We are fast getting around to the point where there is but one party, and that the party of action.

The Spanish fleet at the Philippines has gone to join the procession headed by the lone mule killed in the bombardment of Mantanzas.

SPAIN will look foolish when she comes to foot the bill of expenses of this war, to find in Uncle Sam's account an item covering the cost of those battleships they sunk after they were fairly won by our arms.

"I don't know, said the major, whether the old soldiers will have much influence with the young fellows now so eager for war or not. We were the same sort of fellows in 1861, eager to fight, impatient over delays, criticising everything and everybody that stood in our way. Most of us believed with Seward, that we could settle the whole business in sixty days if Lincoln would only let us get at the rebels. When the sixty days passed and we were not out of the camps of instruction—had not really entered upon war—we began to realize the gravity of the situation."—Veteran Curbstone Comment.

Not every populist can give as good reason for the faith that is in him as did a prominent resident of Carlton recently. Speaking to a republican neighbor he remarked that he'd like to see some of the prosperity the other fellows were talking about. "You get more for your wheat don't you?" the neighbor queried. "And more for your wool, sheep, cattle, hogs, hay, oats."—"Yes, but hold on!" remonstrated the pop. "I've got a thousand dollars that I want to let out on farm security, and am having hard work to get it out at 8 per cent. I used to get ten and sometimes more. Do you call that prosperity?"

The Spaniards thought to be facetious when they gave out word after the bombardment of the forts at Mantanzas that the only loss of life on their side was one government mule. Let it therefore be recorded in history that the first to lay down life in behalf of Spanish sovereignty was a proud and chivalrous government mule. There is unmistakable quality in the mule of pure Castilian descent. Like most of his native confreres of the genus homo sect, he is descended from a line of ancestors. He differs mainly from his human confreres in having less pride of ancestry, but stands on about equal footing with respect to hope of noble posterity. Events have demonstrated that he is the braver soldier, the most ready to die for his country.

OUR TICKET.

The republican ticket of 1898, state congressional, judicial and local, is one of unusual merit, considered as a whole. At the head stands the name of T. T. Geer, a native son of Oregon and a practical farmer, who has won his way to the front as a public man by years of honest and capable service in the various functions to which he has been called. His nomination for governor is the result of an independent and manly stand, taken in defiance of the would-be bosses of the party, and his vote in June will be a still further attestation of popular approval.

Hon. Thos. H. Tongue has made an excellent first-year record in congress. He has shown himself alert and able in every interest of his constituency. He is in full harmony with the party on all questions and is entitled to every vote it can muster.

The judicial features of the ticket should be peculiarly relishable to Yamhillers. Both Judge Burnett and Judge Hewitt were born and reared within its confines, while the nominee for prosecuting attorney is a resident of McMinnville. The administration of justice under the regime of Burnett and Hewitt has been characterized by dignity, fearlessness, impartiality and dispatch. Mr. Irvine, the nominee for attorney, is an attorney of the first rank and will bring to the office the service of a mature legal mind, backed by years of experience as a successful practitioner.

W. A. Howe of Carlton, nominee for state senator heads the county ticket. It was fitting that the republican party should select as its foremost color bearer a man whose very name has come to be a synonym of prosperity in the community. No man in Yamhill county, probably, has done so much of late years to promote the material interests of the people in his locality as has Mr. Howe. While striving to advance his own interests he has always observed the wise policy of helping others at the same time. He is a large, broad-minded, capable business man, and the legislative interests of the county can be safely trusted in his hands. Of the nominees for the lower house, Mr. Lamson of Willamina has for many years been regarded as a leading and influential citizen in the western portion of the county, where he has resided all his life. Mr. Butt of Newberg is an attorney, who seems to enjoy the confidence and esteem of that staid community.

