fire was first discovered by the engineer about ten o'clock in the evening and as soon as it was found that it could not be controlled, the captain headed the steamer for land, but in a short time the ropes leading to the rudder were burned off so that it became impossible to steer the ship. In the confusion two of the ship's boats were lost, and before the passengers could be taken ashore the fire drove them in to the water, so that only about half the lives were saved.

McMinnville, March 7th 1883. EDITORS OF THE REPORTER.-Sirs LOITORS OF THE REPORTER.—Sirs: I see a communication over the signature of "Q. Riosity," dated April 25th, 1883, and published in your paper of May 3rd, 1883, which calls from me the following, which you will please publish in the REPORTER. Now, Mr. Editor, I dislike very much to have any newspaper controversy and Editor, I dislike very much to have any newspaper controversy, and more particularly when I am compelled to answer a party who writes over a fictitious name. Mr. "Q. Riosity," give us your name and let the community know what your standing is, and what you pay towards keeping the wheels of the county government in motion, and what your standing is for morality.—There are always two things which teachers or preachers who lecture others should closely observe—1st, be sare and tell the truth, and 2nd, give the party you attempt to lecture or teach, party you attempt to lecture or teach, the use of your true name. Now hear what "Q. Riosity" has to say:

what "Q. Riosity" has to say:

While at Lamyette one day, I heard some complaint about the way taxes were kept is high, and as it was just after the district cours had adjourned, the cost of litigation was cited as a large and never failing expense. Of the many items spoken of one from this town, "State ys. Eccleston," was dwelt upon as being something enormous. Feeling curious about the matter, I procured the figures as follows:

State ys. H. Foolessor.

State vs H. Eccleston...
State vs J. C. Patterson.
State vs S. A. Young...
Stute vs E. Eccleston...
State vs J, Dorris...

Total ... Now "Q.Riosity," I will state for your benefit as a teacher, over my own signature, for which I hold myself responsible, that you are mistaken as to the above statement or you have willfully stated a falsehood, as the costs in the above cases, before the J. P., did not exceed $246.17, but that kind of an error is small fora fictitious scribler. Now, Mr. Editor, hear him further.

Now, Mr. Editor, hear him further:
It must be said, in explanation, that the last four cases all grew out of the first one, and that all were only preliminary examinations before a Justice of the Peuce; that all were bound over and that the Grand Jury dismissed all but the first. To the expense before the J. P., $280.75, add costs of witnesses before the Grand Jury, $84, and we have a total of $224.75,
and apparently four-difths for nothing at all,
so far as the public good is concerned.

My carlosity led me further to enquire how nucle of this went to the justice, and found har $50.30, or nearly one-third of the whole cent to that officer.

"England's navy is improving!"
Shouts an exultant exchange in flaming head lines. Good. But we were that there is no great fortune in it, and further, when you take into account the necessary expenses that have to be paid by the Justice in conducting cases, you will find that "Q. Riosity" has missed the mark. He continues by saying:

We see from the gase referred to lake that

We see from the case referred to I take that because it is prominent; that just four-fifths of the whole was accounted as worthies by the frand Jury, and we must suppose that they new what they were doing.

Mr. Editor, allow me to make a fev statements in regard to the above. We will first refer to the H. Eccleston case out the wheat; though the crop will not be large, it will be equal to that of last year."

Henry Villard made a lengthy and plain talk to the citizens of Portland, one day last week, in which he told the capitalists of that city that it was about time they were doing something.

Will first refer to the II. Eccleston case: the Grand Jury did find a bill in that the finding of the knowing ones say that the finding of that bill by the Grand Jury was a farce, as there is no show for conviction. When that assertion is proven then it will be time for the abuse of the Grand Jury. Next Mr. Editor, we will call your attention to the cases of Patterson and Dorris.—Now, Patterson does not deny trying to get witnesses to not appear and swear for themselves instead of waiting for some one else to make the points whereby their coffers were filled.

He swore that he was worth $860.00 above all just debts and liabilities and property exempt from execution, when in fact he had no property assessed to him and paid no taxes for 1882 nor did he give in any property to the sheriff, though called upon several times by that officer to do so, and has left here without either paying tax for 1882 or giving in any property. tax for 1882 or giving in any property Now, Mr. "Q. Riosity" don't you think it would have been a good plan for the Doctor to have paid the county at least $15.00 charter and the county at least at least 10 or 12 men? It will take six men a long time to work out that liberal appropriation the Legislature made at its last session.—Statesman.

We stand in with you on that, neighbor. No use of throwing all the burden on half a dozen poor men.

The Portland Standard has recently been enlarged, and, presenting as it does a full budget of telegraphic news each day, it now stands in the front rank of metropolitan journalism. All I have to say in regard to the above is that it is notoriously false.— But hear the balance of "Q. Riosity's"

In the name of economy let us have no mor of this recklessness, under the cloak of justics Every officer ought to be as much a guardia of the public purse as he is supposed to be a the public peace—as much opposed to the squandering of money as in favor of the sup-pression of crime.
