A School Girl's Nerves.

From the "New Era," Greensburg, Ind.

Mothers who have young daughters of school age should watch their health more carefully than their studies. The proper development of their body is of the first importance. After the confinement of the school room, plenty of out-of-door exercise should be taken. It is better that their children never learn their a, b, c's, than that by learning them they lose their health.

But all this is self-evident. Everyone admits it—everyone knows it, but everyone does not know how to build them up when once they are broken down. The following method of one mother, if rightly applied, may save your daughter:

The young lady was Miss Lucy Barnes, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Barnes, who lives near Barney, Ind. She is a bright young lady, is fond of books, although her progress in this line has been considerably retarded by the considerable amount of sickness she has experienced. She has missed two years of school on account of her bad health, but now she will be able to pursue her studies, since her health has been restored.

Her father was talking of her case to a newspaper man one day recently. "My daughter has had a very serious time of it," said Mr. Barnes, "but now we are all happy to know that she is getting along all right and is stronger than ever." Asked to relate the story of his daughter, Mr. Barnes continued: "About three years ago, when she was twelve years old, she began to grow weak and nervous. It was, of course, a delicate age for her. She gradually grew weaker and her nerves were at such a tension that the least little noise would irritate her very much, and she was very miserable. There was a continual twitching in the arms and lower limbs, and we were afraid that she was going to develop St. Vitus' dance."

"She kept getting worse and finally we had to take her from her school and her studies. She was strong and healthy before, weighing eighty-five pounds, and in three months she had dwindled to sixty-three pounds. She was thin and pale, and was almost lifeless. We did everything we could for her, and tried all the doctors who we thought could do her any good, but without result."

"There was an old family friend near Milford who had a daughter afflicted the same way, and she was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They came here one day to spend Sunday, and they told us about their daughter's case. It was very much like Lucy's, and they advised us to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her. We had no faith in them, but were finally persuaded to try the pills. We have never been sorry for it. They helped her at once, and by the time she had taken eight boxes of the medicine she was entirely cured. She took the last dose in April, and has not been bothered since. She is now stronger than ever, weighs ten pounds more than ever before, and her cheeks are full of color. She can now gratify her ambition to study and become an educated woman."

Those who are in a position to know, state that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is not a patent medicine but a prescription used for many years by an eminent practitioner who produced the most wonderful results with them, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves, two fruitful causes of almost every ill to which flesh is heir. The pills are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, all forms of weakness, chronic constipation, bearing down pains, etc., and in the case of men will give speedy relief and effect a permanent cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature. They are entirely harmless and can be given to weak and sickly children with the greatest good and without the slightest danger. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

KILLED HIS NEIGHBOR.

One Threatens, the Other Shoots in Self-Defense.

The east side of the county was the scene of another tragedy on Saturday. Paul Ducleos and Fred Clemmens lived on adjoining farms southeast of Dayton, near the Evangelical church. Since last harvest the two families have not been friendly because of a quarrel and fight between them at that time. Ducleos had heard that the Clemmens family had started a derogatory report against his personal conduct, and went to William Clemmens, the head of the family, during last harvest, while engaged in cutting grain, charging him with circulating such a report. Mr. Clemmens stoutly denied the charge, and as a result of the discussion a fight ensued, which involved Clemmens and his son Fred, and the Ducleos brothers, bachelor neighbors. In this fight the Ducleos brothers were worsted, and it is said afterwards gave out promiscuous threats against the lives of the Clemmens men.

The opportunity for a clash came Saturday morning about 10 a. m., when Paul Ducleos and the junior Clemmens, aged 20 years, met while out hunting. Both had pursued their hunt about Graham's slough near the Willamette river, apparently oblivious of each other's whereabouts, until on opposite sides of the water, when Ducleos being on much higher ground, they came in sight of each other. Ducleos is said to have retraced his steps in the direction of Clemmens and met him at the north end of the slough. There being no witnesses to the interview, Clemmens' story is the sole word-of-mouth evidence. He says: "I saw Ducleos approaching from the same direction that I had come. When he was within about 50 yards, he began to abuse me, and still came nearer, swearing and threatening to kill me. When he was close to me he pulled off his gloves, or mittens, and began to draw his gun. I tried to evade him, and said that I did not want to have any trouble. Ducleos kept coming, and then began to raise his gun. When he had raised it to about the range of my head, I fired." Clemmens is said to have held his gun toward Ducleos, but with the muzzle almost to the ground, and when he felt it necessary to fire in self-defense, he gave the muzzle a quick upward turn, and without taking aim, discharged the gun. The examination of the wound tended to corroborate this statement, as the shot took an upward course into the chin and lower face. The tracks of the two hunters were also examined by the coroner's jury and found to confirm the story told by Clemmens. Ducleos' gun was found by his side, in readiness for shooting."

The jury was composed of Daniel DeFiere, Eli Seese, M. F. Hastings, L. H. Litscher, John Eisele and Daniel Gubser. They returned a verdict that Ducleos came to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by Fred Clemmens, in self-defense, as they believed.

