The Woodmen of Newberg will formally unveil a monument over the grave of L. G. Hill, who recently died at that place. The unveiling will probably occur some Sunday after the rush of the harvest season is over, the date not yet being agreed upon. The ceremony will be in charge of McMinnville camp, and President Hawley of Willamette university will be the orator.

A civil suit brought up from Dayton was tried before Judge Magers on Monday. Lenora Plummer sued W. N. Crites on a note given by the latter to Plummer & Ager in Nebraska. Crites claimed that he had paid the note to Ager in Nebraska, who had sent the note to Plummer for collection. The jury decided the note hadn't been paid and gave a verdict accordingly. Attorney Hume appeared for plaintiff and Attorney Flower for defendant.

Judge Galloway and W. L. Warren will go to Salem next week to look after projects connected with the coming state fair. The determination to make a county exhibit is still strong with the citizens of McMinnville and most of the surrounding towns and country districts, and a pull all together they feel confident will secure the prize. At this busy season in the country it is believed many are holding exhibits which they will bring in later, or are awaiting the full maturity of creditable products. Keep up the enthusiasm!

On Friday, the 23rd inst., Mr. Lorenzo B. Harris, a brother of our townsman, Capt. Wyatt Harris, arrived in this city on a visit to his brother, whom he had not seen for thirty-seven years. Mr. Harris now resides in the Judith Basin, Montana, where he is engaged in the cattle business. Mr. H. has been on the Pacific Slope and Rocky mountain regions for the last forty years, engaged sometimes in mining enterprises, and sometimes trading with the Indians in the northern British territories for furs, robes, etc. In 1875 he built a stockade fort in the Rocky mountains, on the waters of the North Saskatchewan, in the British northwest, where he traded with the Indians for a number of years. The destruction of the buffalo herds broke up his trade in those northern regions, and he came down to Montana, and again engaged in mining. The great decline in the price of silver bullion caused him to shut down his mines, since when he has been engaged in raising cattle. Capt. Harris informs us that he had not heard a word from his brother for more than ten years, and had given him up as dead. Mr. Harris was quite sick on Saturday night, but called in Dr. Goucher, under whose treatment he seems to be all right again.

M. O. Lowndale of Lafayette is endeavoring to impress the fruit growers of Yamhill with the importance and need of greater care in the preparation of fruit for market. He is expected in McMinnville to consult with fruit raisers on this subject tomorrow.

Owing to sickness in his family, C. T. Long has moved back to town after about a month's residence on his ranch fourteen miles west. He found on returning that some heartless thief had taken about half of his crop of spring chickens, without even giving him first choice.

D. W. Ralston, the rustling stock-dealer, is back from Eastern Oregon, where he has bought up two trainloads of fat stock, one of cattle and one of sheep, which he will ship to Chicago. Mr. Ralston reports the weather extremely hot and dry and the range suffering badly.

It has been observed that a good many three-year-old Royal Ann cherry trees about town have died this summer, due to fungus growth and waxy exudation. Fruit men say that if a Royal Ann can be brought past the third year it is good for long life. One orchardist has been very successful in dealing with this disease by cutting out all the decayed bark and slitting the green bark for some distance below the cut. The tree then rapidly heals.

A special hydrant will be put in by the city council at the city hall corner, for the use of water wagons supplying fire engines. It was thought that in an emergency of fire these wagons might be found in the way, or the hose used by them might be left upon the hydrant, hence this special hydrant has been ordered as a precaution. The council rightly concludes that no tampering should be done with the fire hydrants, except by the fire companies.

A. Bowman, one of the leading citizens of Newberg, and one who has done probably more than any other man to improve the roads in that quarter, was in the city Wednesday. He is still boasting gravel down the Willamette from Ash Island and furnishing it to the supervisor and others at the river landing at 40 cents a yard. He informed us that about one thousand yards will be laid this summer on roads leading into Newberg on the east and west. Teams get 39 cents a yard for delivering the gravel from the river to the road. The road is constructed well enough for teams to pass and gravel is laid about eight inches deep. He says Newberg is determined to keep everlastingly at it until she has the best roads to be found anywhere in the county. A legislative enactment which Mr. Bowman is in favor of and which he believes is coming in the future, is one placing road construction in the hands of competent engineers, who will construct all highways with respect to a uniform grade.

Dr. Johnson is having a new walk laid in front of his residence.

W. D. McDonald and family returned last week from a vacation at Ilwaco.

F. Dielschneider has had a new picket fence constructed about his residence.

No business was done by the city council on Tuesday evening for lack of a quorum.

The channel at the mouth of the Yamhill river has been dredged and widened the distance of 650 feet. It is now 50 feet wide and over three feet deep, having been dredged out an average depth of 22 inches.

John Evenden and Jim Sharp are becoming expert performers on the mandolin, and with two or three local guitarists make fine music. They should be remembered next winter in giving local entertainments.

