CARLTON ITEMS.

Lee Peters and Geo. Thurston started to California Monday morning.

As I notice that Carlton is not represented in your columns will try to send you a few items each week.

Our school is progressing finely under the management of Prof. Haggerty. Miss Ida Smith has charge of the primary department.

Frank Hembree returned from the mountains the first of the week, his pack-horse laden with venison. We would appreciate an invitation to dine with him.

Senator W. A. Howe and Chas. Ladd of Portland brought in 180 ducks Monday as the result of a day's sport, and kindly remembered friends here by sharing with them.

The A. O. U. W. entertainment and basket sociable held here last Friday evening was a success. About thirty-two dollars were received from the sale of baskets, and was enjoyed by all those who attended.

The dryers have turned out a fine lot of dried prunes and apples, and have given a great deal of employment to the people here. They have closed for the present, but quite a number are still employed in packing the dried fruit and preparing it for shipment.

Among the improvements here the past summer are the building of the Christian church, a fine building which would be a credit to a larger town, and the store owned by Wm. Geldard and occupied by Dr. Coffeen's drug store, which is a neat and tastefully furnished building.

WILLAMINA.

P. R. Fendall recently returned from Portland, where he delivered a number of beef cattle.

Wonder if we can't get some of those Kansas rain producers to come and keep the wind from getting in the east.

Farmers are about all done seeding. They say Providence has been very lenient in the matter of good weather.

Last week John Schaller and Claud Mendenhall spent two or three days in the mountains hunting. They report a good time, but only got one deer.

If the east wind had continued for a month we believe everybody in this part of the country would have been sick. As it is, everybody has severe colds, and several of the pupils are absent from school on account of colds.

Last week we lost one of our young men. The principal mourners are the young ladies. Well, he didn't exactly die, and it is possible he may recover. His name is Wm. Booth, and he was married to Miss Annie Harrington. Both parties live in this vicinity.

People keep moving to town. We suppose it is on account of the moral atmosphere we breathe. A saloon where anybody, young, old, Indians and all, can get whiskey, whoop'er-up all night, and no marshal to bother them. Boys get drunk and ride up and down on the sidewalk whenever they like. Why shouldn't they move in?

A few days ago one of the most noted and best Indians on the reservation passed away, as they say, to the happy hunting ground. By industry and honest dealing, he acquired a liberal share of this world's goods, and his farms prove him to have been a thorough business man. He was for many years industrial instructor on the reservation. His name is Davis Holmes.

WHITESON.

G. W. Adams and family are moving back to Sherwood.

The Razor Paste show gave an exhibition in Whiteson Tuesday night.

Wm. Willis is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Willis, west of McMinnville.

A number of friends of Mrs. A. M. Hoffman gave that lady a birthday surprise party one evening last week.

Another runaway occurred at the jelly factory a few days since. The cider must be pretty strong to effect horses the way it does.

A. H. Graham and Dick Chalicombe, who have been working on the locks at Lafayette, returned to Whiteson last Monday.

A welcome party was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Fox one evening last week, in honor of their son's return. Everybody is glad to see Bobby back.

A. M. Hoffman has just completed a new woodshed for the house occupied by Miss Edith Percival and mother. Thos. Midgah has also treated himself to a good substantial woodshed.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

COLUMBUS.

Grace Morgan entered the ninth grade the first of the week.

Prof. Littlefield gave the ninth and tenth grades a short talk on the importance of attention.

Among our visitors last week were Colon Eberhard, Mr. Grissen, Florence Dielschneider, Mira Owens and Prof. Littlefield.

Among those who have been absent during the past week are Lizzie Hartman, Howard Heath, Tommy Hutcheus and Lucy Hillary.

COOK.

Thanksgiving comes on the 24th of November this year.

The enrollment of our school is as follows: Prof. Scott, 36; Miss Beamis, 47; Miss Mann, 53; Miss Williams, 41. Prof. Scott and Miss Beamis report no tardy marks for the past two months. Good.