It is unnecessary to say anything about Watt Henderson, the nominee for sheriff. He served the public one term in that capacity and they know him to be capable, honest and faithful. The popular estimate of the man is illustrated by the vote of two years ago. While the entire ticket was snowed under by the combined avalanche of democratic and populist votes, Mr. Henderson led the next highest on the republican ticket by 127. In the selection of a county clerk the convention labored under an embarrassment of riches in having so much excellent material on its hands, and the choice of Dr. J. H. Nelson was a happy outcome. He is a thorough gentleman, fully competent for the position, has hosts of friends, and so far as known an enemy in the county. R. P. Bird, nominee for county judge, is an old time business man of Lafayette, his residence dating back to 1848. His reputation is that of a man of solid character and business capability. He served the county as sheriff in 1872, as county treasurer in 1882, and a little later was elected to the state senate. Noah Phelps of Dayton is vouchered for as an eminently proper person to manage the office of recorder. The nominee for treasurer, Mr. O. O. Rhude of North Yamhill, belongs to the ranks of the boys who wore the blue in former days. He is an honest, hard working man. About 10 years ago he located a homestead at the summit of the Coast range and lived upon it long enough to perfect title, since which time he has resided in the vicinity of North Yamhill. No more enthusiastic, active and capable man could have been selected from among the many bright educators of Yamhill county for the office of school superintendent than Prof. E. V. Littlefield. Politically speaking, Mr. L. belongs to Lafayette, but his efficient and satisfactory work as vice principal of the McMinnville schools has earned for him a warm place in the public esteem. I. N. Branson of Bellevue, for county commissioner, it is said will poll the principal bulk of the popular vote in his home precinct, where his fitness is best known. It is scarcely necessary to say anything about the nominee for surveyor, C. E. Branson, since it has come to be understood that whatever political party is in power he does the surveying. J. M. Yocum of Sheridan is the nominee for assessor. He is well known in McMinnville, having been at one time engaged in the livery business here. Dr. T. B. Cummings of Newberg is said to be a pleasant man and the usual remark about ability to sit upon a corpse may be passed by.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Architectural Beauties of the City and Speculation as to Comparative Naval Strength.

Washington, D. C., April 23d, 1898.

Of the natural and architectural beauties of the city of Washington, much has been written and much remains to be told if one goes at all into detail. The plan of the city streets lends itself to an effective scheme of adornment and beautifying; the streets are wide, well paved, and at this time of year, bordered with trees just budding into beauty, while their being intersected at acute angles by many avenues give, all over the city, great numbers of long pointed spaces, not occupied by wedged-shaped buildings, but each a gem-like little park, and most of them a home of a statue to keep alive in the memory of the people the record of some hero or statesman of national renown. Scattered about all over the city are larger parks, good spacious breathing places, each with well kept walks, smooth sward, and each the home of a bronze or marble memorial of the doer of glorious deeds. From the Peace monument, where the busy avenue impinges upon the western boundary of the capital grounds, and on down the broad thoroughfare where the treasury building imposes its vast bulk between the noisy traffic of the avenue and the more quiet surroundings of the Executive Mansion, in Dupont Circle, in Farragut Square, in Thomas Circle, before the District Court House, in the Smithsonian Grounds, in upwards of fifty parks, great and small, are found these enduring reminders of the nation's great men. The capitol, the new library building, the beautiful home of the Corcoran art gallery, each would furnish copious material for volumes if one attempted a description of their many beauties. To one who can appreciate perfection of architecture, the library furnishes an inexhaustible source of patriotic pride, for in conception, design and execution the building is a product of American talent, skill and workmanship.

