W. R. KING did not show up for the joint discussion with T. T. Geer at Toledo, May 2d. The populists now deny that there was ever an agreement for joint discussion.

In 1896 the following appeared in the populist papers: "Do the farmers think they can stand four years more of ten-cent corn, thirty-five cent wheat and two and a half cent hogs? If they can they are justified in voting for Wm. McKinley, for that is just what it means."

The nomination of Hon. J. W. Maxwell of Tillamook for joint representative appears to give good satisfaction. He was in the legislature six years ago, and was regarded as one of the most capable members. He is an indefatigable worker, who always keeps the interests of his local constituents in sight.

AFTER the yankees had made sure of their victory in the early morning battle at Manila, the report says, they withdrew for breakfast and then returned and finished the work. This incident illustrates the masterly coolness that won the great victory. It is not stated what the Spanish were doing during the breakfast hour.

It is admitted by unquestioned authority that the Suez canal is neutral to the passage of ships of war, and that the Spaniards may, if they choose, send a fleet through it to attack Commodore Dewey. The probabilities are that they have had enough of Dewey and will not embrace the privilege. In the meantime, what is the matter of Dewey using the canal.

POPULIST newspapers are resorting to some clear cases of pugnacity as political argument. The Roseburg Review, for instance, says Schoonmaker got sick and went home because he was afraid of the silver-union wave next month. The distorted fact in this case is that Schoonmaker was called home by sickness in his family, which would take any sensible man home. Furthermore, you may be further given the lie by his returning.

We don't think it is right for the populist papers to say that Spain is bankrupt when they know all Spain has to do is start the printing presses and increase the circulating medium. That would also raise the price of the Spanish farmers' products, so a bushel of wheat would be worth ten dollars, perhaps fifty or a hundred dollars in flat pesetas. That, according to Mr. Simpson, would be "prosperity."

Mary Ellen Lease is billed for a speech at Oregon City on the 17th inst. Look out for pickpockets.

GOVERNOR LEEDY of Kansas now belongs in such distinguished company as the Queen Regent of Spain, the boy king, President McKinley and others. He has been hanged in effigy, for his Penneyer-like action regarding the national guard of his state.

THE Daily Statesman says the fusionists have men throughout Marion county, and presumably throughout the state, attempting to get men to sign an agreement to vote for the candidates of the three-tailed combination. Can't they trust their own people?

Do the voters of Oregon approve the policy of President McKinley in driving the intolerant Spaniards from the shores of America and in avenging the destruction of the Maine? If so, they will vote the straight republican ticket next month. Republican defeat in this state would be accepted in the east as repudiation of the administration.—Oregonian.

REPRESENTATIVE TONGUE'S bill to condemn the Oregon City locks and make the river free to navigation, is being pushed in the house. It may not succeed in passing both houses this term, or even the house, for such matters are proverbially slow and call for persistency and indefatigable zeal. This is one of Mr. Tongue's pet measures, and its success will save many thousands of dollars to Oregon farmers by the abolishment of tolls on wheat alone.

THE Spanish fleet that left the Cape Verdes a week ago, supposedly for Cuban waters, turned up on Tuesday at Cadiz, where it joined the other fleet. It is surmised that they will send the consolidated flotilla over here in a body. We advise them not to do so, for unless they handle their ships and guns better than they did in Manila bay, numbers will only add to their embarrassment, by giving the American gunners a chance for a big pot shot.

THE Oregon Populist, a middle-of-the-road sheet, is after the fusion candidate for governor. It says: "When King was in the lower house of the Oregon legislature he voted against the bill introduced by a member to prohibit Pinkerton detectives from shooting down laboring men. He stated then that corporations had a right to hire any person they wanted to defend their property, or in other words, they should be privileged to shoot down any common everyday laborer if he did not acquiesce in their unjust demands. That's the kind of a chap the free coinage of office gang want for governor."

SENATOR JONES of Nevada and several other silver men called at the white house and asked the president to appoint William Jennings Bryan a major-general. The appointment was asked for as a matter of courtesy to Bryan and his party. He told the committee he would appoint no major-generals who have not had military training, and added that he had already recognized both the gold and silver factions of the democratic party in the appointments of General Wheeler, a "silver" and General Lee, a "gold" man. If Bryan really wants to go to war let him enlist as a private. The people dearly love a private soldier fighting for pure patriotism, but they do care much for an officer who is also a politician.

R. M. VEATCH, who now wants to go to congress and occupy the place so ably filled by the Hon. Thos. H. Tongue in the United States house of representatives was in the Oregon state senate in the session of 1893. He voted three times during that session against a bill carrying an appropriation of $20,000 to uniform and equip the Oregon national guard that has just so nobly responded to the call of the president to free Cuba, avenge the Maine and uphold the dignity of the country against the insults and dastardly treachery of the Spaniards. The Hon. Thos. H. Tongue by voice and vote has ably sustained the President during his term in congress in all the war measures of the administration. What would R. M. Veatch do under similar circumstances? His record in the Oregon senate shows that he would vote "no" every time a measure for the defense of the nation was under consideration. Oregon has no use for R. M. Veatch in the halls of congress. Put none but patriots on guard! Vote for the Hon. Thos. Tongue, who will in turn vote for the defense of the nation every time.—Ashland Tidings.

A DEMO-POPULIST TALKS.

