One thing has been more than demonstrated in the late war, and that is that the American boys not only beat those of any other nation fighting, but they can to a man write a first-class letter home. With a little work one can make a superb collection of mosaics from these war letters, and it will prove well worth the effort.

Prof. Louis Barzee, late of Drain normal school, and newly elected to the chair of English and German in McMinnville college, arrived with his family on Saturday, and are occupying rooms in the college building. His family consists of a wife and three children. The Prof. will publish a small paper, called "Our Little Friend."

Hon. C. B. Moores of the Oregon City land office accompanied Judge Galloway to McMinnville on Saturday and remained with him over Sunday at the fruit farm northwest of town. He is said to have given the Judge many valuable pointers on fruit evaporation and horticulture. Mr. Moores is among the most thoroughly versed fruit-growers in the state, and has a splendidly developed fruit tract at his Salem home.

David, the ten-year-old son of Martin Lynch, died of inflammation of bowels, early Wednesday morning. The deceased child was born in the college building, and for this reason the college management had agreed to educate the boy free of cost. He was sick about a week. The funeral occurred yesterday at 11 a. m., conducted by Rev. R. W. King. Interment was made at Amity.

The following teachers were granted certificates last week: State certificate, Lena Stilwell; first grade, Flora Blough, Mary Burrows; second grade, Eda Mills, Stella Smith, Gertrude Imus, E. F. Perkins, Mrs. Mary Watts, Frances Taylor, T. J. Allen; third grade, Rose Metcalf, Emma McAdams, Mildred Dougherty, Ora Delashmatt, Josie Hoffstatter, Ethel Norman. The papers of Miss Norman were sent to the board from Multnomah county.

Sergt. Fred Ramsey of the battleship Oregon, has sent to his father of this city the trophies he secured from the Cristobal Colon during the great naval battle and they were placed on exhibition at S. Howarth's place of business on Tuesday. They are a silver sugar-bowl and teapot bearing a monogram of two C's, surmounted by a crown, a pair of silk plush picture throws, which hung over pictures of the Spanish king and queen, and an elaborate silk curtain which hung at the entrance to Cevera's apartments, and two large tassels attached to a bow of heavy silk cord. They are very beautiful, and one can easily imagine the admiral shedding tears in parting with such surroundings. The silk goods were taken to Astoria yesterday by the Manila guards and will be exhibited as banners, and they will certainly attract much attention.

This office has just turned out an exempt certificate for the city fire boys, with which they are well pleased, and which we think is a neat piece of work. Quite a number of firemen are about ready to frame a sheepskin of this kind, having served faithfully and honorably for seven years.

As Uncle Dick Phillips was starting home Friday evening, his driving horse assumed an uncontrollable gait, due to the loosening of the shafts, causing the buggy to run sideways, and turning into the lane back of Mr. Hodson's residence, threw Mr. Phillips out and overturned the buggy. The horse ran into the fence at the other end of the lane and stopped. The fall rendered Mr. Phillips unconscious for a time and made it necessary for him to visit a physician's office and have some stitches taken in a deep gash cut in the fleshy part of the forearm.

Local bankers say that the new revenue law does not appreciably affect the number of bank checks drawn. It does have this effect, however: business men who formerly made several remittances by drawing a check for each, now lump the amount in one check and furnish a memorandum for the division to be made by the banks. There are those who believe that the stamp tax will outlive the war debt, and that it will be an equitable means of raising government revenue, and militate against the growth of trusts. Whether the people would pay the tax as cheerfully as they have for war purposes, should it be continued, remains to be seen.

A sad drowning occurred near Woods last Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. E. F. McLaughlin of Sheridan, who were spending a season at the coast, were returning up the Nestucca in a row boat from attending a dance at Ocean Park. Mr. McLaughlin had the oars, and his wife asked the privilege of learning to row. In changing position in the boat, she lost her balance and fell backwards into the river. The husband being unable to swim, and probably losing presence of mind and having but little time to act in the darkness, was unable to rescue the drowning woman. The body was recovered next day in three feet of water, the tide having gone out, and was brought home to Sheridan for burial. Mr. McLaughlin is one of the editors of the Sheridan Sun, and had been married but a few months. In his sudden and tragic bereavement, the heartfelt sympathy of all who learn of this accident will be extended to him.

