the present population of the United States at 70,000,000.

Upon the face of the returns democratic papers will be able to figure out decreased republican majorities in some of the states, compared with a year ago. It looks that way in New York and Pennsylvania if the vote is not considered, but in both states the republicans cast a larger per cent of the total vote than last year. There are not even straws for the democracy to grasp at.