The other Ducleos, on hearing of the death of his brother, is said to have raved like a madman, frantic with grief and anger. Paul Ducleos was an Odd Fellow, and was buried by the brethren of that order at Dayton on Monday.

Mr. Clemmens and son came to town on Monday, and as evidence of good faith, Mr. Clemmens has his son arrested and placed under $2000 bonds to appear before the next grand jury.

Prof. Metzgar of the Lafayette seminary will address the Christian Endeavor of this place Sunday next at three o'clock. He is an enthusiastic Endeavor worker.

H. Holmes has grubbed up his hayward and will plant it in onions. He has 100 pounds of seed and intends planting thirty acres or more this year.

T. J. Morrison started for Skagway a few days ago. His family has moved to Perrydale. Whiteson loses another good citizen, but we wish him success in his new venture.

Rev. Turner closed his revival meetings Monday night. There were 17 additions to the church, and nearly twice that number professed conversion. When the roll is called up yonder may they all be numbered with those whose robes are whiter than the snow.

J. C. Parrott has purchased of J. B. Long a one-half interest in the little steamer Kiawanda, a small passenger and excursion boat plying on the Nestucca bay. They will thoroughly overhaul the boat and put in new and larger machinery and make it first-class in every respect.

In a recent letter from Washington, D. C., to an old friend, Major G. A. Studer, for twenty years United States Consul at Singapore, says: "While at Des Moines I became acquainted with a liniment known as Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I found excellent against rheumatism as well as against soreness of the throat and chest (giving me much easier breathing). I had a touch of pneumonia early this week, and two applications freely applied to the throat and chest relieved me of it at once. I would not be without it for anything." For sale by S. Howorth & Co.

One day this week dogs got into Mr. Woods' drove of sheep and killed or wounded so they died 14 of the band in one night. He received $20 from the owners of the dogs and then had the pleasure of seeing both dogs killed.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Always Proves Effectual.

There are no better medicines on the market than Chamberlain's. We have used the Cough Remedy when all others failed, and in every instance it proved effectual. Almost daily we hear the virtues of Chamberlain's remedies extolled by those who have used them. This is not an empty puff, paid for at so much a line, but is voluntarily given in good faith, in the hope that suffering humanity may try these remedies, and, like the writer, be benefited.—From the Glenville (W. Va.) Pathfinder. For sale by S. Howorth & Co.

The Tie that Binds.

A very pretty wedding occurred at the home of S. L. Hayden, just east of the city, Wednesday evening, Feb. 2nd, when his daughter Mabel was married to Mr. A. F. Narver, Rev. A. J. Hunsaker officiating. The ceremony occurred at 7:30 p. m., the bride and groom entering the parlor to the strains of the wedding march performed by Miss Josie Gortner. Those present besides the immediate Hayden household were Mrs. Derr, daughter and son, Misses Josie and Sadie Gortner, Misses Lottie and Ytol Reid, Mr. F. E. Rogers and Mrs. Narver, mother of the groom. A number of nice and useful presents were presented by the guests. The bride and groom left yesterday for their future home at Sprague, Wash., where Mr. Narver owns a cattle ranch and engages quite extensively in this industry. They took with them the good wishes of many friends.

Yamhill Boys in Trouble.

The story goes that Thursday evening of last week William Wisecarver and Charles Mitchell arrived in Irving, in Lane county, and solicited several houses for lodging. S. L. Bond gave them supper, lodging and breakfast, on condition that they would pay in the morning by splitting some wood. They worked but a few moments when they suddenly left, whereupon Mr. Bond bailed them as they were leaving and demanded an explanation. Instead of stopping, the boys broke and ran, and Mr. Bond gave chase. They ran but a few hundred yards when one of the boys whipped out a revolver and threatened the life of his pursuer. Mr. Bond then gave up the chase and, hastening to Eugene, he secured the assistance of Policemen Stiles. Together they walked out near the Geary school building, where they intercepted the two young criminals and took them into custody. The boys pleaded guilty to the charge of carrying concealed weapons, and were given twenty days each in the county jail.

North Yamhill Record: The diphtheria cases in the family of A. Blackburn, east of town, are getting along as well as could be expected. It is thought the danger point has been passed in all the cases. No new cases are reported. Grand Foreman D. C. Herrin of the A. O. U. W. will deliver a public address at Laughlin's hall at 7:30 p. m., Feb. 17th, in the interests of his order. The address will be free and all are invited to come out and hear him.

That "prince of merchants" John Wanamaker, does all his advertising through the newspapers and in no other way. He says: "I deal directly with the publishers." I say to them: "How long will you let me run a column of matter through your paper for $100 or $500?" as the case may be. I let him do the figuring, and if I think he is not trying to take more than his share, I give him the copy. I lay aside the profits on a particular line of goods for advertising purposes. "At first I laid aside $3,000. Last year I laid aside and spent $40,000. I have done better this year, and shall increase the sum as the profits warrant it. I owe my success to newspapers, and to them I freely give a certain profit of my yearly business."

The republicans of Pennsylvania are booming John Wanamaker for the next governor of the state.

Thos. B. Turley, democrat, was on the 2d elected United States senator by the legislature of Tennessee. He received 91 votes, the republicans voting for Blackner of Nashville.
