SHOULD NOT BE USED

to fill teeth unless necessary to preserve them. Tooth decay is usually caused by food accumulating between or about them, and being allowed to remain there, it decomposes and forms an acid, which nurtures bacteria. This causes a rapid breaking down of tooth substance, after which the only remedy is to fill the cavity. This should be done carefully and thoroughly by a dentist who is skilled in the art and understands the structure of the tooth. Having made such work a specialty, I invite your attention to my methods. Extracting done carefully and painlessly. Plates made as natural as possible and assured to fit. All methods used are only the latest. Call for examination and prices.

Webster's International Dictionary

Successor of the "Unabridged." The One Great Standard Authority.

So writes Hon. B. J. Brewer, Justice U. S. Supreme Court.

Standard of the U. S. Court Printing Office, the U. S. Supreme Court, all the State and Territorial Courts, and of nearly all the newspapers.

Warms Recommended by State Superintendents of Schools, College Teachers, and all Educators almost without number.

Unvaluable in the household, and to the teacher, scholar, professional man, and self-educator.

THE BEST FOR PRACTICAL USE. It is easy to find the word wanted. It is easy to ascertain the pronunciation. It is easy to trace the growth of a word. It is easy to learn what a word means.

The Chicago Times-Herald says: "Webster's International Dictionary in its present form is a valuable authority on everything relating to our language in the way of orthography, etymology, and definition. From it there is no appeal. It is a perfect work of art and scholarship can make it."—Nov. 14, 1890.

Hon. W. S. U'Ren, the populist statesman from Clackamas was in the city this week. We understand he is traveling with a doctor who has an effective remedy for hernia. The populist organization is badly afflicted with the malady, but we doubt if a combination of doctors and statesmen and saltwater thrown in can save it.

H. B. Reed is the all-round fence man. He not only makes and sells the combination picket and wire fence, but has two or three styles of all wire fencing, and also common barbed wire. He is in the fence business, and it will pay you to see him about anything in that line.

On his way home from Tillamook last week, Tom Kay stopped off for a day's hunting on the Trask. He succeeded in bagging the finest buck that has been killed during the season and got a shot at a bear. The bear got away, but if he wasn't badly wounded he was a good deal frightened. Tom reports business in Tillamook good, the branch house of his firm doing a thriving trade.

Calvin Stanley went to Portland last Tuesday and the impression prevails that he is going to Alaska if he has not already gone. S. D. Hopkins of this city is just in receipt of a letter from his son Winfred, who left Tacoma July 29th for the Klondike. The letter is dated at Lake Bennett, September 19th, just after arrival. Himself and partner left Skagway on the 5th of August, and the letter is devoted to detailing the hardships of the trip over the Skagway route. It requires great powers of endurance and energy to reach the lakes and many turned back, selling their effects for what they could get. Hopkins started out with two horses, but killed two on the trip and bought others to take their places, which were duly shot when the lakes were reached, being of no further use. As many as twelve horses were killed in a distance of eighty rods. At Lake Bennett the trip was regarded as practically accomplished, and he is doubtless at Dawson City long ere this.

Two years ago just before the city election, The Reporter said: "We hope the last city caucus has been held, as a means of forestalling a free and fair vote at the election. Let party lines be drawn and let each party caucus if it wants to, with the view of bringing out the best and strongest ticket possible, then let the people take their choice." A great many persons said amen to it at the time, and we think the sentiment has grown in favor. As long as we pursue a method in choosing city officers that recognizes only one set of candidates as legitimate, and submit to the hugger-mugger practices of an irresponsible caucus, elections are most likely to prove a farce. We are in favor of putting a republican city ticket in the field and electing it if possible. Let it be known as such, and let the party take the responsibility of its administration if elected. If there is another party in the city that has the courage and manhood and a name that it is not ashamed to own, let it come out and do honorable battle under its own banner.

