The strong certainty of the opening of hostilities with Spain makes the publication of a list of the 53 members of the above company a matter of considerable interest. The boys represent the young and vigorous blood of the community, and each one is believed to be ready and willing to serve his country on call. Each is keeping a close watch for Spain's expected reply by noon tomorrow, and should it be for war, there will be a determined lot of soldiers in this community. The list and rank is as follows:

Captain, H L Heath.
1st lieutenant, J A Young.
2nd lieutenant, Frank Rennie.
1st sergeant, F. E. Weed.
Quartermaster sergeant, Geo. C. L. Snyder.
Sergeants, L L Collard, A P Harris, Frank Hayes, Seth O Coolidge.
Corporals, J J Welsh, C M Talmage, D H Mitchell.
Musician, T J Warren.
Privates, C P Alberts, Fred R Bogue, Fred Bangasser, Ed Casey, G C Cates, C W Crummins, John Cochlin, W F Crampton, Paul B Cooper, Wells C Cooper, Fred L Derby, Leonard Fink, Cassius Hutchings, Frank Hibbs, Fred Hayes, Worley M. LAFAYETTE.

Our sick are slowly improving. J. M. Dixon of Portland visited his family in town last week. Mrs. Dovey Reising of San Francisco is visiting friends and relatives here. Mrs. Maggie Duncan of Portland was visiting friends in town this week. The wife of Adolph Nice presented him with a pair of boys on the 8th inst. Mr. Wyatt, a prominent attorney of Albany, was doing business in town this week. Mrs. Permelia Fruit of Bethany, Ills., is visiting her nephew, E. C. Walker, and family. The lock and dam men are in town and we haven't time to find out what they mean to do. A. C. Beaulieu of Oregon City has returned from Skagway, and was visiting here last week. Mrs. W. I. Westerfield returned to Portland last week and will join W. I. in Grass Valley, soon. H. A. Peters is stepping lightly and looking proud this week, owing to the arrival of a little son. Couldn't raise a company of "sogers" here. Our folks are aching for war, but they don't want to fight. The cause of the death of Mrs. J. E. Hembree was congestive pneumonia, not typhoid fever as stated last week. Ellen, a young daughter of Mrs. Goheen of this place, died last Friday, of dropsy of the heart, aged about 12 years. Artie, a little son of R. C. Henry, had the misfortune to run the blade of a small pen knife in his left eye one day last week. It was thought for a while the sight was injured, but luckily it was not.

I was reading an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the Worcester Enterprise recently, which leads me to write this. I can truthfully say I never used any remedy equal to it for colic and diarrhoea. I have never had to use more than two or three doses to cure the worst case with myself or children.—W. A. STROUD, Popomoke City, Md. For sale by S. Howorth & Co.

Rev. E. Edwards, pastor of the English Baptist church at Minersville, Pa., when suffering with rheumatism, was advised to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. He says: "A few applications of this liniment proved a great service to me. It subdued inflammation and relieved the pain. Should any sufferer profit by giving Pain Balm a trial it will please me." For sale by S. Howorth & Co.

Licenses to Marry. April 18th—Henry E. Cooper, 23, of Umattilla county, and Cora Elvira Wilson, 19, of Yamhill.

April 19th—N. D. W. Elliott, 31, and Clara E. Hodson, 24, of Newberg.

"A word to the wise is sufficient" and a word from the wise should be sufficient but you ask, who are the wise? Those who know. The oft repeated experience of trustworthy persons may be taken for knowledge. Mr. W. M. Terry says Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any in the market. He has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for twelve years; has sold hundreds of bottles of this remedy and nearly all other cough medicines manufactured, which shows conclusively that Chamberlain's is the most satisfactory to the people, and is the best. Columbus School Notes. Maud Hobbs was numbered among our sick the first of the week. Ethel Harris of the high school won the medal at the W. C. T. U. contest the 13th.

The principal things under discussion by the 10th grade at present are diplomas and orations.

We hope to have a week added to our school term. Two of the directors have consented to it, and we think the third will consent.

S. C. Ribe said in the Transcript that the majority of boys ruined their brains by cigarettes, etc., and do not succeed in knowledge. Why is it then that the boys generally prove to be the best debaters, and in the oratorical contests the boys take first place.

O. H. IRVINE.

The Reporter takes pleasure this week in giving its readers a portrait and sketch of Attorney O. H. Irvine of this city, the republican nominee for prosecuting attorney of the third judicial district, whose vote in the convention on the first ballot stood 33 out of 55, and 10 votes of the 22 were purely complimentary for Mr. Cannon of Albany.

Mr. Irvine was born on a farm in Linn county, Oregon, May 3d, 1859, and is now very close to the 39th milestone of life. His father was Rev. S. G. Irvine, who came by the Horn to Oregon in 1851, and from the time of his arrival to his death two years ago, was almost continuously pastor of the Presbyterian church in Albany, and loved and respected by a large circle of friends.

Our nominee received a good education at the Monmouth college, Monmouth, Ills., and on returning to his native state studied law with the firm of Flinn & Chamberlain of Albany. He was admitted to the bar in 1884. His first practice was with Judge Wolverton, of the supreme bench, and later with Judge H. H. Hewitt, one of the present circuit judges of this district. Mr. Irvine located in McMinnville in 1891, and at once became actively identified with local interests, and soon gave evidence that he was a lawyer of more than ordinary ability. In 1893 he was chosen mayor of this city, and made a creditable record in a service of two years.