Some rules laid down in bicycle etiquette are: The gentleman should ride on the left side of the lady; allow the lady to go first on narrow track; in passing vehicle or bicycle going in same direction go to left after ringing bell.

The Southern Pacific Company have on sale at their general passenger office in Portland, 1000 mill tickets at the rate of three cents per mile. These tickets are limited to one year from date of sale and are good only on lines in Oregon.

One more bicycle race is yet to be run to complete the series of five ten-mile races. G. S. Wright is entitled to the first medal and J. Weisner the second. The time for the last race is not set, and if ever run will be a mere matter of form.

The Wright-Skinner threshing crew were at John Redmond's yesterday, and will go from there to Chas. Kuns'. Mr. Wright says wheat so far threshed by them has averaged about 25 bushels per acre. He thinks the wheat average is less than last year in Yamhill, and that the total product will be less. A good many people seem to differ with him on the last conclusion.

President Newlin, of Pacific college, writing in the Newberg Graphic, says: "I can truly say that in all my journey of almost 3,000 miles, I have seen no country that shows the thrift and crop prospects of the Willamette valley. Through Ohio, Indiana and Illinois the prolonged dry weather has materially cut short the wheat, corn and hay, and they never expect much fruit in these states with any season. Many times since leaving home I have been thankful for Oregon's climate and fertile soil."

The following parties from McMinnville were camped at Meadow lake Wednesday, as reported by Frank Wallace, who is stopping in town this week: Mrs. Wm. Henderson and two sons, Mr. Dielschneider's family, Mrs. Frank Redmond, Mrs. Chas. Holman and daughter, Jeppha Garrison, Dr. A. J. Vial, Jas. Arthur and family and P. K. Smith and family. Besides these are berry pickers from Amity and Newberg. A good many transients visit the lake from Portland, Salem and other points, as they can get away from business for a day or two. Crabbe have greatly multiplied in the lake, and fish are taken in large numbers. A piece of meat tied to a string and lowered into the water often captures from two to four crabs at one withdrawal. A road has been opened to the mill at the foot of the lake, and the frame and machinery of the old Poppleton mill is to be moved up and rebuilt, placing the shingle mill under the same roof. The manufacture of tubs and buckets will then be commenced. A splendid quality of cedar, surpassing that of the Columbia river, will be used. Logs three feet in diameter and heavily loaded with knots, abound here. Mr. Lawrence, who still runs the shingle mill, is turning out about 10,000 shingles a day.

A young fellow giving the name of Stewart arrived in town on Monday morning's train, and going to C. W. Talmage, volunteered the information that he had with him in town the fellow who robbed Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express at Hillsboro on June 29 and August 2, and desired to claim the reward offered for his delivery to the authorities. The man was referred to Sheriff Henderson, to whom he told a different story, saying he could run the robber into Hillsboro in a little time with the proper encouragement. The sheriff recommended that he take the afternoon train, and go to Sheriff Ford at Hillsboro for assistance, requesting Conductor Webster to observe whether the fellow would get off at Hillsboro. Stewart did as directed. Sheriff Ford furnished him two deputies, and together they went to a point between Dilley and Forest Grove. Stewart, who seemed to know where to locate his man, suddenly stopped the deputies and requested that he be allowed to take the handcuffs and secure the robber, as the robber might recognize the deputies and be frightened away. The officers consented and Stewart disappeared, but did not return. After waiting for some time another man appeared on the road, and having a suspicious appearance the deputies resolved to arrest him on general principles. It proved to be the other fellow, and he acknowledged that he was the guilty party, and gave his name as Cartwright. He was taken back to Hillsboro. Sheriff Henderson was informed of the disappearance of Stewart and advised to watch out for him, as Cartwright had accused him of planning the robbery. Sure enough, he drifted back to McMinnville on the evening train, where Sheriff Henderson placed him under arrest, and returned him to Hillsboro to join his pal.

DIVORCED, MARRIED, SUE.

An Arrest at North Yamhill Friday and Progress of the Case Since.

At the term of court last April, C. B. Mann of North Yamhill brought suit for divorce against his wife, Belle Mann, on the ground of desertion, she being at the time in Oakdale, Neb. After decree of divorce was granted, Mann supposed that, as defendant had not answered, there would be no appeal, and that he was privileged to again get married at any time. So the following Sunday, April 21, he was united in wedlock to a Miss Tidd of North Yamhill. Mrs. Mann, the divorced, returning to Oregon and seeing the situation, brought suit against her late husband for marrying before the expiration of the six months fixed by statute as the limit within which to appeal from the decree, claiming that she was sent east on a visit and refused money with which to return, and that Mann was in suit for divorce was not promptly served. Mann was arrested Friday by Sheriff Henderson and the case was tried before Justice Rhodes in this city on Tuesday. Attorney Vinton prosecuting, and Attorneys Irvine and Talmage defending. The justice reserved his decision until yesterday. Mann being held in $200 bonds, furnished by his father-in-law. The justice bound him over in the sum of $250.

