would shine. It is said these people have even chartered certain street cars in order to go out to the heights and obtain a good start.

Something About the Weir Gang. McMINNVILLE, OR., Oct. 20, 1893. UNION HARDWARE CO., McMINNVILLE, OR.; I can safely say without fear of contradiction that their Weir gang plow is a dandy. It is ahead of anything in the plow line I ever saw. It gives plenty of room for four horses to work abreast without side draft. I am working it by the side of another gang of ordinary principles, and it runs fully one-fourth lighter. Four horses handle it easier than three will with a 14-in. walking plow. G. J. SHADEN.

Special Order. The demand for the Vose & Sons piano is so great that the piano ordered by J. W. Hobbs of this city, will have to be shipped direct from the factory in Boston. Vose & Sons received the highest award at the World's fair, medal and diploma. If you want to buy a piano, buy one of this celebrated make from E. Long, agent.

A Testimonial. Dr. G. S. Wright's painless method of extracting teeth is a blessing to suffering humanity. SOMETHING OF A CONTRAST.

The Oregon and Washington World's Fair Commissioners Compared. There is a great difference in the way of doing things. There is also a great difference in the results that flow from the different ways of transacting matters. This state proceeded in one manner to accomplish great results at the world's fair. Our sister state, south, proceeded in an entirely different manner. She appropriated $200,000 and appointed a commission of thirty-four "statesmen" to expend it. This commission of statesmen got together and farmed out the job to nine of the more prominent statesmen belonging to the commission. These nine statesmen then subdivided themselves into department managers and a "press agent."

It is not necessary to rehearse the history of the way the appropriation has been spent, or the way the affair has been managed. It is well known. The money is all gone, and so far as we are able to learn at this writing, the state has little to show for it. Benefits will undoubtedly follow in the future from the exhibit the state had at Chicago. If we had not that hope to rely upon we would indeed be unfortunate. But there is no assurance that this state will receive any more benefits in the future than our sister state of Oregon. The contrast between our expenditure and hers and the apparent results attained by the two states are so marked in favor of the webfoot commonwealth that the sensitive Washingtonian can almost regret that there ever was a world's fair.

The Oregon world's fair commission goes into winter quarters with about $25,000 of its $60,000 appropriation left over. This appropriation it will be remembered, was the session of the legislature held last winter and in order to get it it was necessary to pass the bill over the executive veto. The appropriation was available only about three months before the opening of the fair. And yet, says the Oregonian, with this small outlay of money and limited amount of time the wonderful resources of Oregon have been made a household word to the ends of the earth. About everything in Oregon that came to the attention of the world having in the way of awards come to Oregon.

It is rather tough to have to admit it, but until we have further information on the subject that has been given out, there is nothing we can do but assent to the claim of our southern neighbor. Oregon has a list of awards a half column in length, while a search-warrant could not trace more than a half column to the state of Washington, and they are for things so in comparably small to be worth a double headline mention in a monthly paper.

It may be a matter of interest to know how so much was accomplished by Oregon without even a state building. Referring again to our Portland contemporary, we find that they "did it modestly." Washington did not do it that way. "Nobody put himself forward." But in the Washington contemporary everybody did. "The president of the Oregon commission was the fair quietly at his own expense." The Washington executive commissioner went ostentatiously at a salary of $300 per month and room rent while there. "The secretary, with natural newspaper modesty, never had anything to say about himself." He was far different from our "press agent."

"The superintendents from Oregon worked hard and the people of the state helped them out nobly." Our superintendents spent their main strength in drawing $300 a month and put in the balance of the time quarreling with each other, while the people were requested to keep their hands off and their noses out. "The Webfoot Lads denied themselves their own corsets and waists for advertising purposes. What tears they had to shed they wiped away in secret, and if they called each other names they did not give them out for publication." The Washington ladies—well, the majority of our lady managers did not do these things. This is the contrast. Our wonderful state with her wonderful people and wonderful resources can now see how it might have been done and what the reward would have been. But the hour of grace has passed and we are still devoutly nursing our four leather medals for coking coal, tan bark, one large tree and an incompetent board of commissioners.—Olympian Tribune.
