Crotchety, nervous people probably have no business to get excited at 11 o'clock at night over the continuous ringing of a bell, but many of them did so last Tuesday evening when the college boys were playing pranks. Thos. J. Rowland went to Portland Monday in response to a message that his son Clyde, who was night elevator boy in the Imperial hotel, had the night before fallen from the office floor to the basement through the elevator shaft. The boy was taken in an unconscious condition to St. Vincent's hospital. The cause of his fall was not known to the night clerk or other employees of the building. The elevator was raised to the top floor, which produced the belief that he opened the door and walked into the shaft before realizing the fact. He has been at work in the hotel for two years, and was regarded as one of the most careful and trusted employees.

The nomination of Jas. McCain as postmaster at McMinnville has been duly confirmed by the senate and he will probably take charge about April 15th. Some time will be required for the filing and approval of his bond. Mr. McCain is to be congratulated upon the fine plum he has secured. Tuesday afternoon about 5 o'clock, Bettie, the 5-year-old daughter of G. V. Querrer of Amity, narrowly escaped burning to death. While she was standing near the fireplace her clothes caught fire. She then carried the child out into the yard, where a neighbor, Grant Smith, came to her assistance, wrapping his coat about the child, entirely extinguishing the flames. The child was badly burned, but it is thought she will recover.

He was one of the early settlers here, and a highly respected citizen. D. A. Snyder informs us that the new dryers are doing much better and more work than was expected. Six of the dryers now in operation are doing as much as it was expected eight would do. Snyder says everything in the new evaporator is running smoothly, and working satisfactorily. We are glad to hear it and hope the enterprise will be abundantly successful.—Dayton Herald.