The divorced wife returning to North Yamhill, proceeded the following morning to her place of residence before going east, the old home for the purpose of securing some personal effects left in her room. Here she was met by Mann and his new wife, the occupants, and claims that she was forcibly ejected at the door by Mann, with threats of killing, while the new wife fled in terror of her life. Mann was promptly rearrested, charged with assault with intent to kill, and the case came up before Justice Kunnels on Wednesday. The charge was changed to that of assault and battery, and change of venue taken to this city, where the case will be heard today at 10 a. m. Mann was placed in jail in lieu of a new bond satisfactory to the prosecution.

One night when Mr. Isaac Reese was stopping with me, says M. F. Hatch, a prominent merchant of Quartermaster, Washington, I heard him groaning. On going to his room I found him suffering from cramp colic. He was in such agony I feared he would die. I hastily gave him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He was soon relieved, and the first words he uttered were, "what was that stuff you gave me?" I informed him. A few days ago we were talking about his attack and he said he was never without that remedy now. I have used it in my family for several years. I know its worth and do not hesitate to recommend it to my friends and customers. For sale by H. Howorth & Co., druggists.

Special Fruit Report.

The crop-weather bulletin of the Oregon state weather service for the week ending August 5, says:

From numerous special fruit reports received from correspondents throughout the state, it appears that the fruit crop is very large compared with previous years, and more fruit is being shipped from the state.

In many sections fruitgrowers' associations have been formed, whereby consideration of those subjects vital to the growth, preservation and sale of fruit has insured to the general good of the community by stimulating interest in fruitgrowing by a dissemination of knowledge of fruit and fruit growth. By united effort on the part of the members who compose the fruitgrowers' association, or union, markets have been secured for the fruit of a community when previous to the organization of the society little or no sale could be had.

Peaches are scarce in Marion, Washington, Yamhill, Columbia and Multnomah counties, while in Clackamas county, at Liberal, the peach crop is the best for many years. In Douglas and Josephine counties the crop of peaches is light. Apples and pears are ripe in abundance, and the prospect for an abundant harvest of all apples is good. Apples are large and quite free from worms. While the aphids and other fruit insects are present in the orchards, they have been kept within safe bounds, and are becoming less numerous. A correspondent stated that where the warnings of the proper authorities (meaning the Oregon State Horticultural society) have been heeded the complaints of damage done by insects are less frequent. There is a large crop of plums of superior quality. Prunes are doing well; Italian prunes promise a full crop, and the peaches are sustaining their established reputation as strong bearers. Of all the fruits, the plum is the most successful this season. The prune crop is reported as heavy and above the average in all sections, and quite free from damage by insects.

The difference between pills and Simmons Liver Regulator, is just this: Pills don't go down very easy with most people, and you feel them afterwards. While Simmons Liver Regulator is in liquid or powder form is very pleasant to take, and the only feeling that you have afterwards is the great relief that it gives from constipation, biliousness, sick headache and dyspepsia. It is a mild laxative and a tonic.

CAMP JONES.

Present population of camp, 175 people. Rev. Thompson's infant, one cow, six chickens, three cats and two dogs.

O. H. Adams was taken home quite sick on Tuesday last, and Mrs. John Campbell is confined to her bed, otherwise the camp is well and happy.

Blackberries hold out remarkably well, and though they are a little harder to get than at first, there will be plenty for all.

On Wednesday a crowd of Meadow lake campers, headed by Dr. Vial, came across the trail. They showed good judgment by arriving just at the dinner hour, Dr. Vial consuming an astonishing quantity of victuals, and did so, without having any appetite, as he informed us before sitting down to the table.

H. Henderson has set himself up as a camp physician. He has erected a small office building and hung out his sign. Judging from the numbers who call the place he must be doing an immense practice.

It is rumored that some of the women have sent to town for a bear trap, and will try to catch the fellow that does so much petty stealing from the larders during the night.

A few of the fellows have clubbed together and ordered a large supply of strychnine, with which they try to soothe the pain and lessen the howls that the brute dog of the camp gives forth every night.

Generally there is plenty to amuse and entertain, but one day last week things got a little dark. Robert Henderson and Wirt Gardner came to the rescue by agreeing to take a swim in the creek just above the dam. The small boys have constructed. The whole camp gathered to see the performance, and were well repaid for their pains. After much persuasion the boys entered the stream, and clad in gaudy undershirts and white overalls. Robert was in advance and jumped boldly and heroically in, but "Oh! My!" it was not cold—oh no—it was warm enough for anyone, but for some reason Robert's form began to shrink. Little pimple stood out on his arms so thick that the flesh looked like a nutmeg grater. His teeth chattered like a telegraph instrument, his hands were clinched spasmodically and he seemed to gasp for breath. Robert's appearance scared Wirt, but not getting out of it then, so, while the crowd applauded the swimmer, he turned and swam back, and dropped in to the water's icy embrace. It didn't kill him, but it came near it.

Campers continue to come in, and very few are leaving. The more the better.