The following account of the round-up at Grand Ronde last week is probably correct, as the editor of the Sheridan Sun was present at the inquest and helped frame the verdict: "Last Sunday was a busy time among the Indians at Grand Ronde reservation. Horse racing galore and plenty to drink. The drinking part kept up all night, resulting in a score of black eyes. One man seriously injured and another dead, is the after-math of poor whiskey, cider and vinegar mixed. Jim Young, an old man, was killed from the effects of a blow given by Joe Dowd. The fracas took place at the house of Wm. Schufon, about 3/4 of a mile east of the agency buildings. Before old man Young was killed a fight took place between Jesse Wheeler and Frank Isaac, in which Wheeler was struck on the head with an ax or hatchet and rendered insensible and remained so for some hours. He was taken to Schufon's house. About six o'clock in the morning, of Monday, while Young was engaged in fixing up a door in Schufon's house that had been broken down during the melee, Dowd came in and some words passed between them, when Young struck Dowd in the face with the palm of his hand; Dowd returned the blow with his fist, hitting the old man squarely in the face. He fell to the floor and struggled for a few minutes, was dragged into a corner and in less than thirty minutes, had ceased to breathe. Young was an ex-convict, about 60 years of age and would weigh over 200 pounds. Taken all together it was a disgraceful and brutal affair, the outcome of poor whiskey. It is currently reported that whiskey was furnished and sold by men from Sheridan, and the Indians boast that they can get all they want here."

The first number of the Journal, by the Psi Phi literary society of Lafayette Seminary has been received. It is a very creditable production.

James L. Steward, a prominent farmer and well known citizen of the vicinity of North Yamhill, died of consumption after a long illness, on the 15th inst. He was a native of the state of Indiana, born Dec. 21st, 1834. In 1852, at the age of 18, he crossed the plains, driving an ox team, arriving at Lafayette in the fall of that year with but a single dollar in his pocket. Subsequently he enlisted for the Indian war, serving in the company of which A. J. Hembree was captain. At the close of the war he preempted the farm on which he resided up to the time of his death. In 1861 he was married to Miss Eliza Olds, daughter of Ruel Olds, a pioneer of 1844, who survives him. Mr. Steward was always reckoned among the substantial and prosperous farmers of the county and was well esteemed by the community in which he lived.

The doctor may be a good old man, but even so, medical examinations and the "local-application" treatment are abhorrent to every modest woman. They are embarrassing—often useless. They should not be submitted to until everything else has been tried. In nine cases out of ten, there is no reason for them. In nine cases out of ten, the doctor in general practice isn't competent to treat female diseases. They make a branch of medicine by themselves. They are distinct from other ailments. They can be properly understood and treated by one who has had years of actual practice and experience in this particular line. This is true of Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Home and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a remedy for all derangements of the reproductive organs of women, has been in actual use for more than thirty years. It cures every form of "female weakness."

There is a good attendance of Baptists at the state convention now in session in this city, and the meeting is proving a profitable one. There is a registered attendance of 104, and they are a good looking class of people, too. The evening session of the ministerial conference on Tuesday consisted of addresses from Rev. Dalin of Portland and President Boardman of the college, the former taking Paul as the great example for ministerial devotion, and the latter spoke of the intellectual life of the minister. The addresses were able, and that of President Boardman was particularly forceful in its comprehensive outline of the necessary elements to constitute an ideal and successful minister. The annual sermon was preached on Wednesday by Rev. Geo. T. Ellis. The afternoon and evening were occupied in reports of commissions, discussion and addresses by Revs. Rugg and McKillop. The Sunday school session is being held at this writing. The general public is interested in the evening sessions, and is specially filled with expectancy for next Sunday's services, when Drs. Wood and Raboteau will speak.

During the past twelve months this church has bending its energies to build and pay for its new church house, and now that the building is complete it is to be dedicated Sunday the 24th. A kind invitation is extended to all to come in and assist in the dedicatory service.

Rev. Dr. Powell of Seattle will be present and preach the sermon on the occasion at 11 a. m., after which the house will be formally dedicated. A responsive dedicatory service has been arranged for the pastor and congregation, and Rev. W. R. Bishop of Portland will offer the dedicatory prayer. There will be other ministers present who will take part in the program. The choir has prepared some very excellent selections for the day and Mrs. Evenden and Dr. Lewis will assist in the singing. The congregation purchased a good supply of church hymnals and all may have part in this part of the service of God, who hereafter attend services at this house.

The evening service will consist of a sermon, ordaining of a ruling elder and serving the sacrament.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c. For sale by Rogers Bros.

Sick-poison is a poison that makes you sick. It comes from the stomach. The stomach makes it out of undigested food. The blood gets it and taints the whole body with it. That's the way of it. The way to be rid of it is to look after your digestion. If your food is all properly digested, there will be none left in the stomach to make sick-poison out of. If your stomach is too weak to see to this properly by itself, help it along with a few doses of Shaker Digestive Cordial. That's the cure of it. Shaker Digestive Cordial is a delicious, healthful, tonic cordial, made of pure medicinal plants, herbs and wine. It positively cures indigestion and prevents the formation of sick-poison. At druggists. Trial bottles 10 cents.