Off for Astoria.

The Manila Guards left yesterday morning for the Astoria regatta, in high glee. There wasn't so much of a crowd at the train as there was when the soldiers left, but the war is over, and certain it is there would have been more had the soldiers been at home. Roll call on departure showed all present, to a girl. One boy remarked that there was powder enough on the girls' faces to blow up the whole crowd, but fortunately it wasn't the exploding kind. This boy had no sweetheart among them. The guards were accompanied by J. C. Cooper as commander, Mrs. Cooper as chaperon, J. A. Peckham as quartermaster, Miss Ina Cooper and Mrs. E. J. Wood. With so much youth and beauty gone from the city, what is there left? We couldn't hold an ice cream social now. But they will have a glorious time and here's hoping they will have a good night's rest for every weary day and a safe and happy return. They took with them some home-made poetry printed on manila slips, which has a warlike ring to it, and runs as follows:

Our hearts are sad and lonely here,
And many days they will be,
For those who crossed the ocean deep,
Our soldiers at Manila.
Yes, many thousand miles away
Their country has assigned them,
While lonely here compelled to stay,
Are the girls they left behind them.

We have enlisted for those boys,
With talisman and story;
Our stars and plumes will guard our joys
And we will guard their glory.
We want to guard them from disease,
From wounds and bad mosquitoes;
From lurking Spaniards in the trees,
And smiling Senoritas.

Our homes where rolls the Oregon,
Where birds are sweetly singing,
Where zephyrs come at early dawn
The rose's fragrance bringing,
Here vales of peace of war's alarms
Will nevermore remind them;
Those soldiers will surrender arms
To the girls they left behind them.

On the opposite side is the roster of membership, as follows:

The opening of the regatta by the queen's ceremonials will be splendid and border on the magnificent. The queen comes with her retinue of ladies and gentlemen in waiting, maids of honor, pages and escorted by the Manila Guards, in her royal barge, with 300 boats gayly decorated, filled with her subjects, in her wake. Upon arriving, she is welcomed by the mayor of the city, who gives her the keys of the city and dominion over the inhabitants thereof. After the queen is crowned and the ceremonials attending her arrival are finished, from her throne she commands the festivities of the regatta to commence.

The guards will be back about the middle of next week.

The Oregon annual conference of the M. E. church, which is to hold its session in this city, beginning Sept. 13, is a large representative body of men, whose coming among us will be the greatest event in the history of the county, and will be the means of making McMinnville widely and favorably known. There will be present at least one hundred and fifty or sixty ministers, thirty or forty of whom will be accompanied by their wives, which will make a delegation of about 200. Dr. Spencer of Philadelphia and Drs. Paine, Palmer, Hurlburt and Mains of New York with others from the same place will be present and ably represent the general interests of the church. Bishop McCabe, who will be accompanied by his wife, is the most popular bishop in the church. He will preside. It will be the most largely attended and enthusiastic conference ever held on the north Pacific coast. McMinnville people should show their appreciation of such an assembly by opening their homes and hearts to entertain its many representative delegates. We will all be generous enough to deny ourselves as far as possible the pleasure of having relatives and friends visit us at such a time, so that the conference, being well provided for, its many delegates will ever remember and appreciate their stay among us. We believe no other town of its size has a greater proportion of generous and hospitable people than McMinnville. Two or more delegates in each home will care for the conference nicely and make all happy. Dr. Spencer of Philadelphia and Dr. Palmer of New York will make addresses Tuesday evening, Sept. 13, and Drs. Paine and Hurlburt of New York Wednesday, and Bishop McCabe will speak on "Church Extension" Wednesday evening. A program for the entire session will appear in due time.
