A PECULIAR PEOPLE.

Queer Ways of Living on the Hatteras Banks Hogs and Cattle.

(From the Raisigh News and Observer.)
The people of this region are of an amphibious nature, and live so much on and in the water that most of them, I am sure, are web-footed. They live mainly on fish, clams, oysters, crabs, terrapins and wild fowl. When they leave home they go in a boat, and whether they go to court or go courting, or to trade, or to the mill, or to a funeral, they always go by sail. Their corn-mills are run by sails, and some of them pump their water with windmills. They don't go up stairs, but "go aloft," and when they go to bed they "turn in;" when they are ill they are "under the weather," and when in robust health they say they are "hung up and bilge free." They and when in robust hearth they say they are "bung up and bilge free," They speak of a trim-built sweetheart as "clipper built." If she is a little stout they say she is "broad in the beam," or "wide across the transom, Many of them have ships' cabin doors in their houses, that slide on grooves, and to their buildings they give a coating of tar instead of painting them. The "old woman" blows a conch-shell when dinner is ready, and they measure time by Their babies are not rocked in cradles, but swung in hammocks. They chew black pig-tail tobacco and drink a wild tea called "Yeopon." They manure their land with sea-grass and bury their yam potatoes in the saud hills. When they want a doctor they hang a red flag against a hiliside as signal of distress. If he don't come, because the "wind ain't fair," they take a dram of whisky and copperas, soak their feet in sea water, "turn in," and trust to luck. If they die they will be buried on the top of a sand ridge, and when-you see several sail boats on the water in procession, with a flog at half mast, you are looking at a funeral.

They ornament their houses with whales' ribs and jaws, sharks' teeth, swordfish snouts, devilfish arms, sawfish swords (six feet long), miniature ships, camphor-wood chests, Honduras gourds. spy-glasses, South American lariats, war clubs from the Mozambique islands. Turkish pipes, West Iudia shells, san dal-wood boxes, Chinese chessmen. Japanese faces, Madagasear idols, Ans tralian boomerangs and other strange, outlandish things. Their hogs are raised on clams, mussels, offal of fish and garbage, and their cattle wade out on the shoals for miles, where the water covers their backs, to feed on sea grass. and if they are carried up-country and fed on corn and fodder they will not

Every man is Captain of some kind of a boat, and "she" is always better than any other boat in some way. "She is hard to beat in a gale of wind," or "before the wind," or "boating to windward," or "with the wind on the beam," or "she can sail closer to the wind," or "will carry sail longest," or "hard to beat in a light wind," or "totes more stock," or is "stronger," or "dryer," or "bigger," or "she is a big little boat," or "draws the least water," or "total less hellest," or "total less hel boat," or "draws the least water," or "needs less ballast," or "she is the newest," or "has the best timbers," or "steers the best," or "she is a lucky boat," or "stands up better," or "needs less sail than any other boat," or "she is best for fishing," etc. Perhaps "she comes about better than any other boat." She is bound to have something about her better than anybody else's boat.

Accuracy.

Every boy and girl should determine to be accurate. In studying lessons be sure to get the exact meaning; in talking, state the truth of the thing; in working do everything just right. I have lately heard oy two boys who worked in the same store. They were named John and James. Their duties were alike, and they were required to be at the store at half-past 7 in the morning. John was always there on the minute, or a few minutes before th time: James came the same number of minutes after. When John arranged the goods in the window they were ac-curately marked and priced; James forgot to put the number on or priced them incorrectly.

These are only two of the things which marked the distinction between the two boys. But every day and week they grew further apart, John doing the work accurately, and therefore well. James slighting all be conveniently could. John was promoted for carefulness in his duties. James was warned to alter his manner and finally discharged. The accurate boy grew to be a wealthy, self-made man. Men liked to deal with him. James tried several positions, but loss them on account of his inaccuracy is little details, and, though he gets through the world somehow, he has not the har piness and success which with the same opportunities John achieved.

There are many things that tend to make a noble character. Place accuracy high in the list. - School Journal,

The Hammock. When children only are to use the hammock, the manner of hanging it is not very in portant, but if provided for the use of grown persons it should be so a saidered higher than the feet, and depends upon a proper observance of tius ract, if you have no more suitable place, suspend it f om the columns of a the head end should be six and onei arth feet from the floor, that at foot end tures and turee-fourths feet; and these proportions should be observed whereever it may be hung, to secure the most desirable curve for the ease of the occupairt. Another point to be observed : The near should be fastened to the hook by a rope less than a foot long—just enough to a tach it—while at the foot the rope should be four and a half feet long. This gives the greatest freedom for swinging the lower part of the body, while the load moves but little. This is a point which cannot be observed in a hamas a swing than a place for comfortable repose. When trees serve for supports, amples provision should be made to prevent mury to the bark by means of stont canvas or heavy bagging between the ropes to which it is suspenaced and the bark. If the hanging be so arrenged that the hammock car be taken in during long storms, it will last much longer.

A Brutal King.

The King is rapidly growing mad. He cuts off the noses of those who take snuff, and the lips of those who smoke. The other day a man went to salute Ras Aloula. In saluting him his tobacco box dropped out. Ras Aloula struck him with his sword, and his people finished him. The King is hated more than Theodore was. Cruel to a degree, he does not, however, take life. He cuts off the feet and hards of people who of-fend him. He puts out their eyes by pouring hot tallow into their ears. Several persons came to me to tell me this. I remonstrated with the King against his edict forcing men to become Chris-tian from Mussulman. He said they wished it. I also remonstrated about the tobacco edict, but it was of no use. No one can travel without the King's order, if he is a foreigner. You can buy actlung without the King's order; no me will shifter you without his order n fact no more complete despotism ould exist. It cannot last, for the sing will go on from one madness to mother. Orders were given that no me was to approach me; nor was I to peak to any. The officer who con-meted me to the bing, the second in ommand to Atoula, met his uncle ad cousin in chains, and dust not ask why they were chained. The King is a aan of son e 45 years, a sour, ill-favored ocking being. He never looks you in the tace, but when you look away he tares at you like a tiger. He never nites; his look, always changing, is on i thorough suspicion. Hated and hat ig ail, I can imagine no more unhappy an. Avaricious above all his people no do not lack his quality, his idea of cee part is that steamers will arrive from ne powers of Europe with presents for hett r with the lion seal, saying: "You re my brother, my mother, etc. How re you?" * * * You know I have en many peoples, but I have never met ith a more flerce, savage set than these. he peasantry are good enough. The out Russia. All the great men do ing fears it when sober, for he drinks excess at night. He talks like the driestament. He is of the strictest et of the Pharisees—drunk over night, dawn he is up reading the Pselms, te never would miss a prayer-meeting, ad would have a Bible as big as a port ant-au if he were in England. omea are allowed within 300 yards as palace—his hut, I should say. He as one legitimate son—Ras Arya Salam -and one itlegitimate. Two sons of heodore are with him.—From Gor-ion's Book on "Central Africa."

Does Honesty Pay?

"Does it, after all, pay to be honest?" deappointed young man writes. No, ocause you think it will pay; not if you re honest only because you are afraid o be a rogue; indeed, my dear boy, it lees not pay to be honest that way. It you can't be honest because you hate a ie and scorn a mean action, if you can't be honest from principle, be a rascal that's what you are intended for, and you'll probably succeed at it. But you can't make anybody believe in honesty that is bought and sold like merchanlise. - Burlington Hawk-Eye.