Dayton April, 30th 93.
ED YAMHILL REPORTER: Feeling that I would like to say something for the cause of the people I have selected your paper to say it in because every body reads it and I want every body to hear what I have got to say. In the first place I would like to know what the republicans mean by saying that they have raised the price of wool when I know better and will show you in a mity few words how it is. The reason the price of wool rose was because the people quit raising sheep and they had to raise the price of wool so that they would raise some more sheep and Old Mackinley had nothing to do with it a tall and then they talk about the price of silver going down, the reason there is no call for it is that the people don't want it that they have no use for it and the reason that the other stuff has gone up is because there is not enough to go around and hey anything left to seckelate on well I must close now but I may write some more after while yours DEM-O POP

Our demo-pop friend is right in his first proposition, that "they" had to raise the price of wool so that the people would raise some more sheep. Under the Wilson democratic free trade law wool growing had become unprofitable and sheep went down to a dollar a head. It was about the time "Old Mackinley" came in and the Dingley bill became a law that wool and all kinds of farm produce began to jump upward. Our demo-populist friends may deny that this was due to the inauguration of republican policy, but they told that nothing but free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 could restore the price of wheat, wool and live stock. There has been no free coinage of silver.

WHAT THE UNION IS.

Mr. Veatch in 1892: "All money coined by the government should be of equal monetary value, and all paper currency be redeemable in gold or silver at the option of the holder, and the government should go out of the banking business and cease to issue paper currency."

Mr. Veatch in 1898: "We demand the free coinage of silver, and that the option of redemption of paper money in gold or silver be taken from the holder and given to the government, and that the government issue an unlimited amount of fiat paper money, redeemable in nothing."

The facts: Mr. Veatch is the candidate of an aggregation of spoils-men, who subordinate principles to office. Each of the parties to the compact is willing to stultify itself and form alliances with elements which it has heretofore denounced as dangerous and unfit to be entrusted with power. Can good government come from such an alliance?

FIGHTING AT HOME AND ABROAD

Observation was made the other day of the fact that in one important respect the conditions of war in the east were almost the opposite of those in the west. In the east the American ships were to fight in strange waters, far from any base of supplies, and must conquer a port and coaling station for themselves, while the Spaniards were to fight at home, close to dockyards and supplies. In American waters, on the other hand, the Spaniards will be far from home and from any port of refuge save those they must fight to enter, while the Americans will be at home. That thus being at home gives a fleet a great advantage is obvious without argument.

Now the interesting feature of the case is that the American fleet in the east, fighting at the dangerous disadvantage of remoteness from a friendly port, has practically annihilated the opposing fleet and won the greatest and most decisive naval victory of recent times, and the Spaniards, enjoying the advantage of locations, have been overwhelmingly beaten. If such is the case in such circumstances, what may not be reasonably expected, a few days hence, when conditions are reversed, and the advantage of position is on the side of the Americans, and when we are using not mere cruisers and gunboats, but the most powerful line of battleships.

Mrs. Joseph Holberg returned from Seattle Friday evening. She left her daughter, Mrs. Knight, much improved.

The latest report from the war is that four American ships met defeat at Cein-fugas harbor after a bombardment of eight hours. It is not presumed that our ships met with much damage, but withdrew without accomplishing their full purpose.

LEEDY AND THE KANSAS MILITIA

Kansas is again suffering the penalty of its populist craze. If Governor Leedy had deliberately set about disgracing the office he fills and misrepresenting his state he could have taken no more effective way. As commander-in-chief of the Kansas militia he issued a peremptory order disbarring the national guards of the state and requiring that all arms and equipments be sent to Topeka at once.

In all the union there is no state that would brook this sort of disgrace with less patience than Kansas. It has always been intensely and aggressively patriotic. The pioneers, whether from anti-slavery north or pro-slavery south, were fighters. They went there because they had the courage of their convictions and were ready to fight for them. It was "bleeding Kansas." When the war came no state responded more promptly to the call for volunteers. After the war there was a large influx of veterans from states further east.

The policy of Leedy was dictated, it would appear, by petty politics. He wanted a chance to fill the Kansas quota with soldiers officered by his pets. It was as if Governor Tanner had broken up the existing organizations of the Illinois national guard and proceeded as if no militia were in existence, compelling the men of the guard to enlist as individual volunteers or not at all.

Politically as well as personally Leedy has made a fatal blunder. So far as he was individually concerned this does not matter much. He was an accident. But Kansas was the stronghold of populism. To have the chief executive of the state prove such a disgraceful failure in a crisis must disgust beyond measure the very men who elected him. It was bad enough for the populists of Kansas to elect a chief justice of the supreme court who knew no law, but it was still worse to put at the head of the state government a man who did not know any better than to disband the national guard in the midst of international war.

For district attorney, Capt. O. H. Irvine of McMinnville is the nominee. Mr. Irvine has never been up for office before, but he is well known as a lawyer of fine ability and thorough education. He resided many years in Linn county and was a leading spirit in national guard affairs for a long time, being captain of the Albany military company some years. Later he moved to McMinnville, where he has built up a good law practice and stands in the front rank of the profession. He is a man of determination and force, whose aim in the office of district attorney will not be solely to obtain the selfish glory of conviction, whether the accused be guilty or not, but to stand for justice and the majesty of the law—to protect the innocent against false accusations as well as to see that "no guilty rascal escapes."—Salem Daily Sentinel.

Hood's is the Finest

Spring Medicine—Tonic, Appetizer, Strength Builder

It Makes You Eat, Sleep, Work and Happy.

"We think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the finest Spring and family medicine. I had been bothered with headache while at my work, many a time having to go home, and loss of sleep, tired all the time, and getting up in the morning weak. I decided to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and felt better after three doses. I kept on taking it, and now I can go into the quarry and do a day's work and come home feeling well and always hungry. We have also been giving Hood's Sarsaparilla to our youngest child, who was weak, languid and losing flesh. We could soon see a marked change. He ate better, slept well, and in a little while was like a new boy. He has continued to improve, and today is lively as a cricket, and the neighbors say he can talk more than any man around the place." THOMAS WHITE, Park Quarries, Freedom, Pa.