Since the organization about four years ago of the Oregon Fire Relief Association, Mr. Irvine has been its honored president, and one needs but to familiarize himself with the history of that organization, to appreciate the value of his services and the wisdom of his judgment in the management of its affairs.

As a member of the order of Knights of Pythias he is recognized as the patron saint of the local lodge, and has held high positions in its ranks in past years. He is also a member of the A. O. U. W. In social relations in the community, by reason of musical and literary ability, his services have been often in demand, and of inestimable value. His family consists of a wife, a most excellent lady, and two children, who occupy their own comfortable home in this city.

It is believed that Mr. Irvine will make a strong race, and if elected will devote the same active energy in the interests of the people which he gives his own personal affairs. He is worthy of hearty and generous support, and will doubtless get it, from all parts of the district.

WHITESON.

Mrs. R. W. Phillips attended the Presbytery at Portland Tuesday.

Miss French returned Tuesday from Broadmead, where she has been since last fall.

William Willis visited his parents, who live on Panther creek, the last of last week, returning last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Glover, after an extended visit in Albany, returned to their home in Whiteson last Saturday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Percival returned to her home in Monmouth Monday, after a very pleasant visit with her daughter.

A. M. Hoffman found his son, Sidney, so much improved, after a short visit, they started home from Nebraska, arriving Monday evening.

Mr. Baxter, a prominent republican from Ballston, spent Saturday and Sunday with Leander Conner, on his return from the republican convention in Astoria.

Miss Ida Andrews, who has been making her home with her sister Mrs. L. L. Fox, went to Portland Monday and will probably make that her home for the future.

The measles have anticipated the Spaniards and captured Whiteson. Some fears are entertained they will seriously interfere with the attendance of our public school.

This place has lots of potatoes that are yet unsold. They may be useful, however, to bombard the Spaniards if they should attempt to navigate Salt creek and invade Whiteson.

A short time since, Mrs. Julia Garrison received a telegram from Brownsville advising her of the dangerous illness of her sister, Mrs. Catherine Gross. A card received last Tuesday gave but slight hopes of recovery. T. E. Conner and family left Monday for Portland where they will visit for a few days. From there they take the boat for The Dalles and from thence by wagon to Lakeview, in southwestern Oregon. They will be gone about six weeks.

A WASHINGTON INCIDENT.

Washington, D. C., April 11th, 1898.

At the Cosmos club a few nights ago, the man from Yamhill overheard a conversation running something like this: "Say, H—, I've been reading a long magazine article of yours telling your experiences on the Chilcot Pass and in the Yukon country. You surely haven't been away from town long enough to have made the trip to the Yukon? Come now, confess." "Well, I did go to Portland Oregon, at least," said H—, and his distressed look made the man from Yamhill say to himself "I hope it'll be a war-r-r-r-in to yez" and he resolved within himself to go and see the things he might want to write of, or else never pretend to personal knowledge of them. So of that resolve was born the determination to spend a part of Easter Monday afternoon watching the youngsters at the observance of a time honored custom, rolling the multicolored eggs, typical of the season, over the grassy slopes of the White Lot.

No one could have mistaken the errand upon which thousands and thousands of children of all ages, sizes and conditions were bent as they thronged through the gates and over the green grass, among the flowers and shrubbery just blossoming. The rush began early, and by the time the president had sent to congress the long expected, oft deferred message, (and parenthetically let me say that the realization of the hope in this case had as much heart-sickening effect as the precedent deferring the whole space in the rear of the executive mansion was filled with a crowd of small people, even more engrossed with their sport than were the president and the congress in mixing the already badly entangled affair with Spain. At the big pile of buildings on Capitol hill everybody was tired, everybody was disappointed, everybody was inclined to grumble and rebel; at the other end of the avenue everybody was happy, everybody was joyous and good natured, everybody was determined to have a good time, and those who found their way there after the adjournment of the senate speedily forgot the perplexing question, "to intervene or not to intervene," in the many interesting features of the crowd solidly filling the great amphitheatre in front of and around the station of the marine band. The splendid music helped the fun along, and the sport was unabated until four o'clock, when an April shower made the grass so damp that those in charge of the smaller children took them home, though there were still left to continue the egg-rolling hundreds of youngsters who would have scorned the imputation that anybody was taking care of them, and whose only idea of a nurse would have found an illustration in the garb of a sister in a hospital ward. The crowd was democratic if it was anything, and these independent ones from South Washington found their eggs were as apt to emerge intact from the collisions incident to the rolling, or from a little game of "pick," as those more esthetically decorated eggs from the neighborhood of Dupont Circle. After watching the crowd of 2500 or 3000 people slowly disperse, the M. F. Y. went to his dinner, saying to himself that it had been a delight to watch their thorough enjoyment of the most unique, the prettiest custom ever instituted—the White Lot egg-rolling on Easter Monday. And because he had many times read of the custom and had as many times wished to see it, he thought to write of it, just what he saw, thinking there might be some at home who would find the account as interesting as such accounts had often been to him.

IN THE SWIM AGAIN
Some seem to suppose that C. D. JOHNSON is out of business, but such is not the case. He is again "in the swim" with a good line of RUSHFORD WAGONS, CARRIAGES, and BUGGIES, MORRISON PLOWS, Etc.
All fresh goods. He has had experience enough in this line to know what such goods can be sold for.
At the old Stand, north of Grange Store.