Mr. Grissen came up Wednesday morning and gave a very interesting talk upon the late war, its cause, the role of Cuba, and the wonderful trip of the battleship Oregon. He said that if we ever expected to amount to anything we must apply ourselves.

Quite an interest is being taken in the debates on Friday evenings. The one last Friday was excellent. The literary program was very good, especially the talk by Prof. Reynolds on the subject of his old school days. The debate, resolved, That ancient wars were more destructive than modern wars are, was ably discussed by Messrs. Dodson and Barnhart against Messrs. Weed and Potter. The decision was rendered in favor of the negative.

Essays Called For.

PORTLAND, OR., Oct. 25, 1898.

The Oregon society of Sons of the American Revolution is an organization composed of descendants of ancestors who assisted in establishing American independence. Any male descendant of such ancestor is eligible to admission into the society. Its objects are purely patriotic and historical. One of them is to stimulate interest in the history of the American revolution and loyalty to its principles. For this purpose the society offers three prizes of $25, $15 and $10 respectively, for the best essay written by any student of any college, university, normal school, seminary, or academy in Oregon, on any one of the following three subjects:

1. George Rogers Clark, and the Winning of the West.
2. Paul Jones, and the Naval Warfare of the Revolution.
3. The Financiering of the Revolution; Robert Morris, Haym Solomon and Benjamin Franklin.

It is expected that essays will treat of the topics named in the foregoing subject. Individuals are named for the purpose of attracting the attention of essayists to the part taken by the individuals in the work which forms the general subject.

Essays are limited in length to twenty-five hundred words; must be written on legal cap on one side of the paper in the student's own hand writing, and must be accompanied by a certificate of the president or principal of the collegiate or academic institution attended by the author, to the fact that the author is a bona fide student thereof, and has been in attendance therein not less than six weeks during the school year of 1898-9. Essays must be forwarded to the chairman of the committee in charge, Wallace McCamant, 34 Concord building, Portland, so as to reach him not later than February 1st, 1899. In awarding the prizes, the committee will be governed by these three considerations:

1. Historical accuracy.
2. Manner of treatment.
3. Orthography, grammar, syntax and punctuation.

Similar prizes were offered by the society last year, and competition therefor confined to students in the public and high schools of the state. The results obtained were very gratifying to the society, and highly creditable to the students competing. This year the competition will be limited to students in collegiate and academic institutions as above named, and no person not a student thereof will be eligible to compete.

Any additional information relative to the competition which may be desired, will be cheerfully furnished by the chairman of the committee. The essay which is awarded the first prize will be published in full, with the name of the author, in the public press.

Committee.

On the Baby Battleship.

Captain and Mrs. Wyatt Harris have received another interesting letter from their son, Duncan, who writes from Cavite after a stay of three weeks at Hong-Kong. The Petrel was the only battleship of the original fleet which returned with a full crew, a fact which led Admiral Dewey to compliment the captain of the baby ship very highly on the stability of his men. In reply to the question how he liked the navy, and how he was treated by the officers, Duncan says:

"Any man's life either in the army or navy is just what he makes it. In the first place, military life is hard no matter how easy it looks to people in civil life, for it is as different from civil life as day and night, and until a man realizes and thoroughly understands this difference and can see why there is and must be a difference, the life is very apt to be very hard and at times almost intolerable; but after he becomes accustomed to the routine of the life and his duties, the necessities of this difference become more and more apparent, and he begins to take an interest in it, and if he is a man of steady and energetic habits he is sure to advance from one grade to another, and a man must be of such habits to get along."

Concerning the giving of credit for the late victories of war he says:

"There is considerable envy throughout the squadron of Sampson's fleet in regard to going to New York and getting a grand reception, and we still out here, and we all consider that altogether we have had the hardest time of it, and when we do get back everything will be stale and forgotten, and we will be treated like any other old squadron that has been off for a foreign cruise; but I suppose we should not complain. There is, however, an injustice done the regular army in the United States by giving the volunteers all the credit of the battles before Santiago, for when it comes down to hard campaigning, fighting and all around soldiering, the regulars can leave the volunteers clear out of sight. I would not cast any reflection on the volunteers for anything, but facts count, and I have the utmost confidence in the American volunteer, but to come down to absolute facts, it is impossible to throw undisciplined men in the field and expect them to carry on warfare in a manner equal to trained men whose business it is to fight. The volunteers at Santiago deserve the greatest credit, but at the same time the regulars should not be forgotten. Our army and navy has been scoffed at for a long time, not only by foreigners, but by people in the United States, who call themselves American citizens, who say they are manned by hoodlums and men who are too lazy to make a living outside; but I can say, from what experience I have had in the army and navy, that the personnel of both will compare favorably with any equal number of men of corresponding ages you will find anywhere outside of the great professional lines. It makes me feel proud to know that I was fortunate enough to be one to help vindicate the integrity of our navy. The greatest fault in our army and navy is the enlistment of foreigners who come in purely for what money there is in it, and who fight because they have to. If the government wants to man her ships with men of her own, she should keep the foreigners out, for a foreigner somehow manages to get all the best appointments in the navy and it is very exasperating for an American to come into the navy and be subject to the orders of a man who never knew what it was to own himself before he came to America, but such is the case. There are men in our navy today who can only communicate with their shipmates and officers by means of an interpreter; you may not believe it, and it will be denied by a great many naval men, but it is a fact. As it is, our army and navy, in proportion to men, stands second to none in the world; but how much grander it would be if we could say that our army and navy was manned by Americans, and how much further ahead of any other nation we would stand if such was the case. * * * To draw a picture of our own little ship: this is Sunday afternoon and no work is going on, and as I am writing here in the port gangway, on one side of me is a gang of Irish talking about and glorying the corruption the Irish have brought into the United States, and of the abilities of prize fighters; on another side is a crowd of Germans talking about the glory and power of the German army and navy; while in different parts of the ship you can see the native Americans reading the papers, writing, or cleaning up their clothes. It is not much, and it is an every-day occurrence, but it shows the natural tendencies of the different natures, also it shows where the chief interest lies.

"Give my kindest wishes to the girls who compose the Manila Guards, for it is just such loyal and patriotic hearts that made our nation what it is, and it is their duty to make it what it will be in the future. * * * *"

"While testing our diving outfit last week we were near the spot where a torpedo boat was sunk on May 1st. I asked permission to look for it and my request was granted, and after quite a search I found it. It was the worst looking object I ever saw. It was completely shot to bits. In looking her over I estimated that fully 500 shots had hit her, and they all struck her inside of two or three minutes, as she was not in sight longer than that. There was a torpedo in her bow tube."

A Sure Sign of Croup.

Hoarseness in a child that is subject to croup is a sure indication of the approach of the disease. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has appeared, it will prevent the attack. Many mothers who have croupy children always keep this remedy at hand and find that it saves them much trouble and worry. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant to take. For sale by S. Howorth & Co.

Probate Court.

Estate of Jacob T. Williamson. Objections to the probate of will filed and citation ordered to be issued to executors to show cause why will should not be set aside, and Monday, Nov. 22nd, set to hear same.

Estate of Chas. P. Murray. Final account approved, administrator discharged and bondsmen exonerated.

Estate of Cyrus Smith. Petition to sell personal property granted as prayed for. Personal property exempt from execution set apart for widow as prayed for. Estate of John C. Hoffman. First semi-annual account filed and approved.

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with a pain in the neck or side, or a lame back, give it a trial. You are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. For sale by S. Howorth & Co.

Farm for Sale.

A good farm of 100 acres, well improved. One-half mile to graded school, one and three-fourths mile to town; 60 acres in wheat. A bargain. For particulars, call on or address

From New Zealand.

REEFOT, New Zealand, Nov. 23, 1896. I am very pleased to state that since I took the agency of Chamberlain's medicines the sale has been very large, more especially of the Cough Remedy. In two years I have sold more of this particular remedy than of all other makes for the previous five years. As to its efficacy, I have been informed by scores of persons of the good results they have received from it, and know its value from the use of it in my own household. It is so pleasant to take that we have to place the bottle beyond the reach of the children. E. J. SCANTLEBURY.