There is little use to attempt to tell you of the war with Spain, for events are crowding so rapidly one upon another that anything sent by the mails becomes ancient history before it can cross the continent. Spain is not lacking in confidence of ability to successfully engage in war with us, nor slow in boasting of her power and might upon the seas. She declares that her navy outclasses ours in all particulars, that her ships are manned by hardy, fearless, trained seamen, while ours, she asserts, are filled with incompetents, hastily shipped at our coast cities. It is her privilege to disparage us and to extol her own prowess; she is at entire liberty to despise us if she wishes, but it is the part of wisdom to take fair account of the strength of one's enemy. The sea-fights which are imminent between the two navies, will be watched with keenest interest by all the powers, for the capabilities of the modern fighting machines are yet to be tested. Meanwhile we will not fall into Spain's error in underestimating the ability of our adversary in handling her ships. She will fight them to their full capacities, as we shall ours. If her ships are strong, she will be strong; if weak, she will be weak. And that is exactly our case. Meanwhile we are entirely satisfied with our arrangements. Considered in the light of their achievements in Cuba, Spain's forces ashore cannot be held a menace against the troops we can land there in forty-eight hours without the enlistment of another man to the forces already armed and equipped. The blockade of Cuban ports easily maintained by our navy will bring to the aid of our invading forces that powerful ally always at the service of the successful beleaguer, starvation. In fact, it is the opinion of many men of good military judgment, that if we but maintain a blockade of Cuban ports, permitting only arms and ammunition, forage and subsistence for the insurgents to enter, we can stand by and watch the Cubans rapidly achieve their independence and drive every Spanish soldier from the island. If Spain feels like indulging in a little brag and bluster, it is her privilege, but the fact remains that if she draws the sword she shall surely perish by it.

The opposition already admit the election of Dr. Nelson and are engaged in selecting deputies for him. The Dr., however, will attend to that himself when he gets time.

Hood's Pills

Are gaining favor rapidly. Business men and travelers carry them in their pockets, ladies carry them in purses, housekeepers keep them in medicine closets, friends recommend them to friends, etc.

Because of the great number of soldiers and military demonstrations in Portland last Saturday, the Rev. Dr. Hiff could not possibly get to the train for McMinnville, and, therefore, was not able to fill his appointment at the M. E. church last Sunday. This explanation he sent over the telephone and at the same time expressed his sadness over the great disappointment to himself as well as others in not being able to be with us. But without fail he will be in McMinnville Saturday and preach in the M. E. church next Sunday morning and evening. Dr. Hiff is one of the most popular preachers and all should try to hear him.

D. T. SUMMERVILLE.

I have been a sufferer from chronic diarrhoea ever since the war and have used all kinds of medicine for it. At last I found one remedy that has been a success as a cure, and that is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.—P. E. GRISHAM, Gaars Mills, La. For sale by S. Howorth & Co.

The Cuban Relief committee at Portland has acknowledged with heartfelt thanks the receipt of $13.70, proceeds of the Evenden entertainment, and say they were gratefully surprised.

Whooping Cough.

I had a little boy who was nearly dead from an attack of whooping cough. My neighbors recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I did not think that any medicine would help him, but after giving him a few doses of that remedy I noticed an improvement, and one bottle cured him entirely. It is the best cough medicine I ever had in the house.—J. L. MOORE, South Bergetstown, Pa. For sale by S. Howorth & Co.

Don't annoy others by your coughing, and risk your life by neglecting a cold. One Minute Cough Cure cures coughs, colds, croup, grippe and all throat and lung trouble. Rogers Bros. Pharmacy.

Baby Cried Night and Day

Discharge from Her Ears—Top of Her Head Broke out in Scrofulous Eruptions

Grew Worse Under Treatment Till We Gave Her Hood's Sarsaparilla—She Has Rosy Cheeks Now.

"When my baby was two months old she cried night and day, and seemed to be in great pain. She had a discharge from her ears, and the top of her head broke out in scrofulous eruptions. The doctor gave me something to stop the discharge and ease the pain, but his treatment did not cure her and we were sorry to see

She Grew Worse instead of better. The top of her head broke out with scrofula. A crust would form on her head and fall off, taking the hair along with it, and this continued for two or three months, when something seemed to tell me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I did so, together with Hood's Pills and Hood's Olive Ointment. Soon

The Discharge Stopped and the sores were rapidly healing. In a short time her hair grew out and she now has rosy cheeks and is all right in every way." Mrs. I. LLOYD, Spring Valley, N. Y.

That ill-fated craft went down in Havana harbor and created more excitement than any one incident of late years.

Its the same way with Our New Footwear. Everybody is talking about them, and they all say that they are the best specimens of shoemaking in Ladies', Misses' and Childrens' Shoes that the world ever saw, and they won't be blown up either. Too good for that.
